12 Americans Reported Virtual Prisoners at Cristo.

Situation Grave; 23 Ships Guard

Counter-Revolt Crushed; Another Reported Forming.

(Associated Press.)

Increased possibility that United States troops might be forced to land in Cuba was felt last night by administration officials as diplomatic reports related possible mob violence against an American factory and other troubles appeared on the island.

At Manzanillo, on the southeastern coast, the department was advised that an increasingly tense labor situation has resulted in threats against an American-owned ice factory and a Spanish shoe plant.

Consul Sends Report.

The American consul at Santiago reported visiting Cristo, not far away, where 12 Americans were held virtually as prisoners. He advised that the tension was relaxed somewhat, but gave no word of the release of the men.

In Santiago, advices said, an army sergeant sat in the mayor's chair, while that official, as well as the governor of the province, were in hiding after handing in their resignations on the heels of a Communist demonstration.

Several Americans were reported by the State Department to be moving at all possible speed toward the United States naval base at Guantanamo Bay. Officials said no information was on hand here as to whether Americans were in the Manzanillo ice factory, not far away.

At the department, all questions as to how grave the situation was considered were left unanswered. The understanding was given that anything said officially might adversely affect conditions in which the United States has not yet taken a hand.

Grave Situation Seen.

In informed quarters elsewhere, however, the belief was expressed that the situation in the island as far as the United States was concerned had become moro grave than at any time since provisional President Grau San Martin took office.

The Navy has lengthened its string of ships around the island. It has 23 war vessels in Cuban waters, including a concentration of eight destroyers at the Guantanamo base.

New Revolt Crushed.

(Copyright, 1933, by The Associated Press.)

Havana, Sept. 15 (AP).—The new Cuban government today disposed of one revolution, heard rumors of another uprising and took stronger measures against 500 former army officers who have barricaded themselves in the Hotel National and demand that Ramon Grau San Martin step out as president.

The army general staff announced that approximately 20 rebels who started a subversive movement last night in Pinar Del Rio Province had surrendered near Consolacion Del Sur. They were under the leadership of Capt. Fernando Aran.

Ford to Hire Legionnaires

Will Add 5,000 Veterans to Factory Force in Detroit.

Detroit, Sept. 15 (AP).—Officials of the Ford Motor Co. today revealed they had authorized the Wayne County couhcil of the American Legion to employ 5,000 men—all war veterans—for work in the company's plants here.

The company, which has not signed the NRA automotive code, said the addition of the 5,000 veterans "had nothing whatever to do with the NRA, but with the expansion of production."

One official said that with the additional employment the total number of Ford workers in the Detroit area will be approximately 50,000.

Tobacco Man's Salary Of $1,600,000 Assailed

Kansas City, Sept. 15 (AP).—George Washington Hill, president of the American Tobacco Co., was the target of Representative Joseph B. Shannon, of Missouri, in an address here today in which the speaker denounced "tremendous salaries."

"His name is a living contradiction," Shannon declared. "His salary and commissions last year totaled $1,600,000—too much for any one man—while others starve."

Woman Lawyer One of Trio Arrested

MISS ELSIE A. CANNON,

2 Men, Woman Held in Alleged Priest Gouge

Brothers and Feminine Lawyer Arrested on Mulcting Charge.

Two men and a woman were arrested last night on orders of United States Attorney Leo A. Rover after they had allegedly demanded $19,000 from the Rev. Charles O. Rosensteel, pastor of St. John's Catholic Church, of Forest Glen, Md.

The trio gave their names as Miss Elsie Cannon, a lawyer with offices in the National Press Club Building; Richard J. Brinker and Charles Karl Brinker, both of 1420 Holly street northwest.

They will be charged today, Mr. Rover said, with conspiring to obtain money from Father Rosensteel through false pretenses.

Threatened to Sue.

Complaint of parishoners of St. John's Church led to the arrests. An investigation based upon the complaint showed, it was said, that the Brinkers, brothers, already have obtained $24,000 from Father Rosensteel.

It is said they were demanding an additional $19,000 on the alleged threat that unless the money was paid, suit would be instituted against him or he would be reported to his church superiors.

Inquiry developed, Mr. Rover declared, that in 1932 the Brinkers had done work on St. John's Church. This work has been currently appraised as approximating $1,600 in cost, but on the basis of their work the Brinkers obtained $24,000, insisted upon $15,000 additional Wednesday, and yesterday raised their demands to $19,000.

Charge Investigated.

Detective Earl P. Hartman, of Washington, and Sergt. Earl Thomas, of the Takoma Park (Md.) police force, went to the church yesterday, it was alleged, and listened to the Brinkers and Miss Cannon as they were demanding the increased sum On the way back to Washington the three were arrested.

Father Rosensteel is 78 years old. He has been associated with St. John's 49 years. The work done on the church consisted of shingling the bell tower and repairing various parts of the building.

Miss Cannon received three degrees upon her graduation from National University. The degrees included bachelor of laws, master of laws and master of patent law. She was named a U. S. Commissioner of the Court of Claims in 1927.

Attorney General's Aid Hurt in Crash

Robert L. Vann Collision Victim in Maryland.

Hagerstown, Md., Sept. 15 (Spl.).—Robert L. Vann, Pittsburgh, special assistant to the Attorney General, en route from Washington to Pittsburgh, was seriously injured late today with five Negroes, two women and three men, when two cars were in head-on collision on the National highway, 4 miles east of here.

Vann's skull is believed to be fractured.

John Ely and Issia Sims, both of New Salem, Pa.; John Sims, of Uniontown, Pa., and Nanhie Ely and Althie Rutland, of Footdale, Pa., were en route from Uniontown, Pa., to Washington when injured.

The injured were brought to the hospital here in an ambulance.

Live Wire Kills Mule; Entire Town Darkened

Seneca, Mo., Sept. 15 (AP).—This town of 1,000 was thrown into darkness by the death of a mule. The animal had been tied by a chain while grazing. The chain came in contact with a fallen power wire, killing the animal. Power plant employes had to shut off all current in the city while the mule's body was being removed.

Job Increase During August Set at 750,000

(Associated Press.)

Labor Department officials yesterday estimated an employment gain of 750,000 and an increase of $12,000,000 in factory pay rolls in August over July, but Secretary Perkins cautioned that the upturn should not occasion any ballyhoo that hard times are gone.

"This is not the time to throw hats too high in the air," she said, and then recalled that November, December and January normally show reverses.

She said employment was still 28.4 per cent and pay rolls 48 per cent below the 1926 normal average, and while August figures were encouraging, "we must try soberly to reach that normal peak."

The employment gain since March was placed at 2,200,000, of which 1,500,000 were factory workers.

Employment in the cotton textile industry from March to September was reported by George A. Sloan, president of the cotton Textile Institute, to have increased by 145,515 workers.

The industry had an average of 320,400 employes in March. This increased to 465,915 on September 1, carrying the number 20,000 beyond the 1926 average.

Pay Roll Increase Huge.

Monthly pay rolls, Sloan reported, increased from March to September by $13,200,000.

Sloan informed Administrator Hugh S. Johnson that while the economic and credit position of the industry has improved from its "disastrous situation" in the early spring "the mills, generally speaking, have not as yet reached a position where interest on investment is assured."

Beer Drinking Banned In College Frat Houses

Norman, Okla., Sept. 15 (AP).—University of Oklahoma authorities today banned drinking of 3.2 beer in fraternity and boarding houses. Violators will be disciplined.

(Associated Press.)

Recommendations for fixing the price of oil and gasoline were before Secretary Ickes yesterday but will not be acted on before Monday. Time was necessary for the Secretary's experts to go over the figures, submitted by the Oil Planning and Coordinating Committee.

Meanwhile, another report emanated from the committee that the gasoline price war was spreading on the Pacific coast, but administration sources felt there was nothing in the situation that could not be remedied without price-fixing.

Coal Leaders Reach Accord In Code Fight

Miners' Chiefs Approve Measure; 40-Hour Week Adopted.

Only the 24 hours of grace given them by President Roosevelt brought agreement. Debate among the operators was detailed and would have been prolonged had it not been for the deadline.

Representatives of the miners, reminded of the acute situation by Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, recovery administrator, took the code back to their groups with the recommendation that it be approved. Johnson said he would wait in his office through the night to hear of the requisite approvals.

Backed by Major Groups.

The code, Gen. Johnson said, was approved by representatives of operators producing 90 per cent of the bituminous coal of the Nation.

Later, Johnson issued a statement saying:

"After all-day conferences a coal code agreeable to the conference representatives has been approved for recommendation to groups of individual operators and associations of producers to whom copies have just been delivered and are now under consideration for action at the Shoreham Hotel. The conferees represent a very large majority of the national tonnage."

Johnson Phones President.

Achievement of an agreement in the long-drawn-out battle was telephoned President Roosevelt by Johnson. When the President Thursday night gave the operators 24 hours to get together, the implication was that he intended to step into the picture and impose a code drafted by himself and Johnson.

The fact that all signatures were not attached to the code last night was not regarded by the President or Johnson as a further delay.

Formal signing of the code is expected to be completed today. It will be rushed at once to the President for approval.

Week Set at 40 Hours.

The code as agreed to was reported changed somewhat from that proposed to the industry by Johnson.

A primary change was the fixing of a 40-hour work week. There were changes also in the proposed basic rates of pay, in employment and check-off provisions and dates of future conferences to amend code provisions.

One of the major changes was advancement of the age limit for child labor from 16 to 17 years. This is the highest age limit prescribed in any code so far.

The code carried out Johnson's

Amtorg Balks At R.F.C. Terms

Agreement on Huge Loan Believed Near in New York.

New York, Sept. 15 (AP).—Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the R. F. C., conferred with officials of the Amtorg Trading Corporation today to complete plans for a credit of between $50,000,000 and $75,000,000 to the Soviet agency, the Herald Tribune says.

The Reconstruction Corporation, it was learned, stands ready to advance the funds and the Amtorg officials were reported ready to close as soon as an agreement is reached on the interest rate, maturity and the amount of purchase price paid down.

The officials of Amtorg, it was indicated, are trying to drive a hard bargain. The recent loan of approximately $4,500,000 for the purchase of cotton bore interest at 5 per cent, payable in one year.

They were in Detroit several days conferring with the Ford Motor Co. on plans for a purchase of equipment. Their contract recently expired and a new one, it is understood, is being negotiated.

M. J. Insull Loses Extradition Point

Toronto, Sept. 15 (AP).—Martin J. Insull, brother of Samuel Insull and a former Chicago public utilities magnate, lost a point today in his legal fight to prevent extradition on charges of embezzlement.

Justice Wright ruled that Insull may not appeal from a judgment refusing appointment of a commission to hear witnesses in Chicago on points raised in asking for extradition.

Insull now is living in Orillia, Ontario.

Police Hunt Long For Man Living Next to Station

Early in the summer Robert Smith, 214 Thirteenth street southeast, was assaulted and robbed. Police suspected Whitehead did the job and put his picture in their files.

Yesterday F. Arrington, detective at the Fourth Precinct, was looking over pictures in the "wanted" file. He was fingering Whitehead's picture when he glanced out the window into the yard next door.

There was the man whose picture he held. A squad surrounded the place and captured Whitehead. He was charged with holdup and robbery after he was identified by Smith.

Whitehead said he had lived next door to the station several months.

Road Program For Maryland Aids D. C. Area

Officials Prepare to Lay $12,367,414 Project Before U. S. Today.

Important projects in nearby Montgomery and Prince Georges counties were included in the $12,367,414 road construction program for Maryland approved yesterday.

The program was approved at a Baltimore conference between Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, George L. Radcliffe, regional director of Federal Public Works for Maryland, the Maryland Committee on National Recovery Projects and the Maryland State Roads Commission.

It will be presented to Federal authorities today.

Among principal items affecting the area adjacent to Washington are:

Widening of the Baltimore and Annapolis road from Brookland toward Annapolis and to include any expenditure on a proposed connection between Fort Smallwood-Gibson Island Highway and the Anne Arundel end of a proposed additional route between Washington and Annapolis by way of Camp Parole, the new South River Bridge, Davidsonville Hall Station and Central avenue.

This route will be one mile shorter than the Defense Highway, $500,000.

Senators Press Inflation Drive

Thomas Wires for Views of His Colleagues.

(Associated Press.)

In the face of White House silence on what may be done, senatorial advocates of a currency inflation that would lift prices and stabilize monetary values yesterday widened their campaign.

Senator Thomas (Democrat), Oklahoma, a leader of the Senate inflation group, wired a request to all senators to send their views to him for presentation to President Roosevelt.

Thomas, in his telegram, said:

"Senators Harrison, chairman of Finance; Fletcher, chairman of Banking and Currency; Smith (Democrat), South Carolina, chairman of Agriculture, are urging President Roosevelt to use rational inflation immediately as means of increasing commodity prices and to assist farmers, producers, weak and closed banks and NRA program. If you concur in such recommendation, please wire me here so that your message may be presented to Chief Executive."

Aviatrix Is Killed Clinging to Cockpit

Plane Rises Suddenly as Titled Flier Climbs in.

Brooklands, England, Sept. 15 (AP).—Clinging to the cockpit of a plane which started as she was climbing in Lady Clayton-East-Clayton was thrown out and killed today as the machine turned over. Her skull was fractured.

Lady Clayton, an amateur pilot, was the widow of the explorer, Sir Robert Clayton-East-Clayton, who died last year from a mysterious disease contracted on an airplane and motor journey in an unsuccessful search for a lost desert oasis.

Airport officials were unable to determine the cause. Police quoted witnesses as saying Lady Clayton was in the cockpit, but fell as the ship began to rise.

Black Cat Drives Man From Girl's Bedroom

St. Louis, Sept. 15 (AP).—A black cat brought Miss Dorothy Harris good luck today when it leaped on a burglar in her bedroom. She awakened and asked the man what he wanted.

"Don't move or I'll shoot," he said. Then her pet black cat jumped on him and, in the confusion, she got out of bed and screamed for help. The burglar fled.

Tampico Suffers Most Damage; Wires Down in Stricken Area.

Brownsville, Tex., Sept. 15 (AP).—F. S. Pier, manager of the Pan American Airport at Tampico, late today sent a radiogram to the New York offices of the company, saying 32 persons had been killed and about 1,000 left homeless by the tropical hurricane which struck the Mexican city today.

Pier said a great amount of property damage was caused by the storm. He told of having to ride horseback two hours to get from the city to the airport.

Wind Velocity High.

A report from Tampico to the Pan-American airport here said the wind velocity reached 60 miles an hour last night, but the gales stopped early in the day.

A Mexican Telegraph Company office manager at Tampico notified his Galveston office that heavy rains had flooded low sections.

A miniature tornado, which blew down a frame dwelling northwest of Brownsville, injuring seven Mexicans, was regarded as an offshoot of the hurricane. About the same time the wind velocity at Port Isabel, on the Gulf coast northeast of Brownsville, reached 100 miles an hour for a four-minute period.

Storm Area Cut Off.

Mexico City, Sept. 15 (AP).—With all communications to the northeast Coast of Mexico interrupted, the country waited anxiously tonight for news of the tropical storm which struck this morning with hurricane force.

Wire lines were destroyed and wireless communications broken. North of Tampico winds reached a maximum velocity of 75 miles an hour, but it was impossible to determine what damage was caused.

France Maps Arms Control

Plan Approved by Paris to Be Laid Before U. S. Seeking Accord.

Paris, Sept. 15 (AP).—The disarmament policy of Premier Daladier and Foreign Minister Paul-Boncour, understood to be based on a scheme for international arms control and limitation of military forces to the present level during a fixed number of years, was approved today by the cabinet.

The plan also was said to include a stand against disarming further until the control plan proves effective.

This policy will be discussed next Monday and Tuesday here by the French officials with Norman H. Davis, American Ambassador-at-Large, and Capt. Anthony Eden, British Foreign Office Undersecretary. The government hopes to strike an agreement with the United States and Great Britain on a program for the disarmament conferences at Geneva.

Dollfuss Dooms All Old Parties

Plans New State Built on Guild System.

Vienna, Austria, Sept. 15 (U.P.).—Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss intends to dissolve all the old political parties and clear the ground for the construction of a "Staendische" State—one built on the old Middle Ages guild system, the United Press learned tonight.

The Christian-Social party already has been transformed into the "Fatherland Front," and the Landbund into the "National Staendische Front." These, with the Heimwehr (home guards), virtually monopolize the field.

Dictatorship on Grain Created by Germany

Berlin, Sept. 15 (U.P.).—The German government tonight enacted a law virtually establishing a grain dictatorship.

The law authorizes the minister of agriculture to regulate prices, production and sales of farm products, establish an organization including all agricultural producers and merge any number of enterprises producing and selling agricultural products.

Lindbergh Discusses Swedish Air Problems

Stockholm, Sweden, Sept. 15 (U.P.).—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was received by Premier Albin Hansson today. He later met with the aviation authorities and discussed Swedish aviation problems.

He expects to depart shortly for Europe prior to returning by boat to America.

Debuchi Will Keep U. S. Envoy Post

New Foreign Minister Honors Old Friends.

Tokyo (Saturday), Sept. 16 (U.P.).—Katsuji Debuchi will remain as Japanese Ambassador to the United States, Koki Hirota, new foreign minister of Japan, said today.

"Debuchi is one of my oldest and closest friends," Hirota said. "I have no intention of replacing him."

Politically, he is closer to strong Nationalists and the army group than was his predecessor, Yasuya Uchida, who resigned because of illness earlier this week.

Hirota recalled that at one time he was secretary under Ambassador Debuchi, when the latter was a charge d'affaires.

"It's funny, isn't it?" he said.

Residents "Dig In" at Norfolk Against Storm

Dwellers Along Beach Flee; Windows of Stores Are Barred.

Norfolk, Va., Sept. 15 (AP).—With the memory of last month's hurricane fresh upon them, Norfolk residents today began to "dig in" against the tropical storm heralded all day long by radio, by word of mouth and by fitful gusts of wind and occasional rains.

The Norfolk Weather Bureau at midnight reported the barometer had fallen to 29.72. For the preceding six hours it had fallen slowly but steadily from a 9 a. m. reading of 29.90.

A wind velocity of more than 60 miles an hour was expected at the height of the storm, and excessively high tides were to be expected about 7 a. m. A wind of between 30 and 35 miles an hour had been blowing here since nightfall. A driving rain started late in the night.

Coast Guard communications officials had one report from the cutter Pamlico, relaying messages from Hatteras. It said high tides prevailed in the vicinity of New Bern and Cape Lookout in North Carolina.

Whipped by a 40-mile gale, a fire wiped out a two-story cottage on the ocean view resort waterfront.

Citizens of Willoughby, hard hit by the storm of August 23, began evaucating early this afternoon. By dusk this section was almost deserted.

Along the bay and around the ocean front from Cape Henry to Virginia Beach precautionary measures were taken. Clouds that whipped up from the northeast added to the apprehension.

City Manager I. Walker Truxtun today caused a warning to be broadcast each 30 minutes.

In Norfolk proper, great preparations were being taken. In the downtown business district, flooded so disastrously last month, merchants were adopting extraordinary measures to protect their buildings and stocks. There was an air of apprehension everywhere.

In Willoughby and Ocean View sections, trucks, private automobiles and taxicabs throughout the afternoon were evacuating the householders. Those who preferred to stay boarded up windows and piled sandbags against underpinning of their houses.

Japanese Attempts Suicide in Protest

Opposes Death Doom for Assassins of Premier.

Tokyo, Sept. 16 (Saturday) (AP).—As a protest against the prosecution's demand that the accused assassins of Premier Suyoshi Inukai be executed, Ensign Kazuo Fukuda today attempted suicide aboard the airplane carrier Kaga by harakiri, the immemorial method of the Samurais.

A powerful movemnet has sprung up in behalf of the accused men among the ultra-nationalist elements, who claim the asssasination was motivated by patriotism.

Ecuador's President Supported by Officers

The commander and a majority of officers at the local garrison decided to appear before the presidents of both legislative chambers and demand that Congress cease its campaign against the executive

Hurricane Is Expected to Hit Coast Near Cape Lookout.

Whirling its way along a wide area of the Atlantic seaboard, another tropical storm approaching hurricane proportions advanced on Washington last night.

Indicating the Capital was directly in the path of a terrific gale and torrential rains, the Weather Bureau issued hurricane warnings shortly after 10 o'clock last night.

J. J. Murphy, in charge of the Weather Bureau at Norfolk, late last night said the full force of the storm would be felt in the Norfolk area this morning between 6 and 9 o'clock and the center would pass there this afternoon.

As warnings were posted from Charleston, S. C., to Boston, relief workers of the Red Cross were dispatched from national headquarters here with orders to proceed to Raleigh, N. C.

Workers already in Virginia were told to stand by, while chapters throughout the affected area were urged to adopt preparedness measures.

Heads for Atlantic City.

A northeast storm was headed in the direction of Atlantic City. The wind attained a velocity of 40 miles an hour.

Alarmed by weather reports that a hurricane would strike Maryland, residents along the Annapolis water front were taking every precaution.

Extraordinary measures also were being pursued at the Naval Academy, which suffered heavily in the last storm. Special attention was devoted to protecting the fleet of small boats.

Regions of Chesapeake Bay and the lower Potomac River have been warned. With one life lost when a member of an oil tanker crew was washed into the rolling seas off Cape Hatteras, coastwise shipping was at a standstill shortly after dark last night.

Predict High Winds.

Winds throughout this section were predicted to reach a velocity of 60 miles an hour and upward. Should the storm strike with full force, Weather Bureau officials announced, its intensity would be greater than last month's gale.

Lashing effects of the storm are expected to be greatest in the Carolinas. Forewarned, residents along the coast are fully prepared to receive its brunt.

A steady rain drenched the entire Atlantic coast throughout yesterday. Passengers' air schedules were canceled. Baseball games were postponed and air mail flights were discontinued.

At Newark, N. J., cellars were flooded, sewers washed out and at least one big industrial plant suffered damage from the driving rain. Wooden paving blocks at Montclair, N. J., were washed from the streets.

"It is at present too far away," they reported, "to say whether Washington will receive full force or part of the storm."

Carolinas Prepared.

Wilmington, N. C., Sept. 15 (AP).—Winds of gale force buffeted the Carolina coast late today, claiming two lives, and hurricane warnings were displayed from Wilmington to Norfolk, as a tropical hurricane moved toward the Atlantic seaboard.

A member of the crew of the motorship Sun was washed overboard by a tremendous sea off Cape Hatteras. The message to the Coast Guard did not give his identity. The other death was that of a colored fisherman.

Forerunner of stronger gales forecast during the night, when the storm center was expected to strike, in the neighborhood of Cape Lookout. Winds of 48 miles-an-hour velocity were recorded at Hatteras at 3:30 p. m. At the Virginia Capes the wind velocity was 32 miles an hour and similar winds were sweeping other coastal points.

Forewarned, the Carolinas coast,

Revenue Gains Hint Surplus Says Woodin

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Woodin returned to his desk yesterday, after a long illness, and said he thought the Treasury might show a surplus when the books are balanced at the end of the fiscal year.

Revenues are increasing in all classifications, he said, adding he looked for a tremendous upward surge between January 1 and June 30, when the fiscal year closes.

As he spoke, internal revenue officials throughout the country were occupied with their quarterly busy day, receiving the third installment of taxes on last year's incomes.

Meanwhile, the daily Treasury statement for September 13 showed receipts for the fiscal year exceeded ordinary expenditures by $8,435,780. Emergency outlays, in connection with the recovery program, however, changed this to a deficit of $249,006,265, as compared with a $730,464,470 deficit on the same date last year.

Woodin declined to predict the yield from liquor taxes, when and if prohibition is repealed.

Shop Plans Sale Of Valuable Books

Company Asserts Auction Caused Misunderstanding.

Sale of the most valuable books in the stock of the Rare Book Shop will be conducted soon. This was announced yesterday by Adam Weschler & Son Co., 915 E street northwest, in clearing up misunderstandings over the auction Thursday.

Part of the stock was sold to I. Singer, Brooklyn, after the bidding reached $1,500, which was in excess of the appraised valuation. It was pointed out that bankruptcy stocks, unless otherwise advertised, customarily are first offered as a whole.

Inspection of the stock was permitted only on the morning of the sale, and not days in advance, as reported.

Code Designed For Retailers

(Associated Press.)

A basis retail code within a week for the myriad stores over the land has been set as the goal of Hugh S. Johnson, the NRA director.

Upon his desk last night was a revised version of the retail charter, providing for price regulating, but believed to carry provisions for the protection of both the consumer and the small merchant.

Johnson said the code would not go to the White House until next week.

The present draft excludes drug stores. General stores dealing in drugs will be specificially regulated, however, in the general compact, officials said.

A provision that no goods shall be sold at less than the wholesale cost plus 10 per cent is a part of the code. It also includes a 21 per cent discount limit on trade-marked drugs and toilet articles whose retail price is fixed by the manufacturer.

Officials said basing retail prices on invoice cost, originally planned, would compel small independent dealers to get a greater discount from wholesalers or eliminate the wholesale profit entirely with their own manufactures.

Year Beginning At American U.

Freshmen Arriving Today for Adjustment Week.

Freshmen will arrive this afternoon at the American University, College of Liberal Arts, for the first events in the special Freshman Week program.

Following a recreation program this afternoon, and a dinner this evening, the students will be welcomed by Dr. George B. Woods, dean of the college. A discussion of the topic, "Why Go to College," will follow.

The program for tomorrow includes discussion of "The Place of Religion in College Life" and "Extra Curricular Activities." Tea in faculty homes, a vesper service and motion pictures of A. U. life will round out the day's activities.

Thin G. A. R. Ranks Off for Gathering

Washington's "Boys in Blue" will entrain once more today for an encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic at S. Paul, Minn. Time has thinned the ranks to a small delegation. The veterans will be accompanied by Sons of Union Veterans, Daughters of Union Veterans, Ladies of the G. A. R., and staff members of all patriotic organizations.

The group will leave in special cars on the Liberty Limited at 4:05 p. m. Following the convention the Century of Progress will be visited.

"Star of Stars" Contest Prize To Fred Foels

Winners Announced in Post-Warner Bros. Competition.

Washington contest fans must have been burning the midnight oil, judging from the many entries received in the Washington Post-Warner Bros. Metropolitan "Star of Stars" contest for "I Loved a Woman."

Thousands of entries came to the contest offices in the Earle Building in boxes, envelopes and packages of every shape and size. With a force of girls working steadily all day Friday opening the packages, the judges went to work and finished just in time to announce the winners before The Post press time this morning.

Nearly every identification of the stars was correct and the judges based their decisions on neatness and originality.

Rebound!

Judge Paroles Man Who Robbed His Home Six Years Ago.

Hammond, Ind., Sept. 15 (AP).—Joe Nick's parole must have been deserved.

He was serving a 20-year sentence for robbing the home of an East Chicago attorney six years ago. Yesterday a parole agent of the State prison board appeared before Judge William J. Murray, recommending the parole.

Judge Murray signed the petition. The agent queried:

"But you were not the trial judge in this case—?"

"No," was the court's laconic reply, "but I was the man who was robbed."

City Plan Body Pushes Ahead Airport Plans

Asks New Study of Closing Military Road, and Backs Slum Ending.

Preliminary steps toward pulling Washington-Hoover Airport out of the tank-town class were taken yesterday by the National Capital Park and Planning Commission. The commission also authorized further attempts to obtain public works funds for slum clearance.

Reacting to the campaign to give Washington a first-rate airport, the commission instructed its staff to restudy thoroughly the possibility of closing Military road.

The airport problem was brought to the board in a report by T. S. Settle, commission secretary, and John Nolen, jr., city planner. In its action on the report, the commission also approved study of the suggested change of land to enlarge the field.

Decision to renew efforts to obtain public works money to clear slums followed a report by John Ihlder, national housing expert and commission consultant.

Proposals to approve extension of George Washington Memorial Highway to Key Bridge, further Mall development, and development of parks in nearby Maryland were made to the commission by Mr. Nolen, but received no action. Eight possible sites suggested by him for the National Guard Armory will be acted on today.

Japan Moves For Expansion In North China

Huge Region Within Great Wall Will Be Added to Manchoukuo.

Peiping, Sept. 15 (U.P.).—The Japanese are preparing to annex a slice of North China with the Great Wall, foreign reports from border cities said today.

Dispatches, chiefly from Shanhaikwan, at the sea terminus of the wall, said Japan was preparing formally to add the Luantung triangle to Mnachoukuo.

This is an area about the size of New Jersey, lying north of Peiping and Tientsin, and extending up to the wall. It was made a neutral zone under the terms of the Tangku truce last May

The Japanese military mission at Shankaikwan ordered leading Chinese to bedeck the streets with signs of welcome for the Manchoukuo delegates, scheduled to take over the city before the end of the week.

Uneasiness was caused by dispatches indicating preparations among Japanese and Manchoukuo forces at Shanhaikwan to launch a punitive campaign shortly.

Reichstag Fire Suspect Aided

Witnesses Declare One of Five Accused Men Is Entirely Innocent.

London, Sept. 15 (AP).—Testimony that Ernest Torgler, former Parliament member and one of the five men charged with the burning of the German Reichstag Building last February, could not possibly have had any connection with it was presented today to the International Legal Commission investigating the fire.

The commission is hearing 15 witnesses in an attempt to determine responsibility for the fire originally charged to Communists. The suggestion that Nazis themselves planned the blaze has been placed before the group by Sir Stafford Cripps, Labor member of the British Parliament.

Rudolph Breitscheid, Reichstag member, testified he had known Torgler many years and had considered it "utterly impossible for him to have had anything to do with the Reichstag fire."

George Bernhardt, former newspaper editor, also declared Torgler could not be guilty and asserted that only the Nazi party could have received any benefit from such a deed.

He said that by accusing Communists, the German government could thereby oust them from membership in the lawmaking body.

Italy's Jobless List Grows.

Bridge Experts Play to Pick "The Champion" of Contract

New York, Sept. 15 (AP).—Thirty-six bridge champions started a three-day tournament today to select the 1933 holder of the individual master's gold cup.

Russell J. Baldwin, of Cleveland, director, scheduled the session to start at 2:30 p. m., but several of the players refused to play before the stock market closed, and the start was delayed an hour.

There will be afternoon and evening sessions through Sunday, with scoring on a match point basis.

Ely Culbertson declined to enter. Mrs. Culbertson played, however, and had Waldemar von Zedtwitz as her first partner.

Howard Schenken, holder of the title, played first with P. Hal Sims, who has won nearly all the bridge trophies there are, except the one at stake in this competition.

Willard S. Karn donated the gold chalice in 1931 and won it himself that year.

Officials Push Tobacco Price Increase Plan

(Associated Press.)

The big buyers of flue-cured tobacco, including leading cigarette manufacturers, worked yesterday with Farm Adjustment Administration officials toward an agreement to give the growers more for this year's crop.

Secretary Wallace, Farm Administrator Peek and other high officials met with a group of 25 buyers in the campaign to run up prices and keep them up.

Before the Carolina markets open, Adjustment Administration officials said, the buyers plan to have a definite proposal as to flue-cured prices.

The discussions will continue over the week-end.

Buyers were told the crop reduction campaign is progressing satisfactorily and that by next week almost 100 per cent of the growers are expected to be signed up.

Among those present were W. B. Ballou and L. H. Reed, of the Imperial Tobacco Co.; T. M. Anderson and Robert Harrison, of the Export Tobacco Co., and Kenneth Edwards, of the Universal Leaf Tobacco Co., all of Richmond, Va.

German Flays Critics Abroad

Foreign Minister Insists Nation Is Disarming, and Hits Meddling.

Berlin, Sept. 15 (U.P.).—A vigorous attack on Germany's critics abroad featured an address tonight by Foreign Minister Constantin von Neurath, before an assembly of foreign correspondents.

Von Neurath declared Germany is ready to make far-reaching concessions in disarmament measures, but doubted if others were. Attacking the nation's critics he said:

"Who is menaced? Nobody—but Germany * * * and Germany refuses to continue to countenance such a situation any longer."

He criticized the new methods being advocated internationally to deal with disarmament and protested against the "unauthorized intervention of foreigners in the Austrian question."

This reference apparently was against representations recently by France and Great Britain against Nazi propaganda designed to undermine the present government in Austria.

3,000 Taxis Parade For New Cuban Ruler

Havana, Sept. 15 (U.P.).—A honking stream of 3,000 taxicabs paraded through the city tonight and through the presidential grounds in a demonstration pledging support to provisional President Ramon Grau San Martin.

expected to bear the brunt of the storm, was fully prepared. Small craft scurried to shelter, vacationists moved from exposed sections of beaches and awnings and signs were wired down in cities.

Escaping Convicts Shoot Gate Keeper

Two Others Are Halted in Tennessee Break.

Nashville, Tenn., Sept. 15 (AP). Two prisoners shot and seriously wounded a gate keeper at the Tennessee State Penitentiary here today and escaped from the hospital inclosure.

They were Ed McChristian, colored, serving a life sentence from Memphis for murder, and Lonnie Taylor, of Knoxville, serving 20 years for robbery.

Two others attempted to escape but were stopped by guards. One, E. Casillas, was shot through the jaw when he failed to halt.

Warden A. W. Neely said the two obtained a pistol and apparently had planned the escape.

The gate keeper at the hospital, Ed Lowery, 64, a trusty, was shot in the back when he refused to admit McChristian and Taylor.

Once inside the hospital, the prisoners apparently joined Casillas and Lewis Willis, 25, and used a rope to scale the walls.

State Police Keep 30,000 Strikers Quiet

Only Two Minor Clashes Occur in Coal Fields of Pennsylvania.

Uniontown, Pa., Sept. 15 (AP).—Under the eyes of State police quiet prevailed today in the southwestern Pennsylvania soft coal fields, where more than 30,000 men are on strike.

Sixty State troopers were ordered to the area by Gov. Pinchot after disorders yesterday in which 17 men were wounded by gunfire and more than a score beaten.

Two minor clashes occurred today. Joe Beranek, assistant foreman at the Frick mine at Morewood, shot Carl Stohl, 30, in the leg after Stohl and two other pickets tried to prevent him from going to work.

C. H. Bubyauger, 57, a miner, was beaten by three men as he walked to work at the Frick Co.'s Edenborn mine, scene of disorder yesterday.

The "holiday" movement spread in Washington and Westmoreland Counties. In Westmoreland between 1,200 and 1,500 men quit. In Washington County all mines except three are closed and more than 10,000 men on strike.

Walters Is Held Ready to Quit

First Aid to Ickes Said to Object to Being Given Only Trivial Duties.

(Associated Press.)

Theodore A. Walters, of Idaho, First Assistant Secretary of the Interior, was understood authoritatively yesterday to be seriously considering handing in his resignation as a protest against the way the department is being run.

Walters, in answer to a direct question, smilingly said: "I have no present intention of resigning."

Coupled with reports of the contemplated resignation, current in senatorial circles as well as among friends of the official, was the private statement of several legislators that E. K. Burlew, aid to former Secretary Wilbur, was directing the department.

Burlew came to Washington 23 years ago under Civil Service rules. He was secretary to an Assistant Postmaster General under President Wilson. He went to the Interior Department 11 years ago. Those familiar with conditions in the department said Walters had been delegated by Ickes to handle purely routine matters of trivial importance. He is chairman of the Idaho Democratic committee, and his appointment was insisted on by Democratic Western senators.

Wagon Hitched To Starry Era Of Wine Agents

Pegler's Friend Plans to Rival Broadway Heroes of His Boyhood.

By Westbrook Pegler.

New York, Sept. 15.—Among other characters who made life a joy to persons engaged in the sport business during the boom was a tall, gray-haired young country boy from a Massachusetts farm. Soon everybody knew Frank Dailey, the ginger ale agent.

In those days ginger ale sold for $1 a bottle in the night clubs. Ginger ale stocks were quoted on the big board in Wall street.

Dailey was the agent for a new kind of ginger ale which came in an attractive bottle. It developed that New York politicians were the promoters of this particular brand, which was pushed into local speakeasies.

Somehow this monopoly did not succeed and Dailey drifted out of the business. I believe he went into potato chips and then into pretzels.

Two years ago Dailey married the widow of Tex Rickard. Here, too, he just missed success.

"Mother-in-law," Dailey said with a horrified gesture. "I tell you I had a terrible time.

"I'm in the beer now. Come down some night and drink some beer with me. But I am on my way to better things. Wait till they repeal prohibition and get the wine back. Then I am going into champagne. As a boy I used to read about the famous wine agents along Broadway.

"Next year my dream will come true and I will be a real man-about-town like Bob Vernon and all my boyhood heroes."

First Culpeper Queen Chosen; Feted by City

Tri-Carnival Paraders Make It a Gay Day Despite Rain.

All Culpeper shut up shop yesterday in deference to its new ruler—Queen Culpeper the First. With all the pomp and pageantry of bygone days they crowned Miss Frances Gilkeson Coleman their first Queen—and then proceeded to make merry.

Just after the town fire siren announced noon, the people flocked to the curbstones and a giant parade a mile and a half long began. An escort of State police led followed by Maj. John R. Kerrick on an old gray horse that you instinctively knew was built for comfort rather than speed—but, there wasn't any hurry.

Rain Doesn't Count.

Bright, shiny new automobiles carried the mayors of nine nearby towns and the officials of the parade and celebration. The occasion was the opening of the Culpeper Tri-Carnival at the old fair grounds—a celebration for the firemen, the American Legion and the Culpeper Band. Fire companies from all the nearby towns were present. So were contingents of the Legion. The Marine Corps at Quantico and the Army sent bands.

That it rained and drizzled all day didn't dampen the ardor of either the marchers or the crowds. They're used to rain down in Culpeper.

Behind the cars of the officials was Lum and Abner in a 1909 model automobile that lacked the necessary surefootedness to make it safe for the streets. Then there was a nicely decorated float entered by a business concern, followed by two gentlemen who spent anxious moments piloting a donkey down the center of the main street. Not that the street wasn't wide enough, but some one was always calling the donkey—and he knew most of their voices.

Sumptuous Coronation.

The queen's huge white float was drawn by four big bay horses with bells on the hames and red plumes in their bridles.

The queen, dressed in white regal robes with a long train was attended by two maids of honor and numerous pages, flower girls and a crown bearer. It was an array of the beauty of the Old South brought forth to amaze the present day.

At the fair grounds a throne had been prepared. The Marine Band played the processional. First there were two pages, Kavanaugh Thrift and Buddy Hyman, with bugles to announce the arrival of her majesty.

Then came attendants and two tiny flower girls dressed in bright yellow dresses. These tiny misses—Elaine Brown, 5, and Mary Gilmer, 4—strewed flowers in the path of the crown bearer, Page Tanner, and the queen.

The Mayor Shines, Too.

A dozen Virginia State police preceded the procession to the throne as a guard of honor.

The coronation ritual was read by the Rev. Francis Allison, of Culpeper. After the crown had been placed on her head, Queen Culpeper addressed her subjects in the grand stand of the fair grounds through the amplifier system and thanked them.

Too Friendly

"Friend" Who Pulled "Friend" From Bed Is Fined in Court.

Entering the home of his "friend" and threatening to pull him out of bed cost Claude E. Ritchie a fine of $5 in the Marlboro Police Court yesterday.

The warrant was sworn out for Ritchie by Thomas H. Ritchie. Both live at Ritchie Station.

The minimum jail sentence of one day was imposed by the court on William McKinney, of Baltimore. McKinney, charged with reckless driving and having no operator's license, was unable to pay a fine of $11 and costs.

Actress Asks Balm Verdict Be Set Aside

Miss Windsor Plans Appeal if Court Lets $75,000 Award Stand.

Los Angeles, Sept. 15 (AP).—The first move was made today in a fight to defeat a jury's verdict awarding Alfred C. Read, jr.'s divorced wife $75,000 damages from Claire Windsor, blonde stage and screen beauty, on charges that she stole his love.

Saying the damages are "excessive" and the findings unsupported by the evidence, lawyers for Miss Windsor filed a motion asking that judgment be given the actress, "notwithstanding the jury's verdict."

Trial Sensational.

The verdict was returned after a sensational trial in which the principals told from the witness stand the story of a romance between Miss Windsor and Read, former Oakland broker, who met her on a train journey two years ago.

The motion to overturn the jury verdict is expected to be acted upon soon. Before filing it, defense lawyers said they planned to enter a motion for a new trial Monday and, failing in that, to appeal the case.

Both Miss Windsor and Read who testified in her behalf and assumed all the blame for the suit, seemingly were shocked by the verdict, which they described as "unfair and unjust."

Actress Shocked.

The actress said it seemed "absurd to think that persons of mature minds could conscientiously vote such an excessive" sum of damages. The jury vote was 10 to 2 in favor of Mrs. Read, and 9 to 3 as to what damages would be awarded.

Mrs. Read was almost hysterical after the verdict, which she later described as "marvelous."

Thomas Thomas, jury foreman, said Read himself would have been reprimanded had it been legal to do so.

Mother Freed In Killing Case

Jury Finds She Did Not Aid Son in Slaying of Policeman.

Chicago, Sept. 15 (AP).—Deliberating less than two hours, a jury tonight freed Mrs. Rose Scheck, 50, of a charge of complicity in the slaying of a policeman for which her son, John, has been sentenced to death.

The State charged Mrs. Scheck smuggled to her son the revolver used in the killing of Policeman John Sevick eight weeks ago in the criminal courts building as John and a companion, both awaiting trial on bank robbery and murder charges, made an attempted break for freedom.

Convictions slowed down under the State's new law permitting a six months sentence for persons having reputations as law violators.

Rock Hall, Md., Sept. 15 (Spl.).—Oyster tongers, testing bars since the seasonal opening September 1, report encouragingly on quantity and quality of the Chesapeake Bay bivalves.

Prices are considerably above a year ago, and there is prospect of higher prices with cooler weather. The price opening day was 35 cents a bushel. Certain bars have been closed two months, to give young oysters opportunity to develop and to keep from flooding the market.

Lamson Jury Hears Murder Theory Lashed

Defense Urges Acquittal on Ground Wife Died in Accident.

San Jose, Calif., Sept. 15 (AP).—E. M. Rea, defense attorney, today pleaded with the jury holding the fate of David A. Lamson to accept the theory that Mrs. Allene Lamson died in an accident and not at the hands of her husband.

Rea argued that Lamson's actions were those of an innocent man; that he talked willingly to police officers and was not to be blamed for slight variations in his story while under emotional strain.

"Even if all the prosecution's allegations of marital unhappiness in the Lamson home were true—and they were not—that still would not constitute a motive," he said.

Love Triangle Denied.

He contended that Lamson's friendship with Mrs. Sara Kelley, Sacramento divorcee, was not the kind that bred in a man the desire to kill.

"The accident theory is the only reasonable one," he continued. "To that I will make one exception. An assailant could have stood in the bathtub and struck Mrs. Lamson as she stood between the tub and the washstand. But why would Dave Lamson or any one else do it that way?"

Rea argued that wounds in Mrs. Lamson's head showed they were caused by something with a much larger surface than the iron pipe which officers took from the bonfire the Stanford University Publishing House representative had been tending in the back yard.

Anatomist Criticized.

He attacked the testimony of Dr. A. W. Meyer, Stanford anatomist, that the head wounds indicated Mrs. Lamson was seized by the hair and beaten to death.

Rea declared blood stains on Lamson's clothing, introduced as evidence by the State, would have been far different if the accused man had murdered Mrs. Lamson.

The case is expected to go to the jury tomorrow after a closing argument by Deputy District Attorney A. P. Lindsay.

Yokohama, Japan, Sept. 15 (AP).—Toshio Shiratori, the man who made Japan's "foreign office spokesman" famous, sailed today for his new diplomatic post in the Scandinavian countries by way of the United States.

Shiratori, new minister to Sweden, Denmark, Iceland and Finland, will arrive at Vancouver, British Columbia, September 27, and then spend three months in America, which, for the last two years, has been the principal target of his verbal shafts.

Notables Brave Rain for Nevin Funeral Rites

Famous Newspaperman Gained Reputation as Flash Writer.

Before an outstanding gathering of newspaper correspondents, reporters, writers, statesmen and politicians, the remains of John Edwin Nevin, veteran newspaperman, were lowered to their last resting place yesterday afternoon in Columbia Gardens Cemetery, Arlington County.

Nevin, who had covered big stories in all parts of the world, died last Wednesday at Mount Alto Hospital after two weeks' illness. He was in his fifty-eighth year.

Funeral services were held at the Nevin home, Marion avenue, Clarendon, prior to brief services at the cemetery. Mr. Nevin was buried with Masonic rites.

Active pallbearers were Stephen T. Early, Warren Wheaton, Lorenzo Martin, Edward T. Folliard, Morton M. Milford, Ulric Bell, G. A. Terry and Raymond Clapper.

Flowers in profusion were sent by friends who came to the funeral in hundreds. Extra traffic policemen were placed on the highways leading out of Washington to care for the unprecedented crowds that braved the downpour of rain to pay final respects to "Jack" Nevin, hailed as one of the greatest flash writers that ever lived.

Committees attended from the Masons, the Odd Fellows, the Arlington County Democratic committee, National Press Club and the White House Correspondents Association.

Ruth Dickson Wed in Nevada

Nuptials Cause Surprise; Maitland Remarriage Had Been Expected.

Las Vegas, Nev., Sept. 15 (AP). The marriage of Ruth T. Maitland Dickson, of Washington, former wife of Lieut. Lester J. Maitland, noted Army flier, and Dewey Howard, 31-year-old Las Vegas taxi driver, was disclosed here today.

Mrs. Howard is the mother of Maitland's 9-year-old daughter, Patricia Ruth. After a divorce here in 1931 she married Cecil B. Dickson, of Washington.

Because of visits of Lieut Maitland here while Mrs. Dickson was establishing residence, friends expected them to remarry, and her marriage to Howard was a surprise.

They were married yesterday at Goodsprings, Nev. Mrs. Robert White was a witness.

Mrs. White is the widow of Bob White, slayer executed in the Nevada lethal gas chamber.

The bride is the stepdaughter of Dr. William A. White, superintendent of St. Elizabeths Hospital. She was divorced from Lieut. Lester J. Maitland, the first person successfully to fly the Pacific Ocean to Hawaii, in April, 1930. She married Dickson, a Washington newspaper writer, the following year.

Chilton's Daughter Wins Reno Divorce

Reno, Nev., Sept. 15 (AP).—Mrs Elizabeth C. Lowrey, daughter of fromer Senator William E. Chilton, of West Virginia, obtained a divorce on grounds of cruelty here today from Girard R. Lowrey, New York City. They were married in 1920 and have an 11-year-old son.

(Associated Press.)

President Roosevelt is withholding final decision on attending the American Legion convention at Chicago next month, but it appears improbable that he can be there or can visit the Century of Progress Fair, because of a conflict of dates.

"Ike" Hoover's Funeral Rites Slated Today

President and Cabinet to Attend Services for White House Aid.

Funeral services for Irwin H. ("Ike") Hoover, chief usher of the White House, will be at 2 p. m. today in the chapel at Glenwood Cemetery. Col. Julien E. Yates, chief of Army Chaplains, will conduct the services.

Although President Roosevelt offered the use of the Executive Mansion, where "Ike" served for 42 years, for the services, members of his family preferred a simple service at the cemetery.

News of the sudden death of Mr. Hoover early Thursday night, shortly after he had left his little office in the White House, was a shock to President Roosevelt, his family and all at the Executive Mansion.

President Roosevelt immediately wrote a statement of mourning in which he expressed his affection and appreciation of the chief usher whom he first met during the administration of President Theodore Roosevelt. He also dispatched messages to all persons still living under whom Mr. Hoover served.

The President likewise took an active interest in the funeral arrangements, and announced that he and the members of his Cabinet and his secretary, Louis McHenry Howe, would be honorary pallbearers at the service.

Mr. Hoover would have been 63 years old October 24. His death was caused by a heart attack at his home, 17 Rhode Island avenue northeast. He is survived by his widow and a son and daughter.

Herbert Hoover Shocked.

Palo Alto, Sept. 15 (U.P.).—Death of "Ike" Hoover deeply shocked former President and Mrs. Hoover.

"Irvin (Ike) Hoover served as a real steward of the White House for nearly 40 years with a faithfulness to each succeeding administration that won him the unique devotion of every President," Mr. Hoover said. "His sincerity and loyalty have never been exceeded by any Government family."

Count's Car Is Tres French; All But Motor—That's U. S.

In flowing French phrases made comprehensible by swinging arms and rolling head, the count sang the praises of this car in the lobby of the Mayflower yesterday.

No baggage can cramp the muscles and bang the knees of the count and countess. It's all carried outside, on the top and in the rear, in compartments of the count's design. The body is yellow and black with sky-blue and nickel trimmings. It won the "grand prix d'elegance au Concours de Cannes."

C'est vraiment manifique!

But beneath it all lies the chassis and motor of a well-known American-made auto.

On a tour of the United States and Canada, the count and countess stopped one night in Elmira, N. Y. There a reporter and interpreter cornered them, learned they dislike American haste, food, hotels, prices.

Death Sought For Kidnapers

Jury Is Chosen for Trial of Woman, Five Men in Luer Case.

Edwardsville, Ill., Sept. 15 (AP). After five days of questioning, a woman and five men late today saw the last man picked for a jury to try them for the kidnaping of August Luer, aged Alton packer. He was freed after ransom negotiations failed.

Circuit Judge D. H. Mudge recessed the trial until Monday.

At the side of Prosecutor L. M. Geers, who said he will ask the death penalty for the sextet, was Joseph B. Keenan, special Assistant Attorney General from Washington, head of the Government's offensive against kidnaping and racketeering.

Keenan said he would remain here a few days and then go to Oklahoma City, where persons accused of kidnaping Charles Urschel, wealthy oil man, are to be on trial next week.

The defendants are Mike Musiala, Charles Chessen, his wife, Lillian, Percy M. Fitzgerald, Randol Norvell, and Christ Nicola Gitcho, all of near Alton.

The contract of the H. W. Cord Co. to build the Keene School, an eight-room structure at Blair and Riggs roads northeast, was revoked yesterday by the District Commissioners.

The school building is about 60 per cent complete. Bids for its completion will be advertised as quickly as possible.

According to the contract the building was to be ready for pupils at the opening of the term this fall. Default of the contract makes this impossible.

The Federal Diary

Trademark Applied For.

By Morgan Baker.

BAKER.

Miss Janet Stevens, William E. Mitchell, their companions and a host of friends were present at sailing time last night at the Norfolk & Washington Line pier. Disappointment at the delay was soon forgotten and plans were begun for another send-off.

While awaiting reports of the hurricane and verification of the canceled sailing orders, the party had a gay time in the spacious main lounge of the beautiful S. S. Northland. Miss Stevens found in her stateroom a mass of flowers, a huge box of candy and other bon voyage presents—sent by her friends in the Bureau of Public Roads, Agriculture.

Tentatively, the party will leave next Friday afternoon for their all-expense vacations at the Cavalier Hotel, Virginia Beach, as guests of The Post. This depends on readjustment of leave by Mr. Mitchell, Veterans' Administration, and Miss Stevens, Agriculture.

Meanwhile we have received another dispatch from Chicago, where the winners of first prize and their companions are having a wonderful time. The weather in the Windy City so far has smiled on Miss Beulah Myles, Francis O. Panneton and company.

Meet Many Celebrities.

Chicago, Sept. 15 (Spl.).—There are other celebrities in Chicago aside from Miss Beulah Myles and Francis O. Panneton, winners in the Federal Diary popularity contest conducted by The Washington Post.

Making the rounds of the Chicago night clubs last night, Miss Myles and her party were seated at a table next to Jack Sharkey, who is in town for a bout with King Levinsky, popularly known as "The Kingfish." Mr. Sharkey's popularity, however, did not detract from Miss Myles, as she was radiant in a black evening gown, and her smile won her many compliments.

The floor show and dancing to a perfect orchestra at the Chez Paree, one of Chicago's smartest supper clubs, rounded out an evening of gaiety long to be remembered by all present.

Mr. Panneton and his companion visited the electrical building yesterday afternoon and came away with glowing reports on the wonders of the exhibits. Next came the Radio and Communications Building. Chief among the displays here is the advantage to be gained by use of various services offered by the Bell Telephone Co.

One particular attraction is the free telephone call which may be made by any visitor in the building to any portion of the United States, the only disadvantage being that any person in the audience may listen in to the conversation. Mr. Panneton called his home and the repartee was more than enjoyed by all the curious listeners.

As We Suspected!

After many little side stops, such as the popcorn house, the marble house, a little eating place made completely of agates, which would delight any little boy's heart, to say nothing of the older boys, a trip was made via the Skyline Towers, a cable-car route, 300 feet above ground and affording a perfect view of the fair grounds, to the mainland, and so to the Oriental Village.

Since viewing the floor show in the Oriental Village the paramount question is how Mr. Panneton can be persuaded to stay in Washington after seeing Sally Rand in her famous fan dance.

U. S. Indicts 10 In Smuggling

Molasses Firm Members Face New Orleans Court Trial.

New Orleans, Sept. 15 (U.P.).—The Federal grand jury here today indicted the Dunbar Molasses Corporation of New York, the Dunbar Molasses Corporation of New Orleans and ten persons associated with those companies on charges of violating the national tariff act.

It was reported here that the corporation, nationally known, is a subsidiary of a $40,000,000 Great Britain firm.

The indictment charges that among the overt acts constituting the alleged conspiracy black-strap molasses was smuggled into the United States and "false and fraudulent entries" were made into the books of the company to obtain refunds of duties on importations.

Edmond E. Talbot, U. S. District Attorney, who drew the indictment, said that the company had defrauded the Government of tariff totaling "approximately half a million dollars," operating between April, 1928, and August, 1931.

The individuals indicted included Maurice Levin, Henry C. Kaplan, Erwin Stern and I. J. Seskis, all of New York; I. J. Russell, former local manager; A. P. Degeles, John Berouiar, Henry Blasvch, L. A. Morel and Stanley H. Hingle. Morel is a public gauger, licensed by the customs officials to gauge molasses and similar imports and exports, and Hingle is a gauger directly employed by the Government.

Although the Government some months ago accepted from the corporation $180,000 as a civil settlement in the case, it has pursued its criminal investigation, terminating today in the indictment being returned, Talbot said.

Accord Reached By Coal Leaders

pronouncement that no other accord would contain the so-called "merit clause" of the automobile code.

That clause has been the subject of a bitter battle between industry and labor. The President put a foot down on the quarrel yesterday when he let it be known that he would not approve any explanatory language.

Members of the industrial and labor advisory boards fought for two weeks over the question and finally came to an agreement on a statement of principle which was transmitted to the President for announcement. Johnson made no comment.

Determination of the President to smother the joint statement was made clear at the White House. The President believes that the employer-employe situation is to be dealt with when pertinent questions arise and special conditions develop meriting special treatment within the confines of the letter and spirit of the law guaranteeing the right of employes to collective bargaining.

Both "closed shop" and "open shop" are absent from the code agreed to last night.

Federal Relief Provides Jobs For Teachers

Hopkins Tells States' Officials of Adult Rehabilitation.

More jobless teachers will be put back to work through expansion of the uses of Federal relief funds, Harry Hopkins, Federal relief administrator, told an emergency meeting of the National Council of State Superintendents and Commissioners of Education yesterday at the Interior Department.

Superintendents from 40 States attended, puzzled over the extent to which the Federal relief funds would be used. They had an impression the money would be used only for rural education and teaching of illiterate adults. Hopkins said the funds also would include general rehabilitation of adults handicapped by the depression, to fit them for new jobs, providing they can not be placed in vocations for which they were trained, and training inexperienced men and women for employment.

The superintendents viewed the statement as encouraging.

A code for teachers, to be submitted to the NRA, was projected yesterday. Several superintendents opposed it, saying teachers can not be placed within the boundary of a code.

A tentative code, drawn up by a committee headed by Dr. J. H. Saunders, of Newport News, Va., would provide teachers' wages in conformity with the President's re-employment agreement.

Charles A. Lee, of Missouri, president of the council, declared that the only hope for public education is through an emergency appropriation from the Government.

Secretary Ickes, in an address of welcome, pointed to the benefits the superintendents will obtain through public works program.

The meeting will continue through today.

EDWARD WAYSON examines the beer keg that exploded early yesterday, injuring his brother, Morgan W. Wayson, 21. The accident occurred at their father's restaurant at Drury, Md.

Injured by an exploding beer keg, Morgan W. Wayson, 21, Drury, Md., was reported in a serious condition last night at Sibley Hospital. The accident occurred early yesterday at Drury.

Wayson, a helper in his father's restaurant, leaned over the 15-gallon keg to increase the air pressure. In the explosion that followed he received internal injuries and a mangled face.

Members of the Wayson family were unable to explain the explosion. It is suggested that the keg might have been too old to withstand the air pressure.

Pollard Names Job Chairmen For 14 Cities

Conference to Be Held in Richmond to Speed Public Projects.

Richmond, Va., Sept. 15 (AP).—Gov. Pollard today selected chairmen of local emergency public works committees in the fourteen first-class cities of the State.

He urged them to make haste in considering the immediate needs of their localities for public works, and requested them to meet in Richmond next Friday to formulate a program.

Group Named by Governor.

T. M. Carrington, Richmond; G. R. Spratley, Hopewell; W. A. Smoot, Alexandria; F. L. Watson, Charlottesville; A. B. Carrington, Danville; Powell Glass, jr., Lynchburg; Maj. Raymond B. Bottom, Newport News; Albert L. Roper, Norfolk; W. H. Crutchfield, Petersburg; J. Davis Reed, Portsmouth; E. A. Johnson, Roanoke; Gen. H. L. Opie, Staunton; John B. Pinner, Suffolk, and H. B. McCormac, Winchester.

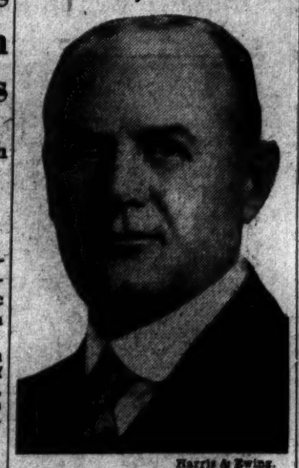

Gov. Pollard said he will appoint four citizens in each of these cities to serve under the chairmen. He will ask all committeemen to attend the conference Friday. Committees from second-class cities, as well as from counties and towns, will be appointed soon.

Sewage Project Pushed.

Arlington County today submitted to the Public Works Board a project for a $2,500,000 sewerage system and disposal plant. The project would provide employment for 850 men for 22 months. It would serve 22 square miles of territory.

The plan proposed calls for the construction of two sewage-disposal plants, one just south of the Key Bridge on the Potomac River and the other near Hunters Point.

County Accepts Bond Bid of 94.07

Annapolis, Md., Sept. 15 (Spl.).—Anne Arundel County commissioners accepted a bid of 94.07 made by the Mercantile Trust Co. and nine other banking associates of Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York, for $750,000 of 5½ per cent 30-year serial county bonds.

The loan was authorized by the last Legislature, and proceeds will be used to cover outstanding county notes due October 1.

Though compelled to float the issue so far below par, county officials said the sale would effect a net saving of approximately 2½ per cent, through refinancing, as commissions and other expenses entailed in obtaining loans privately were costing the county about 8 per cent annually.

Court Upholds Year Sentence For Treasurer

Bath County Official Also Loses Time Off Plea; Other Cases Heard.

Staunton, Va., Sept. 15 (AP).—George B. Venable, former treasurer of Bath County, must serve a year in the State penitentiary for misappropriation of public funds.

The State Supreme Court of Appeals, sitting here, has dismissed his motion for a writ of error, and Assistant Attorney General Collins Denny refused to agree to a term of a year and a day, which would have permitted Venable to get half time off for good behavior under the new law allowing half-time on terms of more than one year.

The court granted a writ of error in the case of Western Union Telegraph Co., and W. G. Sale vs. E. L. Morgan, from the Washington County Circuit Court.

The case of the Big Jack Overall Co. and Others vs. Ella Bray, from the State Industrial Commission, was argued and submitted.

A writ of error was refused in the case of D. Lane Elder vs. W. W. Thompson, Inc., from the Corporation Court of Hopewell, and an appeal was refused in the case of the Upper Banner Coal Corporation and Honey Creek Coal Corporation vs. W. L. Bird, B. W. Jennings, and Margaret H. Powell, from the Circuit Court of Russell County.

From the Circuit Court of Wythe County the court heard arguments in the case of Katherine Keeler vs. Walter Baumgardner.

Geraldine Farrar Is Back.

New York, Sept. 15 (AP).—Geraldine Farrar, retired opera singer, returned today from a European visit. She told of having played on a 400-year-old organ that once echoed to the fingers of Bach.

THE BIGGEST MONTH IN OUR HISTORY

IN August, the American Oil Company sold a greater total of AMOCO-GAS and Orange AMERICAN GAS than during any other month in its history.

This was exclusive of any sales in the new territory added by recent consolidation with Pan American Petroleum & Transport Company.

And also in August, 49.1% more AMOCO-GAS was sold than in June 1933, the month before the AMOCO-GAS premium was reduced 2c.

This confirms public approval of a policy of marketing superior products, advertising them fairly, and selling them at the lowest prices consistent with their quality.

Board Rescinds Action on Fort School Pupils

Portion of 13 Applicants From Humphreys to Be Accepted.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Alexandria city school board last night rescinded, in part, its previous action in refusing to permit high school students from Fort Humphreys admission to the local schools.

The board adopted a resolution, addressed to the city council, stating that those students already accepted for enrollment would be permitted to attend, but owing to the crowded condition of the schools no additional students would be accepted.

This is understood to mean that of the 13 Fort Humphreys students who applied for enrollment only a part will be accepted.

The situation arose when the school board last week adopted a resolution that no students not residents of Alexandria would be enrolled without payment of tuition, $35 in the grade schools and $60 in the high schools.

The city council was requested by representatives of officers and enlisted men at Fort Humphreys to permit their children to attend the high school without paying tuition, and the council requested the school board comply, pledging the council to make good any deficiency in the school budget caused by this action.

Swimming Pool Report.

A report of the activities of the Alexandria Municipal Swimming Pool has been made to the city manager by Joseph C. Duncan, director, showing that between the opening, May 9, and September 9, the closing date, 12,640 persons took advantage of the facilities. The amount collected for rental of bathing suits and lockers was $1,820.35.

The director commended efficiency of the life guards, stating that approximately 75 persons were given aid by the guards.

The director recommends that the walls and bottom of the pool be painted, and that the pool be kept open from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. daily, except Sunday, when the hours should be from 2 p. m. to 6 p. m., and from 7 p. m. until 9 p. m.

School Patrol Named.

A school patrol has been appointed by R. W. Eaves, principal of the Jefferson Graded School in Alexandria, for traffic duty the first semester. Members are: James Henderson, captain; Charles Henry Smith, jr., first lieutenant; Boyd Myers, second lieutenant; Griffith Schellhorn, Milton Frinks, Hamlin Snyder, Carlton Pearson, Robert Fields, Lowell Bowton, Harry Studds, Paul Crocker, James Allen, Wesley Posey and Francis Scott.

Kiwanis Club Dines.

The annual picnic of the Alexandria Kiwanis Club, which was to have been held at the boys' summer camb of the club in Fairfax County Thursday evening, was postponed on account of inclement weather, and the club entertained at dinner in the George Mason Hotel instead. Gov. Ed Hill, of the Capital Kiwanis district, delivered a brief address on the national convention held in Los Angeles last summer.

Poisoned Girl Battles Death

Death of Her Brother, 3, Blamed on Overdose of Medicine.

Alice Mobley, 6, remained in a critical condition at Montgomery County General Hospital last night as a result of an overdose of wormweed oil. Her 3-year-old brother, Edward, died Tuesday from an overdose of the medicine.

They were given the medicine by their mother, Mrs. Thomas Mobley, of Woodfield, Md. Their father raises wormweed for sale to a distillery, where it is made into oil for medicinal and shipyard use.

Dr. George Bowen, of Damascus, Md., who treated the children, said that the medicine should have been given in 10 or 12 drop doses and that the mother gave a half-teaspoonful.

Chief Alvie A. Moxley, of Montgomery County police, said he planned no action in the case.

Church Plans Picnic In Between Services

The Rev. R. A. Bergdoll, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, at Pleasant Valley, Va., has announced an all-day service to be conducted tomorrow and opening with Sunday school at 10 a. m.

The Rev. Nolan B. Harmon, D. D., editor of the Baltimore Conference Methodist paper, will conduct the regular morning service at 11 a. m. This will be followed by a picnic lunch. The Rev. J. H. Hobbs, pastor of the Southern Methodist Church at Leesburg, will preach at the afternoon services beginning at 3 p. m. A special musical program has been planned for both services.

Missing Girl Found In Hitch-Hike Mixup

Rose Dedarsky, 21, who disappeared Thursday after hitch-hiking here from New York with ten other girls, was found yesterday at a tourist lodging in Cottage City, Md.

Old Dick Refuses to Do Menial Tasks

1,800 Babies Can Thank Dick for Helping the Stork.

Rain or Snow, No Matter What the Weather, They Made It.

Just walk toward him in his pasture at the Damascus, Md., home of Dr. George M. Boyer with such harness on your arm, and he'll soon show his heels.

Doctor Agrees.

Dr. Boyer thinks it amusing. He has deepest regard for old Dick, companion of his professional career. If old Dick really feels himself above menial labor—well, the doctor agrees with him.

Rain or snow, fair weather or foul, Dick took the doctor through. Dr. Boyer remembers several times when he had misgivings about arriving, but Dick always managed to make it.

1,800 Babies.

The venerable doctor can't begin to estimate the miles Dick traveled in his service, but about 1,800 births were included. Sometimes the event wasn't so joyous. Dick hurried the doctor to a sadder duty on many trips.

Dick has reached the ripe age of 32 years. He is probably the oldest horse in Montgomery County. He's a bit stiff in his joints, and his ribs show in places, but he frisks about his pasture in proud arrogance.

Dr. Boyer is a bit envious of Dick. The doctor is 61 years old and longs to go into a retirement as peaceful as Dick's. He plans soon to turn over his practice to his son, Dr. Milton McK. Boyer, who is at present physician at St. Luke's Hospital, Cleveland, Ohio, and seek such contentment.

Virginia Seeks Federal Loan Of $16,000,000

Bill Authorizing Move to Aid Road Work Is Signed.

Richmond, Va., Sept. 15 (AP).—Gov. Pollard today signed Senate bill 28, authorizing the State to apply to the Federal government for a $16,000,000 loan for highways of which $4,000,000 would be a gift and the remainder would be paid in seven equal instalments, beginning in 1937.

The Governor had not been advised whether President Roosevelt would authorize the loan because of a clause in the State constitution which forbids this commonwealth from borrowing money for such a purpose.

To Use Gas Tax.

Repayment of the $12,000,000 would be made from gasoline tax receipts, under the terms of the bill, but there is no provision for taking care of $480,000 interest. The bill stipulates a 45-cent an hour minimum and a 30-hour week for common labor.

The governor also affixed his name to the Reid measure, which would allow the highway commission to rebate part of the gas tax to Arlington County filling stations near Washington.

Aid District Stations.

The intent of the measure is to enable the stations to compete with Washington prices. Heretofore the oil companies rebated within the competitive zone, but the petroleum code recently outlawed the practice.

"Constitutionality of the bill is doubtful," the governor said, "but I feel that I ought to give an opportunity for the stations affected to be heard in the emergency. If I did not sign the measure, I would deny them their day in court."

The Government as a Borrower.

The debt of the United States Government already exceeds $23,000,000,000 and the total is rising steadily. On September 12 the excess of Treasury expenditures over ordinary receipts amounted to approximately $239,000,000 for the two and one-half months of the current fiscal year.

This deficit represents emergency expenditures which, according to the budgetary classification, were slightly larger than the amount of the uncovered outlays. Furthermore, September income tax payments will add to current receipts, while an exceptionally large net balance, in excess of $1,000,000,000, is now held by the Treasury.

Nevertheless, the large outlays in prospect on emergency account will necessitate continuous borrowing. With net additions to the Government debt unavoidable and with a large proportion of the outstanding debt either due or callable within the period of a year, it is important to preserve public confidence in the credit of the Government.

The development of the public works program, for example, is still in its initial stages, and Federal credit must be relied upon to finance the execution of proposed construction projects. The Reconstruction Finance Corporation, likewise, apart from its direct activities, is authorized to provide funds for various purposes to be used by the emergency agencies set up by Congress to assist industry and agriculture. The R. F. C. also is empowered to furnish up to $500,000,000 for use by the Federal Emergency Relief Administration.

In short, the Government is relying upon borrowing to provide the funds for executing a vast and varied assortment of emergency plans and projects intended to extricate the country from depression.

Investment support depends upon confidence in the borrower, whether that borrower is an individual or a government. So far the American investor has responded promptly and enthusiastically to the demands for loans made by the Government, as was demonstrated by the oversubscription of the recent bond offering.

Would the buyer of Government securities continue to support the market for public offerings, however, if the Government were to resort to issues of fiat money in response to the urgings of those who complain that prices are not rising fast enough under the present program? That is a question seldom considered by those who desire this kind of inflation as a means of forcing a general advance in the price level.

Undoubtedly it is true that nominal prices—that is, prices quoted in terms of the currency units in use—can be made to soar to dizzy heights if paper money is issued in great amounts by a government to meet current expenses, as an alternative to levying taxes or borrowing from the investing public. But the country that starts along this alluring pathway of financing its needs, meaning to limit its fiat money issues to amounts that seem reasonable, usually discovers that it is easy to start but hard to stop. As a rule it must print more money when the first issues are disbursed to meet the rising costs of government, because investment confidence is badly impaired, if not destroyed, so soon as the public realizes that the printing presses are being used to cover current expenses.

Germany and other countries achieved astronomical advances in prices by manufacturing paper money, but they found that this sort of inflation destroys the foundations upon which prosperity rests. Rising prices to be beneficial must be based upon growing demands for goods and upon the existence of confidence in the country's credit and currency.

Mexico's Anniversary.

The independence of Mexico was proclaimed 123 years ago today, and achieved in 1821. In spite of having been subjected to two imperial regimes, Mexicans have never wavered in their aspirations for self-government. They are now enjoying an interim of tranquillity and comparative well-being, with every prospect of political and economic improvement.

As modern highways multiply in Mexico, the manifold attractions of that country will draw an increasing stream of American visitors. No foreign country possesses more distinctive and picturesque features. To the mass of Americans it is a closed book, but its pages are glowing with color, and its story, once learned, is never forgotten. Mexican scenery is varied, in parts resembling Spain and Italy, and in other parts excelling both in majesty. The people are hospitable, in city and country, and their language, folklore, manner of living, and outlook upon life are full of interest to visitors.

It should never be forgotten that Abraham Lincoln, during the stress of the Civil War, interposed to prevent the extinction of Mexican independence, and that this American influence was continued by his successor, until the usurping oversea forces were withdrawn from Mexican soil. The Monroe Doctrine, invoked by President Lincoln, gave Mexico a new lease of independence.

Notwithstanding the friction that has sometimes developed between the United States and Mexico, an underlying friendship binds them together. Misunderstandings have been dissipated by sympathetic inquiry as should be the case between good neighbors.

America's "Militarism."

It must have been a great spectacle. Why, even to clean up the streets after it was over, cost the City of New York $5,000. There have been mass demonstrations in this country before, but usually they have been the result of Yale's winning over Harvard, after the score had been 0-0, with a field goal in the last ten seconds of play. This time the masses were celebrating a rush through the first line of depression. They celebrated it by marching past Gen. Johnson in rank and file 250,000 strong.

What must Europe have thought! If a march-past of a quarter of a million people took place in a European capital, it could mean only that a revolution had just been successfully carried out, or that the country, with all its reserves called up, was mobilizing for war. There probably has never been a parade of anything like that size held at any time in Europe.

The kaiser's glittering show-offs on the Tempelhof Field in Berlin ran up to about 50,000; Hitler's recent Nuremberg procession reached the all-time Fascist high of perhaps 120,000. Not only have we taller buildings, bigger cities, faster airplanes, and more glamorous movie queens, but now we have faster parades. And the Europeans, remembering our consistent assurances of peace, must call us hypocrites, whose militarism has gone stark mad.

But what a parade! To a European that word "parade" means only one thing—it means files of soldiers, in full dress, marching by with their officers and heroes. To a Londoner it means the Coldstream Guards "trooping the colors"; to a Parisian it means the plumed "Garde Republicaine," the brilliant cuirassiers, the elegant cadets of St. Cyr and the Polytechnique, with the rear brought up by solid blocks of colonial troops, in their curious costumery. To a Potsdamer, it means trembling visions of the classic imperial regiment, the "Erstes Garderegiment zu Fuss," going by in a blaze of glory.

The New York parade had its glory, too. The Roxy chorus girls, 36 strong, marched by the reviewing stand in perfect alignment, in their "wooden soldiers" costumes that were not so heavy that they could not be subtly revealing. Other Roxyettes were costumed as senoritas and matadors; still others, for some more abstruse reason, as the Pilgrim Fathers. The chain of Loew theaters contributed, to this spectacle of arrant militarism, a juvenile band, and several ranks of drummer girls in red and white. Among the sword-rattling commanders of the mighty host were Dr. Walter Damrosch, conductor of symphonies; Al Jolson, singer of ditties; George Gordon Battle, legal gladiator, and Joseph P. Day, realtor extraordinary.

Most of the quarter million walked along without the slightest intention of keeping step; they talked, bandied jokes with the spectators, dashed up to the reviewing stand to shake hands with their friends, and on occasion booed the mayor of their city. It was all one great big democratic vista. And as for the military? Yes, there were 2,500 of them—not enough to make up a war-size regiment.

A Filipino Plebiscite.

Present indications are that the Filipino people will be permitted to decide for themselves whether they shall become an independent nation. The Hawes-Cutting act makes the Philippine legislature responsible for acceptance or rejection of the independence formula prescribed in Washington. But the leaders at Manila are not anxious to decide the issue themselves. It contains too much political dynamite. Responsibility for deciding the islands' fate may therefore be passed on to the people.

The Philippine house of representatives has passed a bill calling for a plebiscite on the Hawes-Cutting bill. The vote of 48 to 18 suggests powerful support for the movement to let the people decide. Inasmuch as the leaders of the Philippine senate have agreed upon a popular vote, it is assumed that this bill or a substitute will be submitted to Governor General Murphy.

The Hawes-Cutting act has put the political leaders at Manila in an embarrassing situation. All of them have favored independence as an ideal, but it seems apparent that a majority are opposed to acceptance of the measure by which Congress proposes to cut the islands adrift.

The general sentiment probably was expressed by the Manila Tribune when it advocated a policy of keeping "the door open" while securing amendments to the "onerous economic provisions" of the independence act. A vote for the Hawes-Cutting law is at the same time a vote for restriction of Philippine exports to the United States.

Filipino leaders realize that separation from the United States will bring to their country new and different economic problems. It is not easy to choose between the long-cherished ideal of separate nationhood and economic opportunities.

If the proposed plebiscite should be held, its purpose doubtless will be merely guidance of the legislature, since the act places upon the legislature responsibility for assembling a constitutional convention. The act calls for no vote of the people until a constitution has been drafted and adopted by the convention and accepted by the President of the United States. Then the people would vote on acceptance or rejection of the constitution and not on the direct issue of independence, although the law says that "if a majority of the votes cast shall be for the constitution, such vote shall be deemed an expression of the will of the people of the Philippine Islands in favor of Philippine independence."

A plebiscite may be the most satisfactory way of deciding this troublesome issue. At least a direct vote of the people would make them masters of their own fate. They might be more disposed to accept the outcome and make the most of it if the decision should be made by popular ballot.

A Job for the C. C. C.

Establishment of two or more units of the Civilian Conservation Corps in the District of Columbia is under consideration. A number of the camps now located in the national forests of the Northern and Western States must be abandoned during the winter because of cold weather. Authorities are seeking other means of using the services of these young men during the inclement season. It has been suggested that some of them should be set to work in the wooded areas of the District.

Two of the foremost tasks of the C. C. C. in the national forests have been the elimination of fire hazards and the construction of trails. Both of these activities might be carried on to advantage within the District. The dead wood in Rock Creek Park could be removed. Additional trails through this beautiful tract would open new areas to hikers and riders. Similar work might be done in areas that are awaiting development as parks for the National Capital.

In most areas where C. C. C. camps are located for the winter months it will be necessary to construct living quarters. Housing for two or three units could doubtless be provided in or near Washington without much expense to the Government. Fort Hunt has been suggested as winter quarters for one group. There is an opportunity for the C. C. C. to perform a useful service here without incurring large additional outlays.

Some of Washington's future citizens are afraid the storm will not prevent the schools from opening Monday.

Ticonderoga.

From the Louisville Courier-Journal.

Three nations which fought frequent and bloody battles there are gathered this week at Fort Ticonderoga to dedicate a shaft to the French founders and re-name the streets of the village in honor of historical characters who figured in the momentous events which centered about the fort. There will be "Father Jogues Place" for the discoverer of nearby Lake George, and streets preserving the memories of Gen. Montcalm, Gen. Chamberlain, Israel Putnam, Lord Howe, Gen. Burgoyne, Gen. Amherst, Anthony Wayne, Arthur St. Clair and Gen. Schuyler.

It's a small village. If they have run out of streets they ought to lay out a subdivision or open an alley at least and call it Ethan Allen, for the average American may not be able to locate the fort without reference to his atlas, but he remembers that is where the leader of the "Green Mountain Boys" demanded surrender "in the name of the Great Jehovah and the Continental Congress."

The ceremonies are under the auspices of the New York State Historical Association, but the international character will predominate. The Canadian Minister and French Consul General will represent their countries. The Fifth Canadian Royal Highlanders, detachments of United States Regulars, deputations of French, Canadian and American World War veterans and patriotic societies of the French element of Quebec will participate in the parade Saturday.

The historical importance of the affair is not exaggerated, for in this region largely was decided whether North America should be French or English in culture; this country an independent republic or a British dominion.

The gateway of Lake Champlain and the Mohawk corridor between the Catskills and Adirondacks, connecting the Hudson Valley with the Great Lakes Basin, were as predestined for one of the world's great battlegrounds as Belgium or Manchuria. In the Revolution Washington's strategy was to cut the British lines of communication up the Hudson, down Lake Champlain and down the Mohawk. The naval battle on Champlain was decisive. The Cherry Valley Massacre and the scenes of James Fenimore Cooper's tales were in this vicinity. It was the eastern and less active end of the battle front in 1812.

The French early discovered the importance of this backdoor to the British colonies and in 1755 fortified Ticonderoga, which was occupied by a garrison of 9,000. During the French and Indian War and the Revolution this was a main point of attack. The gap between the Great Lakes and the Hudson was stopped by the Iroquois, whose friendship was cultivated by the English as a buffer, first westward against the French, then eastward against the Americans. These Indians held back the stream of colonization while the whites from the valley of Virginia were pouring through Cumberland Gap, giving its characteristics to the Mississippi Valley, and the line they held is where the Erie Canal was dug to make New York the largest city in the world and the Twentieth Century Limited shuttles across a busy and peaceful panorama.

The strategic importance of fords, portages and mountain passes to pioneers and maneuvering armies can be best appreciated by observing that railroad engineers have laid their rails along the same lines of communication. Most great battlefields can be reached in a Pullman. Ticonderoga was built to guard the route that commerce should take along the south shores of the Great Lakes via Buffalo, Cleveland, Toledo, Detroit and Chicago, thence west and south. Immense stakes were fought for at Ticonderoga. Consequences have flowed from the outcome, which, like the streams that carved these strategic valleys, have affected the destinies of the whole world.

"Who's That Knocking at My Door?"

The Once Over.

By H. I. Phillips.

THINGS TO REMEMBER ABOUT THE NEW DEAL.

1—It isn't all a matter of three cheers, a handful of ticker tape and some good march music.

2—A brass band is useful, but the paraders should be out ahead of it, not behind it.

3—Be loyal to the Blue Eagle, but bear in mind that nobody in an overturned car in a ditch ever got out by waiting for a bird to make the first move.

4—The NRA is like the Scotch caddy: It tells you the way to get over the bunkers and makes you take the right club, but it can not play the hole for you.

5—The big parades are all very inspiring and colorful, but there is no percentage in getting so many bunions that you can't wait on customers back in the store.

* * * *

6—A good slogan will take you over Niagara Falls, but you have got to have something better to get back.

7—The Blue Eagle is a great bird to give you encouragement, comfort and a sense of safety, but don't expect it to do your worrying for you.

8—It is everybody's duty to get behind the President, but not so far behind that it's a case for the Missing Persons Bureau.

9—Gen. Johnson has given you the general idea, told you where the goal posts are, announced the rules, numbered the players and blown the whistle, but he can't call the signals and run with the ball.

10—It's all very well to announce yourself solidly behind Little Nira and plaster the windows with birds, but it will all seem more convincing if you roll up your sleeves, develop the art of concentration and get over that aversion to perspiring in business hours.

12—One of the troubles of the moment is that too many people who are anxious for the return of prosperity are assuming that it can be done by pressing a button at the White House, releasing some pictures for the rotogravure sections and asking everybody to stand while the organist plays "Lazy Bones" to march time.

13—Getting American business back on the main track where it was before the trestle collapsed must be preceded by rebuilding the trestle, and it is no job for after-dinner speakers.

14—Remember, ladies and gentlemen, we have been through a combination washout, tornado and earthquake and just because a wise and helpful President is distributing umbrellas, dry clothing and hot coffee is no reason for you to get the idea it was just something you saw in the movies.

15—Lissen, boys, this is a hard drive up a steep hill in an abandoned car, not an ice cream and cake party on a roller coaster.

MARCHING ALONG.

The more you watch those NRA parades the more you realize that business is certainly back on its feet.

Seth Whipple, the village undertaker, was agreeable to the code and the Blue Eagle up to the time Gen. Johnson ordered him to plow under last year's crop.

ACTION AT NIAGARA.

At the Whirlpool Rapids, at Niagara, the velocity of the stream is over 28 miles per hour. The crests of the waves are often 40 feet above the level at the edges. The whirlpool is a little more than 3¼ miles from the Horseshoe Falls. Here the river rushes into an elbow with tremendous force in a northwesterly direction, but has to turn in a northeasterly direction, and the impact of these two currents meeting forms the rotary movement.

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Red-Headed Daughter.

By Robert Quillen.

MY DEAR LOUISE: I don't blame you for dreading the dentist. We all do. But I assure you that he doesn't hurt you half as much as you hurt yourself. And that is equally true of all dreadful things.

When Mussolini's dentist warned him that something would hurt, the great dictator answered: "I do not fear pain."

That tells the story in few words. Millions of people live in fear of pain, and fear multiplies their suffering. Which is another way of saying that most of the pain they seem to feel is imaginary.

That is hard to believe unless you experiment, but observation will teach you how true it is.

The native of Australia, most primitive of men, can amputate a diseased foot by burning it off. The explanation commonly given is that he has no imagination and therefore feels only the pain which is genuine.

How true that is I do not know, but it is true that the "lower" animals, though severely wounded, eat and drink and continue about their affairs as though uninjured. Yet they feel pain as we do, for they yelp or squeal or snarl when they are hurt.

When a small boy must have a splinter picked from his finger, he begins to yell bloody murder before the needle touches him. Imagination makes the thing hurt before it hurts.

If you could learn to rid yourself of unreasoning fears and measure the actual hurt itself, you would find that pain is not one-tenth as bad as you think it.

I can't teach you the trick of it. You must learn by honest experimentation. But I can tell you something that will help.

Read this carefully. Pain is largely fear of pain. Fear is imagination. And imagination requires concentration. For instance, while you are day-dreaming—that is, using your imagination—you are unaware of everything around you.

Since your mind must be concentrated to develop imaginary pain, anything that distracts your mind makes the pain less. Excited people are unaware of a slight hurt.

If the dentist is wise enough to keep talking, he can lessen the pain by calming your fears. And you can do as much for yourself by thinking of something else.

Learn, if you can, to measure pain by what you really feel; but in the meantime take along a friend who knows some absorbing gossip.

Comment of the Press

Charles A. Platt.

New York Herald Tribune.

To spend a long life in the creation of works of beauty, to care unswervingly for the things of the spirit and the mind, to wake the love of innumerable friends through the promptings of a generous heart—to do all this is surely to fulfill a high destiny. Such was the achievement of Charles A. Platt. * * * When he designed the beautiful Freer Museum in Washington he made it not only a monumental work externally but gave it a fairly unique status in matters of lighting, the arrangement of rooms, corridors and so on. He leaves behind him the drawings for the vast National Gallery, projected likewise for Washington. Their realization in stone will give to the United States a fabric devised only after exhaustive study of the principal museums of the world and a sifting of the concrete issues that belong to the installation of works of art. Platt was a constructive architect, if ever there was one, for whom a public building or a private house had to have organic life.

Coal Code Obstacles.

The fact that more than a score of proposed codes have been submitted by different branches of the industry illustrates the difficulty of harmonizing an industry so beset with sectional controversies. The difference between the groups of operators themselves are scarcely less serious than those between the employers and organized labor.

Age of Money.

Cincinnati Enquirer.

Money, as we know it, is not older than the eighteenth century B. C.—news item. And money, as we know it, is not older than the last pay day.

Real Pangs.

Indianapolis Star.

The American Nation is suffering from solar starvation, says a nudist expert. But that is not nearly so serious as no ham and eggs for breakfast.

Cost of Raising Wheat.

Topeka Capital.

According to a study of wheat growing in the United States by the American Agricultural Chemical Co., the average cost of raising a bushel of wheat is 55 cents. In New England the average cost is given as high as 93 cents, but in the main Western wheat areas as low as 46 cents.

An average price of 55 cents for wheat will not be a paying proposition to the wheat grower, whoever and wherever he may be located. A great deal has been written and said about cost of production, but no farmer can make headway marketing wheat at 55 cents on the average, one year with another.

In 1932 the average yield was 13.2 bushels. If the farmer can manage to increase his product by following modern methods of cultivation and soil maintenance by 100 per cent, he can make a profit on a smaller acreage, where on the large acreage he loses money.

Just Folks.

By Edgar A. Guest.

Hand in Hand.

All the way to age we'll go
Hand in hand together;
All the way to brows of snow
Through every sort of weather.
Rain or shine, blue sky or gray,
Joy and sorrow sharing
Hand in hand along the way
We'll go bravely faring.

All the way to sunset land
We'll walk down together
Side by side and hand in hand
Held by Cupid's tether.
Once we danced in early May
Steps we long remember;
So we'll trip the miles away
Even to December.

Hand in hand along the way
Let the years go fleeting by!
Gray old age shall find us
Still recalling smile and sigh
Long since left behind us.
And though feeble we may grow,
Worn by wind and weather,
All the way to Age we'll go

Along the Potomac

With

Carlisle Bargeron

THERE WON'T BE, of course, but I can't help wondering what a good thing it would be to devote a book to Ike Hoover and those of his kind, and place it in all the schools for the children to read, in order that when they hear all the prating about public service they will know just what real, conscientious public service is. The career of Ike would make a wholesome study. It offers a salutary lesson for our public men and never so much as right at this time.

Bargeron.

The thing that attracted me in all the stories of his sudden death was the statement, told in varying ways, but always the same in substance, that Ike had countless opportunities to write for magazines and newspapers and become rich, that for some time there had been a market for the wealth of experience that he had.

Yet never did Ike accept any of the offers that were made and undoubtedly he died a poor man.

* * * *

NOW what manner of man could Ike have been? I am not attempting to attach any false value to his position, but the fact remains that it had come to be worth several thousand dollars as we pay for things, enough thousands of dollars, in fact, to make him a rich man. Yet for some reason or another he never asked for it.

And it could not have been that Ike's refusal to do this was based upon any fear of getting into trouble or of being popularly condemned. It may have been that in the past we more or less had rules of conduct on this sort of business, but there are certainly no such rules now.

No one would have blamed Ike had he published his "memoirs"—there would have been no criticism of him. We would have read them for the entertaining reading they gave, and paid for them. And that would have been that. Ike then would have lived in ease.

There was no one at any time, or rather, not at any time recently, to tell Ike that this was not the thing to do, that one should not commercialize his position of trust. Not a single one, under the circumstances, could have told him this.

That is to say, no one except Ike himself.

* * * *

REALLY, it is hard to dope Ike out, and when I speak of Ike, I have in mind others like him, and right up there at the White House, too. The commercial importunities that have been made to Dick Jervis, head of the White House Secret Service, are too numerous to count on the fingers of the hands, offers that would put him in velvet for the rest of his life. Why doesn't he accept one or some of them? It can't be it would be a violation of the rules, because we see the game as it is being played every day.

We know, those of us who live in Washington, how much it is materially worth to a man to be considered "close to the President." And we know, furthermore, the thriving industry around this which our most reputable citizens pursue.

* * * *

OF course, Ike Hoover was not close to the Presidents under whom he served to the extent he could influence them in the framing of policies. Neither are any of the others who sell their advertised ability to influence. But Ike had just as much of a salable commodity as they, one, in fact, on which the buyer would get value received, which is not true of the influencers. The person who bought Ike's stuff would get his money's worth, and by that I mean he would be able to make money in return.

All this being true, it is most difficult to get at the mind of a man like Ike, isn't it?

* * * *

MAYBE, in the values and appraisals which we have set up, it was that Ike was not ambitious. This, very probably, would be the verdict. Gosh, what other conclusion can you come to of a man who had such an easy opportunity to get rich and didn't take advantage of it, an opportunity to get rich under the rules approved in the most authoritative quarter of our national life!

His failure to do so can't be attributed to any lack of ability. It couldn't have been he simply did not know how to take advantage of his opportunity. Because no ability on his part would have been required by those who were willing to pay for his commodity and the opportunity was paraded before him constantly, and pointed out.

Do you suppose it could have been that Ike's refusal to commercialize his job was due to an innate sense of decency which the rest of us can not understand?

WRITERS OF SONGS.

Who wrote "On the Road to Mandalay?" Practically everyone will reply, "Rudyard Kipling." Mr. Kipling did write the words, and the song is universally attributed to him, but would the song be as well known were it not for its captivating melody? This music was written by Oley Speaks, according to Words and Music.

Just the other night, over the radio, it was announced that on the occasion of the anniversary of his birth, the orchestra would play "Home, Sweet Home" by that "famous American composer," John Howard Payne. Mr. Payne did not write the music for "Home, Sweet Home." He wrote the words. Yet he usually gets the credit for the whole song.

Officials Fight City Pay Slash For New York

Gotham Rages or Smiles as Tammany's Pruner Makes New Move.

New York, Sept. 15 (AP).—Raging controversy and quiet amusement were mingled tonight as New York's millions witnessed the spectacle of a 75-year-old financial dictator driving Mayor John P. O'Brien and the city's lesser officials into drastic salary cuts for themselves.

Samuel Untermyer, the lawyer, had been called in by Tammany Hall to direct the financial program after aroused citizens had frustrated an earlier slate of additional taxes by the mayor and his aids. He heard attacks on his dramatic move yesterday to slash salaries, but calmly expressed confidence of success.

As many members of the board of aldermen expressed resentment at the demand their salaries be cut from $5,000 to $2,000, Untermyer went stolidly ahead with a program entailing governmental economies approximating $20,000,000.

Eight Jobs Ended.

Meanwhile, the board, complying with another Untermyer ultimatum, prepared to reduce its budget $17,120 by eliminating the jobs of eight assistant sergeants at arms.

Indications were that Tammany would support its financial surgeon and Untermyer would win again when the salary-reduction demand comes to a vote.

Private citizens and leaders of the fusion mayoralty group watched with amusement the plight of the Tammany aldermen, faced with the demand from their financial dictator for pay cuts.

First, Untermyer had forced his $40,000,000 tax program. Then he stunned administration officials by suddenly demanding sweeping economies, including the salary cuts.

Veteran Still Unruffled.

Untermyer, his shoulders bent by 75 years of tireless activity, his orchid still in his buttonhole, calmly informed the aldermen and the five borough Democratic leaders that the cuts were suggested now because of the impending campaign, making it appear he was acting in their interest.

"Tammany's death-bed repentance," said Paul Blanshard, director of the city affairs committee, of Untermyer's salary-cutting program. He predicted Untermyer would be discarded if the O'Brien administration is continued in office in November.

Lack of Witnesses Delays Hart Trial

Illinois Won't Give Up Escaped Convict.

Chicago, Sept. 15 (AP).—Grand jury action against Jack Hart, escaped Maryland convict, was balked today by lack of witnesses who were to accuse Hart of shooting three youths in a saloon brawl.

The State ordered police to produce witnesses in the grand jury room Monday, when true bills will be asked charging Hart with three assaults.

J. Bernard Wells, Baltimore prosecutor, who tried unsuccessfully to return Hart to Maryland, watched the proceedings. State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney, of Cook County, said he would send Hart to prison before yielding him to the Baltimore authorities.

Military Tribunal Acts in Surprise Session.

Dublin, Irish Free State, Sept. 15 (AP).—Officers of the blue-shirted National Guard were ordered closed today at a surprise session of the military tribunal recently inaugurated by the government of President Eamon de Valera.

It was stated the closing was made on application of police.

Gen. Eoin O'Duffy's Blue Shirts recently were declared illegal. The military tribunal was set up by the same edict which banned the organization.

Chicago Suit Demands Mayoralty Election

Chicago, Sept. 15 (AP).—A taxpayer filed suit today to compel a special mayoralty election, charging that selection of Mayor Edward J. Kelly by the city council was a temporary expedient.

Mayor Kelly was named after the Illinois General Assembly had enacted special legislation declaring the office vacant after the death of Mayor Anton J. Cermak. City ordinances providing for a successor were vague.

New Way of Making Sutures May Prove Boon to Surgeons

American Chemical Body Hears of Absorption Aid Discovery.

Chicago, Sept. 15 (AP).—Relief from a surgical risk now largely beyond the control of medical men is promised in a new method of making the sutures for sewing wounds reported to the American Chemical Society today.

The sutures can be made to be absorbed by the body at any time desired between two days and a month. There is absolute certainty about their strength, whether the animal substances from which they are made strong or weak.

They were discovered by making sutures in the Illinois Laboratories under X-rays. Extraordinary effects, said Dr. Clark, who made the announcement, were seen when the materials were stretched. Bfore stretching, the long particles could be seen pointing in every direction. But when tension was applied, these minute rods began to lie parallel.

The longer the pull, the more they aligned. The more they lined up, the stronger they became. Also, the longer they resist the bodily digestion which ultimately absorbs them.

A new instrument for mapping the electrical forces which are part of the human body was reported by Drs. William D. Harkins and E. K. Fischer, of the University of Chicago.

Dr. Harkins spread on the surface of water membranous films a ten-millionth of an inch in thickness, and devised a silver wire, coated with radioactive substances which when held an inch above the films would read the electrical potentials.

The wire, he said, showed a surprising arrangement of the molecules forming the films. Instead of being continuous, they were grouped in islands and continents. The electrical forces hovering above them had the same island and continent patterns.

Ford Kidnap Plot Revealed

Gangster Tells of Plans as Colleague Is Taken From His Bed.

Los Angeles, Sept. 15 (AP).—Joseph ("Red") O'Riordan, described by police as a former gangster wanted on three-year-old kidnaping charges in Detroit, surrendered at his apartment today. Declared a member of the "Legs" Diamond gang, he is accused of kidnaping Charles Mattler, produce merchant, in 1930.

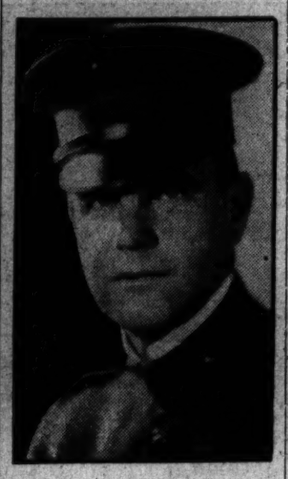

Michigan State police said Harry Andrews, convicted member of the gang, confessed a plot to kidnap a member of Henry Ford's family, and said the gang once discussed kidnaping a daughter of former Gov. Fred W. Green.

What's in Fashion?

Directed by Amos Parrish

Information as to where furniture of the type illustrated and its variations are available in Washington will be given by the Fashion Department, Washington Post, on request.

If you've been to the Century of Progress—actually or through the postcards sent by your friends—you can't have helped being impressed (maybe even startled at first) by the modern houses which are one of the features of the exposition.

They certainly make a point of practicality and comfort and the convenience everybody wants today. And so does the furniture in them.

Of course everyone can't rush out and buy himself a modern steel or glass house. But many a fair visitor has gone home with the determination to inject a bit of modern into the house he (or she) already has with a piece or two of modern furniture.

Harmonizes Anywhere.

And that's one of the beauties of the modern modern furniture and a difference between it and the first "modern" designs which came out some years ago. It can be put in rooms with other types of furniture and settle down in perfect harmony with them.

In the first place its design is always simple and sometimes austere. There is nothing about it to clash with your colonial or English eighteenth century or any other fashionable period types.

It relies mostly on the beauty and intricacy if its wood grains for its decoration . . . using such woods as zebra, a light wood with emphatic dark grain; harewood, a gray tone with fine, satiny grain; macassar ebony, a reddish wood which is almost black and with a very pronounced grain; olive-wood burl, a brownish fine grain; white holly, very light, almost white, in fact. And Brazilian and East Indian rosewood; Carpathian elm; African and American walnut, and Tasmanian white oak.

Aside from the grain of the wood, or the contrast of two kinds of wood, such as light and dark or fine and heavy grain, almost the only decoration you'll find will be in simple details like handles or drawer pulls.

A Modern Bedroom.

Lots of people who are trying out modern furniture are doing so in a bedroom. For in that room, only the tastes of one or two persons need to be considered. Nor is the bedroom a room in which much "living" is done.

And you can see in the picture how simple such furniture is. The two chests can be placed together, skyscraper style, as shown, or used separately in the conventional manner.

With a flowered chintz chair and other dainty accessories, this might be a bedroom for a feminine member of the family. While with a more tailored chair and accessories, the master of the house would quickly feel at home.

Eating a Joy In This Tea House on Hill

Terrace or Upper Deck for Balmy Days; Fireplace for Chilly Afternoons.

By Ruth Anne Davis.

What you eat is of prime importance to your physical well-being, but where you eat is a major factor to your mind. When the grind of the city and stress of affairs weigh heavily, you should seek a place where comfort and relaxation go hand in hand with well - prepared food and prompt service.

You should drive out to a little tea house only 2 miles from Lincoln Memorial and sit there on the terrace if the day is warm and enjoy the shade of the trees, the view of the Capital and the breeze that plays around the hilltop.

On the other hand, if gray clouds shroud the sky and there's a chill in the air, you can sit in a glass-inclosed room, before a large open fire, and enjoy the cozy atmosphere, and at the same time look out upon the surrounding countryside.

Here are two choices, but there's a third. Climb the brass-railed stairs outside the tea room and find yourself on an upper deck. You can enjoy your luncheon, tea or dinner as though riding on the crest of a wave. Instead of looking down upon the rolling sea, your eyes rest on a green garden, shrubs, trees and flowers, or rove across the fields to the Potomac winding along like a silver ribbon.

As for the menu, you will find a pleasing variation at comfortable prices. Such choices as chicken pie, baked ham, with vegetables, salad, hot bread, beverage and dessert, for dinner; soup, tomato juice or jellied consomme, cheese souffle, ham croquette or corned beef, with a vegetable and a salad, coffee, tea or milk and hot bread, for luncheon. Or there's the special plate for 60 cents, including cold ham with potato salad, or a salad bowl, with bread and butter, and what you please to drink.

Don't forget, here you have "breezes for warm days, open fires for chilly days, and a wide view always."

It's generally thought that it takes days and days to prepare for a party, but a Connecticut avenue food shop wants to know why it should. They offer boxes of assorted cookies, which include wafers of different flavors, jelly cookies, little chocolate cakes and several other varieties. That should take care of the situation.

As for the hors d' oeuvres, they have boxes containing 42 biscuits in shapes of hearts, clubs, diamonds and spades, all scooped out for the filling. And they have that, too. Russian caviar, from 40 cents to $3, pate de foie gras, 40 cents to $4.50, and all kinds of fish pastes, lobster, shrimp, anchovy and deviled ham.

There are even such delicacies as India chutney at $1 a bottle; stuffed oranges in grenadine sirup, $1, or small ones for 65 cents, and whole pears in creme de menthe, for 65 cents.

So don't put off that party any longer. Call the food shop and give your order, then call your guests. By the time you change your frock the party will be in full swing.

Isn't it about time you gave your family a break in the way of breads? After all, they may be too tactful to say anything, but don't you suppose they weary of the usual rolls, biscuits, muffins and sliced bread? Surprise them this very evening by serving some of the delicious toasted bread sticks on sale in a Fourteenth street market. You can buy a package of 15 for 10 cents—and they are good! Here's a handy item to keep on hand for impromptu teas or late suppers.

Now that lamb is fresh on the market in all its baby tenderness, you'll probably be having it oftener than ever. Want a good suggestion for those left-overs? You've guessed already—stew. But, as the saying goes, this stew is different—and it really is. You'll need ½ pound of lamb cut in small pieces, 1 tablespoon butter, ½ tablespoon flour, 1½ cups hot water, ½ cup canned tomatoes, salt and pepper, ¼ cup diced celery, ½ cup diced carrots, ½ cup small white onions and 2 potatoes.

Heat butter in saucepan. Stir in flour and add water and tomatoes. Season. Dust meat with flour, saute in butter and add to tomato mixture. Cover and cook slowly 15 minutes. Peel and cut potatoes in cubes. Add celery, carrots, onions and potatoes to meat mixture. Continue cooking 15 minutes. Add more water if necessary.

Since the price of eggs is on the upward climb, you want to prepare them more carefully than ever. A G street store has a new cooking device that enables you to cook them as you never have before. It's an automatic egg cooker which starts cooking in five seconds after you turn it on. When the egg is done, the current turns off of its own accord. If you've never tasted an egg cooked in live steam, don't miss this opportunity. You can buy them for $1.95 or $5.50.

Call Ruth Anne Davis, of the Woman's Department of The Washington Post, National 4205, Extension 105, for further information. Or write, inclosing a stamped, addressed envelope.

Particularly Appetizing When Stuffed, Rolled and Baked With Tomatoes.

Flank steak, always less expensive because not so tender as porterhouse or sirloin steak, nevertheless has as fine a flavor and is equally appetizing when properly prepared.

Because of its tendency to stringiness it is better braised than broiled, when substituted for the more expensive cuts. It is particularly appetizing if spread with a savory stuffing and then rolled up—from the ends, not the sides—and baked slowly in a covered pan. This way the meat can be carved across the grain.

Baked stuffed tomatoes are an excellent choice of vegetable to serve with stuffed flank steak. Both dishes may be oven cooked at the same time, saving fuel, and the distinctive flavor and color of the tomatoes give zest to the menu.

1½ cups stale bread crumbs
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 onion, minced
½ cup chopped celery
2 tablespoons fat

Wipe the meat with a damp cloth. For the stuffing, brown the celery and the onion lightly in the fat and combine with the other ingredients. Spread the stuffing over the steak. Beginning at one side of the steak, roll it up like a jelly roll and tie securely in several places with clean string. Sear in a small quantity of fat in a heavy skillet, on top of the stove, turning the meat frequently until browned on all sides. Slip a rack under the meat in the pan, cover closely, and cook in a moderate oven, 350 degrees Fahrenheit, for 1½ hours, or until tender.

Remove the meat from the pan, drain off the fat, and prepare gravy. For each cup of gravy desired, measure two tablespoons of fat, return to pan, add one and one-half to two tablespoons of flour, and stir until well blended and slightly browned. Then add one cup of cold water or milk, and stir until smooth. Season with salt and pepper. Serve with stuffed tomatoes.

What Today Means

"Virgo."

If September 16 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to 12:20 p. m., from 4 to 4:25 p. m. and from 8 to 9 p. m. The danger periods are from 9 to 10 a. m., from 2 to 3:15 p. m. and from 6 to 6:40 p. m.

Those who earn their living by the use of their hands will work with great speed and dexterity on this date; fingers will be nimble and the hand steady. Those recuperating from illnesses and operations will make great strides forward. Children will be self-effacing, but will be on hand when wanted or needed.

The child born on this September 16 will probably be inclined to disobey his parents; he will pay no attention to corrections. Will have to learn his own lessons, and bitter experience will probably be his teacher. He will learn quickly and will play up to his teachers and will stand well in their estimation. Good at athletics and will probably favor swimming above all other sports.

If September 16 is the date of your birth you are probably a person who keeps constantly on the go; your day probably starts early in the morning and you keep your time filled until you are ready to "hit the hay." You waste little time. You live a well-planned life and you are methodical in your habits. You are more than likely a great believer in working hard when at work and playing hard when at play. Whatever you do, you do it with vim and vigor. In the course of a day, you would probably wear out two or three people who tried to follow you, such is your energy and vitality. Regardless of how much you have to do, you seem always able to squeeze in just a little more; you seldom turn down a caller and you always have a word of cheer and encouragement for each visitor.

Born on September 16, your advancement up the ladder of success will most likely come slowly; nevertheless, your progress will be steady and when you reach the top you will appreciate all that is yours, for you will truly feel that you have earned it. Your success will depend very largely on your good judgment and fairness and on the many people you have cultivated as friends and befriended during the course of your life. You will have few enemies, and those you do have will be inspired to enmity through jealousy. Your greatest stumbling blocks will be those of the opposite sex; unless careful you will find yourself in more than one entanglement.

Planned Routine Saves Lots Of Energy for Housewives

If, in doing your housekeeping, you let your head save your feet, you will have more leisure to spend with your family and more energy to enjoy the leisure. Then, too, the essentials will be accomplished and the unimportant details eliminated.

Perhaps the best way to do this is by mapping out a program of your daily routine. If you have servants, a program should be made for each; if not, your own program will have to be arranged more carefully. Set aside definite hours for regular and special work. Sketch a plan of your kitchen and dot the lines of travel. How can you save your steps? Can they be shortened? Do they cross? Can that be avoided? Make a similar sketch of your living rooms and bedrooms. Will moving the furniture shorten the lines of travel?

Try to train the members of the family to share the household duties, no matter how slight. If everyone helps, the comfort of the family as a whole will be increased.

If possible, plan a rest period in your working day. A half hour of relaxation will give you added energy and help to keep you from being jaded at the end of the day.

Don't worry about details left undone. What if there are three specks of dust behind grandfather's portrait? As long as the necessary cleaning is done, the specks of dust can wait. Fastidiousness is an excellent characteristic for a housewife to have, but, if exaggerated, it can cause her lots of misery.

When you work, work with your mind as well as your body, and when you play, let your mind play, too.

Housekeeper Given A Few "Extra" Jobs!

Centreville, Md. (AP).—A carpenter in Centreville has his own ideas about housekeepers. He put this advertisement in the paper:

"Wanted—A good-looking, middle-aged white housekeeper who needs a home, is gifted with gab, can sing and dance and drive dull care away. The dead and dying need not apply. W. H. Neale."

Bordeaux Sauce.

1 gallon chopped cabbage
½ gallon chopped green tomatoes
1 cup chopped celery
1 cup chopped onions
1 cup chopped green peppers
4 tablespoons salt
2 tablespoons white mustard seed
2 quarts vinegar
3 cups sugar

Mix ingredients and boil quickly until mixture thickens. Pour into sterilized jars and seal. One gallon equals 16 cups.

Grapes Most Welcome Of All September Fruits

What with tons of grapes being eaten out of hand, made into juice to drink, jams and jellies to eat with meat and grape desserts, it's pretty plain grapes are as welcome in September as flowers in May. Sigmund Spaeth, the tune detective, believes grape is the queen of all fruit flavors.

In the way of grape desserts, I find a deep, oozy pie with lattice crust a high favorite. Made like this, for example: First measure 4 cups of washed, stemmed blue or Concord grapes. Then pop the pulp out of the skins into the top of a double boiler and cook gently 20 minutes. Press this pulp through a sieve fine enough to hold back seeds. Then mix sieved pulp with grape skins. Next, stir in 1 cup sugar mixed with 2 tablespoons flour, ¼ teaspoon cinnamon and 2 eggs (slightly beaten). Then line a 9-inch tin with pie crust, brush it with a little unbeaten egg white, turn in the grape mixture and dot with bits of butter (using 1 teaspoon). Cover with pie crust cut in ½-inch strips. Bake at 450 degrees F. for 10 minutes. Then reduce heat and bake at 350 degrees F. about 35 minutes more.

Grape Tarts.

Grape tarts are so pretty (besides being good) I used them for the illustration to this article. In case you'd like to pretty up a meal with them, here's the recipe.

First mix ½ teaspoon salt into 2 cups sifted flour. Work in 2-3 cup shortening and just enough cold water (about 1-3 cup) to make stiff dough. Roll out about ¼ inch thick and cut into 12 rounds with a 3-inch cutter. Then with a 1½-inch cutter cut a hole in six of these rounds. Moisten edges of uncut rounds, lay the rounds with the holes in them on top and press edges together. Bake at 450 degrees F. 10 minutes, then at 350 degrees F. for 10 minutes more. Cool, fill centers with grape jelly and garnish (when serving) with a bit of whipped cream.

I'm not going to take up jelly making here, because I did this already in another article, and because I want to give you the recipe for another delicious dessert—grape sherbet. This starts with 6 cups Concord or Delaware grapes (measured after stemming). Wash and crush these, and cook with 1 cup water till soft. Then strain and measure 1 pint of juice. To this add 2-3 cup sugar, bring to a boil, then add 2 teaspoons lemon juice and 1 tablespoon orange juice. Meanwhile, in another saucepan, boil up 1 cup water and 2-3 cup sugar for two minutes. Then cool and combine with grape juice mixture. Turn this into crank freezer or tray of automatic refrigerator. Freeze. When nearly frozen, stir in 1 egg white, beaten stiff, with 1 teaspoon powdered sugar. This is delicious, not only to start or end a meal, but to serve in the meat course with roasts or game.

Chili Sauce Recipe Wins Week's Prize

Mrs. Eva Hudgins, of West Annapolis, Offers One Her Mother Used.

With tomatoes, green peppers and other garden stuff available at such reasonable prices in Washington markets the thrifty housewife prepares for winter menus by making sauces, chili sauces and other delectable relishes from these supplies.

Mrs. Eva Hudgins, of West Annapolis, Md., knows how to utilize these materials in the most effective way, because she uses a recipe which her mother has used for many years and always with success.

Mrs. Hudgins' recipe has been awarded the $5 prize this week. Here it is:

Chili Sauce.

12 large ripe tomatoes
3 onions
2 sweet green peppers
2 tablespoons mixed spices
2 teaspoons celery seed
2 cups vinegar
2 cups brown sugar
3 teaspoons salt

Peel tomatoes and cut in pieces. Chop the onions and peppers. Mix all ingredients together, having spices tied in bag. Cook about 1½ hours until thickened. Turn into sterilized jars or bottles and seal.

Corned Beef Club Has Annual Feast

Allerton, Ill. (AP).—Some 43 years ago Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Davis, then newlyweds, told friends the day would come when it would be common to travel by air, and that they would then take their honeymoon in a "flying machine."

Now they are on that honeymoon. Their son, Winfield, wireless operator at the Indianapolis municipal airport, arranged it for them.

Conscience

By Katherine W. Smith.

I do not dare to fill your eyes
With my mute wretchedness.
I know that while I loved you once,
Today I love you less.

And when I see your simple faith,
My guilty heart is sore,
Yet, through your blind fidelity,
I find I love you more.

Death Ends Pranks of Children's Crow

He'd pluck clothespins from lines and caw in glee as the clothes fell to the ground. He'd follow the children to school and then peck at the window panes after the teacher put him out.

Last week he disappeared, and when he returned he went on a hunger strike. Today the children are mourning his death.

Gotham Gardener Never Saw Movie

Miss Mary Kalbron, 17, was awarded a silver cup yesterday for outstanding work in children's gardens maintained on the upper East Side by the Plant and Flower Guild.

Blushing, she admitted she knows her onions and radishes, but has never seen a film. Too busy hoeing, she explained.

Miniature Rarebits Pose as Appetizers

Miniature welsh rarebits are delicious appetizers to serve with cocktails. Thin the contents of a bottle of the prepared mixture with a little cream or milk. Spread on small soda crackers that have been heated in the oven. Serve at once. One clever hostess served, in addition to these rarebits, pickled onions with cocktails. The two, provided the majority of your friends like onions, are an excellent combination.

Subtle Fits, Less Trimming Distinguish Fall Fashions

This season's suits for women are divided into two classes: Those with the short-fitted jacket, often buttoned straight up the front; and the three-quarter-length jacket type, which is slim and fitted at the back. The latter type is made of cloth, with variety introduced by the use of fur sleeves.

This winter's blouse is mainly of velvet. Tunic blouses in any material are enjoying a revival, and they are both rich and simple.

Fur concentrated in the back is seen on many of the new daytime coats, while coats for street, travel and morning wear are most often seen in neutral or dark colors.

Separate frocks are made on simple lines of rich materials, or of conventional materials in decidedly complicated design. Trimming touches are unusual and rigidly restricted.

French designers contend that trimming too freely indulged subtracts from smartness, in that it is "the easiest way out" in striving for distinction. The more subtle the cut and fit, the less need for trimming, they hold.

Knockabout hats of felt will predominate for daytime wear in the well dressed woman's wardrobe. And, that this is not to be a season of one particular color, is shown in the many and varying shades and colors being shown.

For opera, dinner and dance, the grander the dress the darker should be the color, fashion authorities decree. Rich velvets lead for evening wear.

The Family Marketer

Fresh Pineapple Brings Distinct Sweetness; New York Lettuce Cheaper.

Fresh pineapple, which took such a beating from recent storms, continued to seep into the market. Today the only representatives you're likely to find are of the sugar-loaf variety, which boasts a distinct sweetness. You'll pay anywhere from 30 to 40 cents each. Later they'll be considerably cheaper. That is, if more storms don't play havoc.

We noticed some New York State lettuce on the market today, a few cents cheaper than the Iceberg. However, the heads were neither as large nor firm, so if you don't object to the 15-cent price of the latter, you'll be getting a better buy.

With the advent of the early yoke spring cabbage, we are thoroughly more convinced than ever that seasons are a thing of the past. Here it is autumn and you can buy these small heads, as tender as can be, and only pay 7½ cents a pound.

Don't Worry About Odor.

With such quality of cabbage it would be a shame to disguise one iota of the taste by dressing it up in fancy dishes. Boil it and serve with vinegar, or with salt, pepper and butter, and you will derive the full benefit of its flavor.

You might be one of the modern cave-dwellers in a small apartment and hesitate to cook cabbage on account of its decided aroma. In that event, cast your scruples aside, for by boiling a small portion of vinegar during the cooking time, you can do away with any tell-tale cabbage fragrance.

Parsnips or Turnips.

It's really a toss-up between parsnips and turnips, but just for the sake of variety, which some people say is the price of life, let's have parsnips for dinner tonight. You can add an interesting flavor if you boil them with a bit of pork.

Inasmuch as a great many people feel the top of the morning is completely blasted without grapefruit to begin the day, we keep a careful tab on their price and quality. There are some new ones on the market now, bringing with them a lot of semitropical sweetness from Florida. They aren't as cheap as they have been, but, considering the fact they're a new crop and in first-class condition, we couldn't call 10 cents each exactly high.

Quinces Few and Costly.

You might have decided you had done enough jellying and preserving for one season, but when you see the new load of quinces you'll be likely to change your mind. However, look that budget over carefully, for they're selling three pounds for 25 cents—and there aren't many quinces to a pound.

After a heavy meal, if you haven't a fruit ice handy, you can achieve the same satisfaction from slightly acid fruit. Try the large green gage plums. They're pleasing to the eye and palate.

Peaches On Way Out.

Peaches often are used in this way, but they won't be much longer. The New Jerseys on the market now are going up, up, up in price and you know what that means. They're on their way out. Right now you'll have to pay 25 cents for three pounds. Even at that they aren't the usual tasty tempters.

Good news for the children—spinach is cheaper today. Instead of 20 cents, the price now is 15 cents. And it's even better(!) than it was.

Air Honeymooners Realize Old Dream

St. Louis—The Corned Beef and Cabbage Club's membership of fifteen apparently is no criterion of the splendor of the dish. The club, making plans for its twelfth annual picnic Sunday, expects to feed several hundred guests.

Farley Curbs Party Leaders In Using Radio

Moves to Censor Speeches by "Spokesmen" to End Embarrassment.

The Democratic national committee has decided to exert control over the speeches which administration leaders make over the radio, and in the future will use Herbert L. Pettey, secretary of the Federal Radio Commission, to obtain free broadcasting time for committee speakers.

This was revealed last night in two letters sent Cabinet chiefs by James A. Farley, Postmaster General and chairman of the Democratic national committee.

Government and party officials seeking broadcasting time in the future have been ordered by Farley to apply directly to Richard F. Roper, executive secretary of the Democratic national committee and son of the Secretary of Commerce. If Roper approves of the proposed speech he will forward the request to Pettey, who was the committee's director of radio in the presidential campaign and was made Radio Commission secretary as a reward.

Three reasons for the decision have been made known.

The first is to provide each section of the country with a balanced diet of words which might prove useful in the forthcoming congressional campaigns.

The second is to censor remarks of officials who have been using the name of the national committee to obtain free time on the air.

Cites Many Requests.

The letter to the Cabinet chiefs said:

"It has come to my attention that the radio stations have received a large number of requests for broadcasting time with the understanding that such requests had the approval of the chairman of the Democratic national commmittee.

"In order to prevent misunderstanding in the future, I have advised the broadcasting stations that the only person authorized to represent me on radio matters is Mr. Herbert L. Pettey."

Also Wrote Stations.

The letter to the broadcasting companies said:

"If has come to the attention of the Democratic national committee that a gerat number of individuals have been contacting either your office or a branch offitee on your company and representing themselves as spokesmen for the Democratic national committee on radio matters.

"By means of this letter I wish to correct this practice and save both you and the Democratic national committee embarrassment which might arise from so many so-called representatives asking you for time or presenting requests for the approval of your company."

Patricide Laid To Hunted Boy

Youth, 17, Is Charged With Shooting Father and Step-Mother.

Ripley, W. Va., Sept. 15 (AP).—A reward of $100 was offered last night for the arrest of Ralph Eddy, charged with the shotgun slaying of his father and step-mother at Trace Fork Monday.

The Rev. James Frank Eddy, pastor of the Mount Hope Church of God, was found shot to death in a bedroom of his home. The body of Mrs. Bertie Eddy, his second wife, was found near the roadside.

Ralph has been missing since the double slaying. His father's abandoned automobile was found near Charleston the next day.

Matter to Be Subject In Scientist Churches.

"Matter" will be the subject of the lesson-sermon in all churches of Christ, Scientist, tomorrow. The golden text is from Psalms 56:4: "in God I will praise His word, in God I have put my trust; I will not fear what flesh can do unto me."

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Every valley shall be exalted, and every mountain and hill shall be made low: and the crooked shall be made straight, and the rough places plain, and the glory of the Lord shall be revealed, and all flesh shall see it together: for the mouth of the Lord hath spoken it." (Isaiah, 40:4, 5.)

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science text book, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "The unlikeness of Spirit is matter, and the opposite of the real is not divine—it is a human concept. Matter is an error of statement. This error in the premise leads to errors in the conclusion in every statement into which it enters. Nothing we can say or believe regarding matter is immortal, for matter is temporal and is therefore a mortal phenomenon, a human concept, sometimes beautiful, always erroneous."

Temple Dedicated to God

David Denied Permission to Build Church Because of His Warlike and Bloody Ways, and So to Solomon Goes Honor, According to Wyman Walker.

Scripture: I Kings; 8: 1-11.
Time: 1004 B. C.
Place: Jerusalem.

By Wyman Walker.

The children of Israel had been worshiping God in the tabernacle since their coming up out of the land of Egypt to enter and possess the land God had promised Abraham and his seed after him. David, God's chosen king, had it in his heart to build a temple to God, one on a solid foundation to stand throughout eternity, but God would not permit David to build this temple because David was a warring and bloody king. He did give this privilege to Solomon, David's youngest son, though David was allowed to gather into the treasury such gold, silver, brass and other necessary provisions for the building of the temple.

After seven years in constructing the temple to God, Solomon in the seventh month after its completion dedicated it to God just before the feast of tabernacles. Solomon called all the priests and Levites and elders together to bring up the Ark of the Covenant out of Zion to be placed in the holy of holies under the wings of the cherubims, where only the priests were allowed to enter. When the staves had been properly placed the priests came out of the holy place, and the glory of the Lord filled the house.

When we dedicate ourselves to the Lord, He will fill us with the Holy Spirit. Paul has well said to the Romans, "I beseech you, therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service and be not conformed to this world, but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind, that ye may prove what is that good and acceptable and perfect will of God."

Solomon, in his dream, humbled himself before God because he realized the evils that surrounded the kingdom. He also realized that to rule Israel successfully would be a bigger job than he alone could do. God is a jealous God, and requires man to come to Him in humbleness of heart, and then man will find Him with outstretched arms full of love and mercy. In the early life of Solomon, David had him instructed in the ways of God, and it was the complete surrender that Solomon made, seeking only to please God without any thought of self. So, in his askance that God grant him the power to discern between good and bad, Solomon could have asked of God many things from the standpoint of worldly goods and long life, but he asked only for wisdom enough to lead God's people in the way of truth.

In his absolute dependence upon God Solomon revealed the weakness of the flesh of mankind to depend upon its own strength and will. History of the kings of Israel also give us a clear conception of how weak mankind is in God's permissive will. They all failed. God and one are always a majority.

God, knowing the absolute dependency of Solomon, and seeing that he was in His will, not only granted him a wise and understanding heart, but, "I have also given thee that which thou hast not asked." Jesus, our Lord and Savior, tells us, "Come unto Me all ye that labor and are heavy laden and I will give you rest. Take my yoke upon you and learn of me, for I am meek and lowly in heart: and ye shall find rest for your souls. For my yoke is easy and my burden is light." (Matt. 11: 28-30.) Let us not depend upon our own strength, but depend solely upon our Lord. Man and his ways will forsake you, but God is ever dependable: "I shall never forsake thee," and, as Paul has told us,

"The just shall live by faith."
"Turn your eyes upon Jesus,
Look full in His wonderful face;
And the things of earth will grow strangely dim

Radio Board May Hike 50-Kilowatt Stations

(Associated Press.)

The Radio Commission yesterday opened the way for increasing the power of some radio stations now operating on cleared channels.

A rule, under which the number of stations using power of 50 kilowatts was limited to four for each of the Nation's five zones, was rescinded upon a motion by Commissioner Harold A. Lafount. Since there are eight cleared channels in each zone, this will permit doubling the number of 50-kilowatt stations in each.

Farmers Split With Venders On Milk Policy

(Associated Press.)

Representatives of producers about the Farm Adjustment Administration yesterday studied the new milk policy with approval, but it brought protests from some distributors.

George N. Peek, administrator of the farm adjustment act, announced Thursday night that the administration henceforth would have a 30-day trial period for milk marketing agreements in cities where an "emergency situation" exists.

Only the price paid farmers and maximum retail prices will be fixed, while books of distributors and dealers will be studied to arrive at final retail schedules.

In the "emergency" class were listed Baltimore, Evansville, Ind., Los Angeles, San Diego and Oakland, all of which have agreements pending.

The distributors protested that while the price they must pay the farmers under the new plan would be increased, they would have no protection during the 30-day period against "cutthroat competition." Some distributor representatives in the cities named said they doubted whether a majority of the milk dealers would sign the 30-day agreements.

Chicago "Blockaded."

Chicago, Sept. 15 (AP).—Striking dairymen prevented massed attempts of their neighbors to send milk to the Chicago market today and declared the blockade was spreading.

Arguments accompanied by shaking of fists turned scores of milk laden truck homeward after their owners had set out for delivery depots at towns in a tri-county area 50 miles northwest of Chicago.

Leaders among Chicago retail dealers and officials of the Pure Milk Association, organization of 1,000 dairy farmers, claimed not more than 7 per cent of the city's normal supply of milk was being withheld.

Georgia Governor Bars "Speed Trap"

Atlanta, Sept. 15 (U.P.).—When the governor of Florida complains about getting caught in an alleged Georgia "speed trap," the governor of Georgia is going to do something about it, even if he has to hold a "kangaroo court."

So this afternoon, Gov. Eugene Talmadge held a "hearing" to learn just why Gov. Dave Sholtz, of Florida, recently was forced to post a $5 cash bond when he was stopped for speeding in Lula, Ga.

Before him, the Georgia Governor solemnly summoned Charles Hawkins, the Chief of Police of both Lula and Belton, and Mayor Tallent, of Lula.

Gov. Talmadge made some remarks about "Hi-jacking rackets," and it being wrong for any Georgia municipality to operate a "money-making trap and I will not allow it."

Brings Out Firemen and Gets Friend Nabbed; Then Goes Home.

Baltimore, Sept. 15 (A.P.).—"Pete," Miss Addie Evans' pet canary, flitted home today, but not until he had brought out the fire department and caused a friend to be arrested.

Pete escaped yesterday and perched in a tree. Milton Spriggs remembered firemen's recent rescue of a tree-siting cat. He turned in an alarm. Two pumpers, a ladder outfit and a salvage truck responded.

Convicts' Code Drafters Omit Minimum Pay

Forty-Hour Week, Adding Labor in Production Cost, Provided.

(Associated Press.)

A code for prison labor was filed informally with the NRA yesterday.

The plan called for a maximum 40-hour week, without minimum pay stated, but with a proviso that labor costs must be figured in the production charge.

Thirty-two States were represented in formulation of the code, which will be formally presented to Administrator Johnson when it has been acted upon by 48 States. The general opinion of its advocates was expressed in this way:

"It is a definite step forward in the solution of the baffling problem of prison labor, fair to industry, fair to the public and fair to the prison."

Approval would bring prison labor into accord with the NRA and minimize the probability of more drastic codes that would "prohibit markets to all prison-made goods," spokesmen said.

The code would prohibit sale at less than production cost and would require that labor charges per unit be the same as for like goods made by outside industry.

Broad Market In Home Bonds Seen as Need

Bankers Say Unrestricted Demand Is Necessary for Issue's Success.

New York, Sept. 15.—The success of the entire plan of the Home Owners Loan Corporation to relieve distressed home owners seems to depend primarily upon the creation of a broad market for the corporation's bonds, according to Charles E. Quincey & Co., who, after a careful study of the situation, have come to the definite conclusion that such a market will be established and maintained.

Only through the development of a free and unrestricted market, it is believed, will most holders of eligible mortgages be induced to exchange these mortgages for the new bonds. It is obvious also, the firm states, that unless a stable market is maintained, it would have an extremely adverse effect upon the Administration's entire recovery program.

"If these bonds were to sell down sharply, it would, in all probability, produce a sympathetic decline in the Federal Land Bank bonds, which are also obligations of institutions largely owned by the United States Government, and would greatly hinder the Government's program for the issuance of $2,000,000,000 of new Consolidated Federal Land Bank bonds, provided for under the agricultural relief act of 1933," says the firm. "We feel confident that responsible Administration officials are fully aware of the importance of this matter in the general recovery scheme."

Support for Bonds.

In commenting on the power of the Administration to give strong support to the market for these bonds and the possible effect of the so-called "Thomas amendment" in this connection, the firm says:

"First, we should consider the authority granted the President under the so-called 'Thomas amendment,' under which he may direct the Secretary of the Treasury to enter into agreements with the several Federal Reserve banks and the Federal Reserve Board, providing for the purchase by the Federal Reserve banks of bonds of corporations of which the United States is the principal stockholder.

"It would seem logical to believe that this authority will be used if other means to support the market for Home Owners Loan Corporation bonds prove inadequate. The fact that a committee of all interested Government agencies already is functioning, lends encouragement to the belief that action could be taken quickly when needed.

Other Markets Open.

"Although the possible purchase of these bonds by the Federal Reserve Bank offers one of the most potent methods which could be adopted to create a good market, it is by no means the only one. It is known that the Board of the Home Owners Loan Corporation is now considering the advisability of entering into three-way agreements with the large institutional holders of home mortgages and distressed home owners.

Such agreements would give these institutions the right to exchange bonds they now accept for mortgages, for the original mortgages, within a period of three years. These institutions would, therefore, obtain the greater collateral value of the bonds as compared with the mortgages (enabling them to borrow from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation up to 80 per cent of the face value), without giving up any of their original rights, except that of immediate foreclosure.

"It would be our suggestion to include an additional clause in these agreements which would commit these institutions to hold these bonds for this three-year period, unless they could be sold for more than a fixed minimum price. Collectively, they would then have the satisfaction of knowing that a major step had been taken to stabilize the market on the bonds they were going to hold. Most of them would have no desire to sell their holdings, anyway, if they were assured that the market would be well maintained.

Two Beneficial Provisions.

"The act creating the corporation also contains two provisions which should ultimately be beneficial to the market for the bonds. It is provided that any person indebted to the Home Owners' Loan Corporation (including interest and principal installments on mortgages owned by it) may make payment to it in part or in full by delivery of these bonds, which shall be accepted for such purposes at face value.

"The law also directs the corporation to retire and cancel the bonds of the corporation as rapidly as its resources permit, and it is expected that bonds will be retired as rapidly as the outstanding principal amount of mortgages owned by the corporation is reduced.

"There is, moreover, nothing in the law to prevent the corporation from purchasing its own bonds with its capital funds or with funds derived through borrowing from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation."

Foreign Markets.

(Associated Press.)

London—Quotations on the stock exchange were mostly firm today. Gilt-edged securities improved on the success of the Australian conversion operation, while oil shares and kaffirs continued to advance, the latter being influenced by the higher price of bar gold. Industrials were quiet but generally steady, wet shares being well maintained. International issues were cheerful on Wall street advices and German bonds rallied somewhat. The market closed quiet and irregular.

Paris—Buying based on the activity in Wall street caused an improvement in prices on the bourse. However, the market turned quieter later with slight declines being registered. The closing was resistant.

Berlin—An early spurt due to buying orders failed to withstand selling pressure on the boerse. The market closed irregular.

Goods Market.

New York, Sept. 15 (A.P.).—Cotton goods markets were active today, print cloths and broadcloths selling in heavy volume. Rayon shipments continued large. Silks were steady at the higher levels established during the week. Wool goods were in moderate demand at steady prices. Burlap was slightly higher.

Trade Trends.

(Associated Press.)

Iron—The volume of new business in the iron industry is slackening, New York salesmen report, although shipments continue at a good rate due to the desire of consumers to get all the iron previously ordered into their yards before prices are raised.

Tin—The expectation of consumers of further advances in prices has caused a fair volume of business this week and the price of tin—46¾ cents per pound—represented a new high for recent weeks. English refined tin is at the usual discount of 1 cent per pound.

Clothing—Garment manufacturers specializing in tweeds report business brisk. They have enough orders on hand to assure full time manufacturing.

Goods Orders Indicate Brisk Fall Business

New York, Sept. 15.—The fall season in men's wear wool goods is coming to an end, according to the New York Wool Top Exchange Service, and, although a number of mills are running out of orders, trade sentiment continues optimistic as mills prepare lines for the next or spring season.

It is reported that several of the larger firms have booked enough business on spring men's wear to tide them over the dull period that usually takes place between the end of one season and the beginning of the next. It is also reported that chain stores, catalogue houses and other large users of wool goods have placed orders for thousands of pieces of goods for delivery through the next four to five months.

"A brisk business is being done in wool fabrics for spot delivery," says the Exchange Service, "with jobbers securing the bulk of this trade. Mill stocks of fabrics are the lightest in years, and goods made during the months of heavy production have been readily absorbed by the clothing trade. Overcoatings continue to move in good volume.

Dress goods shipments are now being accepted by manufacturers whose shops had been closed for some time by labor disputes. Mills are looking forward to another wave of cloakings demand once cutters become convinced that the trend of retail sales is favorable. Clothing continues to sell actively at retail.

Manufacturers report little resistance to the higher prices on apparel from retailers. Sales of clothing in industrial centers, where conditions are better than they have been in some time, show a pronounced upward trend.

Foreign Bond Rise Fails to Lift Market

Domestic Issues Are Heavy; Sales Volume Drops to $12,333,000.

New York, Sept. 15 (AP).—Bonds worked at cross purposes today with domestic issues generally heavy and some foreign dollar loans spurting to new highs for a year or more in sympathy with the further buoyancy of gold currencies.

The trading volume was around that of yesterday, sales totaling $12,333,000, par value. The average for 60 domestic corporate maturities sagged two-tenths of a point.

New peak levels were attained by bonds of Dutch East Indies with gains of around 2 points each. French 7½s and 7s also marked up new records by advancing 3 and 2¼ points, respectively. Swiss and Norwegian issues were up a point or more, as were the British, Brazilians and some of the Germans. The Argentines were a trifle heavy.

Softness of secondary railway liens apparently reflected the declines in carrier stocks. Carrier loans, off 1 to 2 or more points, included some of Alleghany Corporation, Baltimore & Ohio, Chesapeake Corporation, St. Paul, Chicago & Western, Indiana, Denver & Rio Grande, Great Northern, New York Central, Nickel Plate, Pennsylvania, Southern Pacific, Southern and Wabash.

Even the best of the utilities were under some pressure. Declines of a point or more in this section were suffered by bonds of American Telephone, American & Foreign Power, Consolidated Gas, International Hydro-Electric, International Telephone, Portland General Electric and Utilities Power & Light. Most of the industrials were a trifle easier.

With the exception of Liberty Fourth 4¼s, which held a slight gain, United States Government securities sagged.

Stocks Lose Ground Under Selling Drives

Early Rallies Yield to Period of Irregularity and Indecision; Losses Average 3.7 Points; Trading Drops to 2,453,000 Shares.

New York, Sept. 15 (AP).—Stocks acquired a decided list in the final dealings today when selling became fairly active. Previously, the market had had an upturn followed by a period of irregularity and indecision. Net losses were in a 1 to 4 point range, while the turnover came to 2,453,400 shares.

Commodities, on the other hand, were reasonably steady for the most part. Wheat acted erratically, closing with small variations from Thursday, but cotton was up a bit and several of the other staple markets, including sugar, returned fair gains.

The dollar's break to a new low helped maintain stable prices, even though it offered no aid to stocks. Our currency unit went under 68 cents, gold value; conversely, the gold moneys reached new highs and the Treasury's daily price for the yellow metal jumped 64 cents to $30.41 an ounce, a rise of $1.31 from Monday.

On the stock exchange mining and tobacco shares made occasional sallies, but response was lacking from other sectors after the initial firmness. Utilities again bogged down, joined by the wets and later the rails. Industrials lacked resistance when the downswing became general. United States Steel, Du-Pont, Allied Chemical, American Telephone, Case, New York Central, United States Industrial Alcohol, United States Smelting, American Commercial Alcohol, Western Union, Consolidated Gas, Public Service of New Jersey and Southern Pacific sagged 2 to 3, approximately. Union Pacific and National Distillers Products lost 4. Homestake halved a 12-point rise.

The dollar's drop, a reflection of inflation rumors abroad which exchange speculators presumably are not neglecting to make use of, coincided with a weak European market for French francs. That currency's position against guilders, Swiss francs and belgas raised a question here of whether gold would be drawn from Paris to Holland, Switzerland or Belgium and revived the familiar conjucture as to the durability of France's alliance with the gold standard. Late selling of stocks was associated by some brokers with rumors that it might be severed; such reports recur frequently and on occasions they have been accompanied by a weakening share market.

Trade news was of small import, but Wall street found occupation in talking over developments along the credit-expansion front, as well as renewed agitation for more drastic and less orthodox inflation. The $700,000,000 in excess reserves of central banking system members—a record high—seems an impressive total to many bankers who face what they believe to be an indefinitely long period of extremely cheap money.

Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., reported an "extension of the sustained buying movement in retail and wholesale trade." The agency's reports from various sectors stress, according to its weekly review, the "rapid disappearance of suspense and apprehension" which marked the period prior to general adoption of the industrial codes.

Key to Credit Is Cooperation, Tastet Says

Association Head Reviews Work of Group in Nation's Business.

Cooperation is the keystone of the United States credit structure. This is the opinion of W. J. Tastet, of Fries, Beall & Sharp Co., president of Washington Asociation of Credit Men. While the success of a sales department depends upon its ability to compepte, the success of the credit department, he reminds, depends on its ability to cooperate.

In discussing credit cooperation yesterday, Mr. Tastet reviewed the cooperative methods employed in both national and local credit associations, such as the Washington unit, and explained how this cooperation has benefited business.

"Credit cooperation on a nationwide scale and in all industries was the basic purpose for which the National Association of Credit Men was organized," Mr. Tastet said.

How Policy Works.

"This cooperative policy has worked toward its objective along three major lines: first, by fostering desirable legislation for the good of all business; second, by promoting a high standard of business ethics and third, by developing and constantly improving a credit technique based on uniform practices."

As instances of constructive legislation in which the credit associations have had a part, he mentioned the Federal bankruptcy act and the various state financial statement laws and bulk sales laws.

"Through the local credit associations and through the National Association of Credit Men, representing them all, much has been done to standardize credit practices and to build up a generally accepted code of business ethics, in regard to credit matters.

"The establishment of this code of credit ethics, which we all treasure, has served to break down the wall of secrecy surrounding credit methods, thus enabling competing concerns to cooperate closely with one another in credit matters.

Groups Important Aid.

"The most important contribution of the credit association, however, has been the development of cooperative bureaus for the interchange of credit information and for the settlement of insolvent estates," he said.

"Interchange and adjustment machinery constitute the most important work-day tools of the modern credit executive," he explained, "and both these services are operated on a strictly cooperative basis. Thousands of firms throughout the country participate in the interchange system, contributing to the pool their actual ledger experience regarding firms seeking credit.

"This is the most valuable credit information that can be obtained, and it could be collected in no other way. The adjustment bureau system is likewise nation-wide, and the 70 bureaus in principal market centers, all organized on uniform lines, cooperate in their handling of collection and adjustment matters."

War on Crime.

Another cooperative effort in which the credit associations have joined with a high degree of success has been the war on commercial crime. Backed by an initial war chest of $1,400,000, raised in 1925 and later increased, the National Association of Credit Men has investigated thousands of cases suspected of credit fraud and has secured the conviction of hundreds of commercial criminals.

John P. Lynch, New York Life Insurance Co., has been named national committeeman to represent the District of Columbia Life Underwriters Association at the national convention at Chicago, September 25 to September 30.

Thomas P. Morgan, president of the local association, said Mr. Lynch will be one of the few delegates to go to the national convention uninstructed by his local.

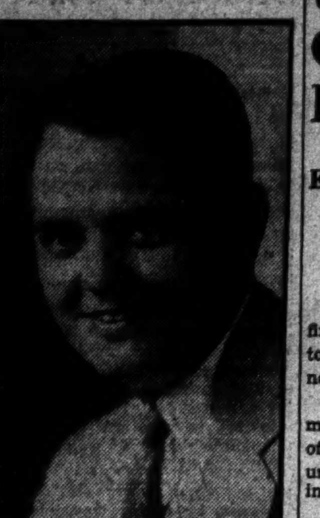

Riehle May Get Vote.

Although Mr. Lynch has not committed himself, it is generally understood he will vote for Theodore M. Riehle, of New York City, for president of the national association. Mr. Riehle cooperated with Mr. Lynch last year in putting the Washington association "over the top" in its endeavors.

The local association will get a report of the convention at the October meeting.

Interest rates on Christmas savings clubs' accounts have been discussed by local bankers, some of whom favor elimination of all interest on them. The council of administration of he District of Columbia Bankers Association has considered the matter and has recommended that instead of eliminating interest on them entirely, a reduction to a rate of 1½ per cent is quite reasonable. It is understood the banks will pay that rate on funds of next year's clubs. The present rate is 3 per cent.

Utilities Push Curb's Prices Into Declines

New York, Sept. 15 (AP).—Early firmness in the curb market faded today under the influence of heaviness in utilities.

Initial advances in alcohols and metals were converted into losses of fractions to more than a point under heavy selling that increased in the last hour.

Recessions in the power group ran as high as 3 points in active issues. Columbia Gas & Electric preferred and Consolidated Gas of Baltimore lost 2 and 3 points respectively. Electric Bond & Share and American Gas & Electric yielded 1½ each. The possibility of the Government-operated Muscle Shoals plant offering power at reduced rates was instrumental in the selling.

Oils turned reactionary, Humble, Gulf and Standard Oil of Ohio each sagging 2 points or more. Wide losses were registered in a number of specialties. Singer Manufacturing, which has been moving up recently, slumped 5 points. Parker Rust Proof lost 3, while Pan American Airways eased nearly as much.

Aluminum Co. of America conceded 2, while losses of around a point or more occurred in Hiram Walker, Distillers Corporation-Seagrams, Newmont and Armstrong Cork. New Jersey Zinc, an isolated firm spot, gained 3½.

Transfers approximated 389,000 shares, compared with 388,000 yesterday.

Directors of the corporation have also voted to increase the capital of Refrigeration Discount Corporation, a wholly owned subsidiary, which finances the sale of its products, from $1,700,000 to $2,000,000.

Wheat Rallies Sustain Prices At Steady Level

Export Business Inspires Buying; Other Grains Rise Slightly.

Chicago, Sept. 15 (AP).—Swinging nervously over a range of 2¾ cents today, wheat rallied at the last, and closed at quotations almost identical with 24 hours previous.

Encouragement for wheat buyers was found in the largest North American export business for some time, 2,500,000 bushels, and in evidence that 1,000,000 bushels of wheat would be moved soon from Chicago to Eastern Lake cities. A disconcerting factor as to grains, however, was unsettlement of securities.

Wheat closed irregular, ⅛ off to ⅛ up, compared with yesterday's finish; corn, ¼ to ½ advanced; oats, at ¼ decline to ⅛ gain, and provisions varying from 10 cents setback to a rise of 7 cents.

Crops May be Held.

Comprehensive reports at hand indicated that farmers throughout the United States were showing a firm tendency to hold wheat, and that mills were entering the market at every favorable opportunity.

There was talk current, too, that at the end of this season the world surplus stock of wheat would beyond question be greatly reduced, and that a short yield per acre appeared past due in importing Europe.

Authoritative assertions were also heard that the Canadian government stood ready to support the Winnipeg market in case of serious weakness developing.

Influence of Sterling.

A sharp advance of British exchange proved effective at times toward influencing wheat values upward. One leading authority contended that, based on currency values when the bank moratorium was declared, December wheat was now selling at the equivalent of 65 cents, an entirely inadequate response to crop disasters in North America.

Special notice, too, was taken that dearth of moisture continued in northern Argentina, and that after three months virtual complete absence of rainfall the total recent precipitation had been only six-tenths of an inch.

Corn showed relatively more strength than wheat did. Forecasts pointed to likelihood of delay to movement of late corn. Some selling of oats here was done against purchases at Winnipeg.

Provisions were governed chiefly by hog market changes, advancing at first and reacting later.

Russia Is Ahead on Grain Collection

Moscow, Sept. 15 (AP).—Michael Kalinin, President of Soviet Russia, has announced that grain collections to the government on September 1 aggregated 360,000,000 bushels, or 40 per cent of the amount set for the year.

This was the first indication that the second five-year plan provides for the gathering of 900,000,000 bushels. At this time last year the collections were one-third of the amount so far gathered in 1933.

Kalinin made the announcement at a meeting of 1,700 presidents of Soviets in western Smolensk on September 5, but was not made public until today.

Virginia Bank Class to Join In Graduation

Richmond, Va., Sept. 15 (AP).—Richmond Chapter, American Institute of Banking, will join with chapters in 228 other cities tomorrow in the institute's annual graduation exercises.

The programs, to be held simultaneously in each of the cities, will be addressed through a nation-wide radio hook-up by Newton D. Baker, former Secretary of War.

The local chapter, which conducts its classes in conjunction with the Virginia Mechanics Institute, is now preparing for a new school year. Last session 233 employes of Richmond financial institutions were enrolled in the classes.

The chapter course covers a four-year period of study. Among the subjects presented are bank organization and operation, commercial law, negotiable instruments, economics, money and banking, credit management, financial statement analyses and bank management, as well as special courses in commercial banking, investment banking and trust banking.

Used Auto Trade Slump Laid To Advanced Ages of Cars

Chicago, Sept. 15 (AP).—Compared to the number of new automobiles financed, the business of selling used cars on the installment plan has experienced a decided decline in 1933.

And the main reason for this slump, in the opinion of officials of the National Association of Finance Companies, is the fact that so many used cars have become too old to have appreciable trade-in value.

From the prosperous days of 1928 until the end of 1932 the proportion of used cars bought on the installment plan skyrocketed.

It jumped from 84.9 per cent of the number of new cars financed in 1928 to 174.2 per cent in 1932. For the first six months of 1933, the association's figures show, it slipped to 137.6 per cent.

"During the last three years, when automobile production was constantly decreasing," explains Milan V. Ayres, analyst for the association, "the traffic in used cars became relatively more important.

"The change this year is due in part to the increase in new car production, and in part to the fact that on the average, cars in use are older and fewer of them are suitable for trade-in purposes.

"For the latter reason, it seems probable that the number of used cars sold and financed will continue for some time to be smaller—compared to the number of new cars—than it was in 1932."

Latest records of the association also reveal that the average value of retail installment notes bought by finance companies, covering both new and used vehicles, continue the decrease which began several years ago.

The average new car note, for instance, has dropped from $635 in 1928 to $546 in 1932 and $509 for the first six months of 1933.

Honey Crop Average is Down.

Montreal, Sept. 15 (U.P.).—With the honey season practically over in the Province of Quebec, advance estimates made by Cyrille Vaillancourt, head of the government agricultural service, indicate that the crop will be from 40 to 60 per cent lower than the average.

Ginned Cotton Data Reported Each Saturday

(Associated Press.)

Reports on the grade and staple of ginned cotton will be issued by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics at noon each Saturday through the active ginning season this year, beginning today.

Heretofore reports on grade and staple have been issued at periodic intervals during the season, but requests for more authentic information on the quality of the cotton crop caused the decision to issue the weekly summary.

The Department of Agriculture announced that at the same time the Nation-wide report on grade and staple is issued State reports would be released at Atlanta, Memphis, Dallas, Austin and El Paso.

The weekly reports will give cotton growers and the cotton trade information on the quality of cotton classed during the week for which the report is issued and also will show the quality of all cotton classed for the season up to the date of each report.

In addition, the percentages of the different grades and staple lengths represented by samples received from cooperating ginners will be given.

Today's announcement said marked improvement in the staple quality of American cotton in the last four years had been shown on the basis of grade and staple analysis. The improvement was reported particularly evident in the shorter cottons and, as a result, the staple length for the crop as a whole has gained almost 1-32 of an inch during the four-year period.

125 Idle Get Jobs In Peanut Factory

Suffolk, Sept. 15 (Spl.).—Unemployment received a powerful blow in Suffolk, Va., today when Pond Brothers Peanut Co. gave jobs to between 125 and 150 unemployed, many of whom had been without work for over a year.

The Pond Peanut Co. put on another shift in their factory, which opened for work this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, the choice of jobs going to those who had previous exeprience in wroking in peanut cleaning plants, and to those who were heads of families.

Wages paid will be on the scale adopted several weeks ago by the local cleaners, pending the adoption of the National Peanut Millers code.

Cotton Prices Advance on Trade Buying

December Closes at 9.64 as General Market Gains 5 to 14 Points.

New York, Sept. 15 (AP).—Cotton attracted increased realizing and Southern selling today, but trade absorption of contracts on partial reactions imparted a fairly steady undertone to the market and closing prices were 5 to 14 points net higher.

The announcement of further expansion of Federal credit policies and continued active demand for cotton goods were helpful and more than offset the softer tone of the late stock market. December contracts closed at 9.64.

Initial prices were firm at net advances of 15 to 21 points on rather general buying owing to relatively firm Liverpool cables.

Threats of two tropical disturbances tonight, one in South Texas and another in North Carolina caused some apprehension.

Increased Mill Support.

Early in the session prices rallied 19 to 23 points, but reacted about 16 to 18 points from the best in mid-afternoon. Increased mill support was uncovered at around 9.60 for December and 10.04 for May and prices rallied 4 or 5 points in the late trading.

Worth street, as well as mill interests, were credited with buying cotton to meet the demand from converters.

The Continent was credited with buying both spot cotton and futures contracts today and spot interests also reported fair demand from Southern mills. Exports today, 31,174, makng 897,012 so far this season. Port receipts, 98,472. United States port stocks, 3,108,716.

Volume of Trading.

The volume of trading was quite active throughout the day. There may have been some local selling on the decline on expectations of the usual increase in week-end hedge selling. In addition to realizing, there was considerable October liquidation, as well as some New Orleans selling.

However, the demand from domestic and foreign trade interests was of quite wide proportions. The weekly New York Cotton Exchange statistics revealed a steady movement of cotton to mills, forwardings thus far this season totaling 1,548,000 bales, against 1,381,000 to the corresponding date last year.

Liverpool cables reported a steady market, with general selling offset by trade and local buying. The action of exchange rates was being watched abroad as an indication of American inflation possibilities, it was said.

Fixed Prices In Oil Code Condemned

New York, Sept. 15.—If the price-fixing clause in the oil code, which has been temporarily abandoned, was eliminated permanently, it would be better both from a legal standpoint and for the good of the industry, according to the current T. S. Hose Review, which points out that price fixing is always dangerous, but when a price is set that is below the cost of production, it is ruinous.

"The entire object of the oil code, as it pertains to the national recovery act, was to stop the sale of petroleum at less than its cost of production," according to the review. "Dollar oil was talked freely without any real reason, when as a matter of fact, with the higher wages that will be paid under the national recovery act, with all costs taken into consideration, money would be lost producing oil at $1 a barrel and $1.40 would be nearer the correct minimum figure.

"Oil is the most important of all our commodities. When it is taken into consideration that the value of the 1932 crop of wheat was $417,612,725, that the value of the 1932 cotton crop was $475,475,550, and that the value of all the gold produced in the United States and its possessions in 1932, during which year more gold was produced than any year since 1924, was $51,836,400, as compared with the value of crude oil produced in 1932, $697,451,170, it will be readily appreciated that the industry is far too important to be subjected to rules made hurriedly.

"Price-fixing is always dangerous, but when a price is set that is below the cost of production, it is ruinous. General advances which are taking place in the Mid-Continent area are bringing oil very close to the $1 point, and $1.50 a barrel should be paid for crude before January 1, 1934. If this comes gradually, it will be a great deal healthier than as though it all came in one lump. In my opinion prices will adjust themselves, but the key to the whole situation is in whether or not proration can be properly enforced."

Boot and Shoe Code Troubles Begin to Melt

Factions Await Roosevelt Ruling on Merit Labor Provision.

Differences among boot and shoe manufacturers over details of the code of competition on which public hearings closed Wednesday melted rapidly yesterday as all factions awaited the Administration's ruling on the "merit" labor clause.

The shoe manufacturers, prepared to contend for retention of the merit clause, which permits employers to hire and fire without regard to union affiliation, were informed a statement would be made soon setting forth the administration's decision on the inclusion of the provision in codes yet to be promulgated.

Opposing groups in the industry disposed of a number of minor differences and said the labor clause alone remained as a serious issue.

Labor also hoped to remove interunion feuds, as a move was launched by State Representative C. E. Nelson Pratt, of Massachusetts. Pratt announced last night President William Green of the American Federation of Labor had agreed to call a conference in Boston soon in an attempt to amalgamate five large shoe unions.

A decision was expected soon from the National Labor Board on the interunion dispute in Brockton, Mass., which resulted in a strike of 7,000 workers. An agreement was effected by the board whereby the strikers returned to work pending a final decision.

Philippines for September to November shipment were available at 3.60. Sugar futures showed further gains, although they reacted from the rest with final prices 2 to 4 points net higher. Sales, 14,200 tons. The market opened at advances of 2 points and later showed gains of 4 points on all positions on covering and buying by houses with trade and Cuban connections. The demand seemed to be promoted by continued talk of inflation, and reports of renewed political disturbances in Cuba. The failure of refiners to show more interest seemed to discourage holders and partial setbacks followed under realizing. Final prices were off a point or two from the best.

Symmetalism Revived in Plan To Put Silver in Central Banks

New York, Sept. 15.—Proposals now being made to incorporate silver in the monetary reserves of central banks have brought into the news headlines a comparatively unknown word, symmetallism. Yet this is nothing new, it is revealed by the Commodity Exchange. According to this publication, the Silver Market Dictionary, prepared by Herbert M. Bratter, of Washington, symmetallism is described as "a monetary system in which the unit is defined as a certain weight of a combination of two specific metals, each in a certain specified proportion."

In ancient times, a combination of gold and silver, electrum, was used in Europe. While electrum is described as a natural alloy of gold and silver containing approximately 40 per cent of silver, in early Greece the proportion of silver was 80 per cent.

It is interesting to note that a kind of symmetallic alloy was patented in this country during the last century. "Goloid" was its name. This substance, according to the Silver Market Dictionary, was an alloy of gold, silver and copper, invented by William Wheeler Hubbell, of Philadelphia. It was registered in the Patent Office in 1877.

There is a distinct difference between symmetallism and bimetallism. Under a symetallic system the currency would be redeemed in a combination of two metals. Under bimetallism, the currency is redeemable in either of two metals, at the option of the holder of the currency. Bimetallism is defined as the free, unlimited coinage of two metals at an established ratio, either metal being manufactured into coins of unlimited tender, and such coins of either metal being freely interchangeable with the coins of the other metal. By bimetallism is usually meant gold-silver bimetallism, but other metals have been used in bimetallic currency systems, as, for example, copper in feudal Japan.

Securities Act Called Barrier To Capital Flow

New York, Sept. 15 (AP).—The securities act of 1933 was described by speakers at the annual convention of the financial advertisers Wednesday as a barrier that has halted the flow of long-term capital into industry where it is needed.

After Robert E. Christie, jr., nominee for president of the Investment Bankers Association, had urged cooperation in making it work, and Col. Allan M. Pope, Boston banker, had warned it imperiled recovery, the convention heard a recommendation for the act's revision from Arthur H. Dean, New York lawyer.

Dean asserted that the act had "real merit," but said business and the administration itself were beginning to realize that the law had other features which were interfering with the flow of capital to industry at a time when it is sorely needed. If business can not obtain credit the whole program of recovery will be imperiled, he contended.

He urged complete revision of the theory of the act because, he contended, it is to a large extent, "based on distrust and suspicion rather than on what is pertinent and relevant."

"Too much emphasis is placed on the liability of those concerned rather than on the merits of the security," he said.

Christie, a partner in Dillon, Read & Co., took the view that it was the duty of investment bankers to adjust themselves to the act which he described as a new navigation chart.

"Mistakes in the chart can be corrected but the ship must sail. It is the law of the land. It is our duty to adjust ourselves to it."

The result of the drastic requirements placed upon long term borrowers by the act has been that no one has been willing to apply for authority to issue any loan which is proper for an investment banker to underwrite, Col. Pope told the advertisers.

Except for certain municipal and Government financing the investment bankers specializing in underwriting are completely out of business, Pope said.

Chicago Exchange Seat Sells at $100 Advance

Chicago, Sept. 15 (AP).—A membership on the Chicago Stock Exchange sold today at $10,000, up $100 from the last previous sale. This compares with $5,500, which was paid for a membership last week. Several sales this week have been made at a sharply rising rate, most of them to Eastern interests.

Weekly Food Index Stands Unchanged

New York, Sept. 15.—The weekly food index, compiled by Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., shows no change from the preceding week, standing at $1.91 for September 5, and comparing with $1.79 for the same week a year ago, an increase of 6.7 per cent. Contrasting this week's index with the low point of last February there is shown a gain of 28.2 per cent, while the decline from the high level of July is 8.2 per cent.

Flour, wheat, lard, butter, eggs, sugar, beans, rice, sheep and lambs were up over the previous week, while corn, oats, barley, mess pork, short ribs, cottonseed oil, potatoes and steers were lower.

Wool Market.

Boston, Sept. 15 (A.P.) (U. S. Dept. of Agr.).—Wool prices show a gradually strengthening tendency on quite an active turnover. Strictly combing 56s, ⅜ blood and 48s, 50s, ¼ blood Ohio and similar fleeces are strong at 38@39 cents in the grease. Short French combing 64s and finer territory wools in original bags are bringing 75 cents scoured basis, with asking prices tending higher. Bulk average French combing staples of similar lines sell at 76@77 cents scoured basis.

The Commercial Bulletin will say tomorrow: "While the volume of business in the wool market this past week has decreased very considerably, the prices are fully firm to slightly higher for the week, medium wools being especially strong.

"There is rather more disposition to ship tops and yarns at the moment than has been in evidence for several weeks, but the manufacturers are proceeding with a large degree of caution at the moment, awaiting a clearer picture of the consumers' purchasing power to be displayed in the movement of the fall and winter clothing.

"The foreign markets are all strong and buoyant. Prices have been well maintained in Australia and South Africa, while more interest and higher prices are reported on crossbred wools from South America.

"Interest is growing in the fall Texas and California wool clips, but little has been done as yet. There has been more or less of the Southwestern fall mohair clip sold at prices ranging from 30 to 37 cents this week for adult hair, according to the staple. Kid hair usually commands a dime more."

Wider Range Of Inflation Urged as Need

Fletcher to Ask for More Credit and Currency to Capture Prosperity

(Associated Press.)

Immediate expansion "of credit and currency" was advocated in a statement yesterday by Chairman Fletcher of the Senate Banking Committee.

Saying farmers would benefit due to crop movements in the time just ahead, he joined Chairman Harrison of the Senate Finance Committee in urging that President Roosevelt lose no time in making wider use of the discretionary inflation powers vested in him.

The Fletcher views follow, in part:

"The reserve banks should be directed to buy not less than $100,000,000 of Government bonds weekly, and the Treasury should issue a like amount of new Treasury notes with which to buy the bonds issued for the public works program.

Effect Upon Public.

"The effect upon the public will be to accomplish the great result pointed out by the President in his inaugural address, which I paraphrase: 'The greatest thing we have to fear is fear itself.'

"The people must be made to know that money in terms of both currency and bank credit shall not be beyond their ability to obtain—the fear and vacillating attitude of some bankers notwithstanding.

"It is within the power of the administration through these two operations to drive credit and currency from the cloistered shelter and security of investment in Government obligations into the channels of legitimate commerce and trade."

Restoration of Prosperity.

Fletcher added:

"The restoration of prosperity is the great achievement to which this administration has deliberately pledged itself. * * *

"The Congress, in agreement with the President, and under his leadership, gave to him three specific powers for the attainment of his purposes: First, to enjoin the Reserve banks to expand their credit by $3,000,000,000; secondly, to expand the currency by the issuance of $3,000,000,000 of Treasury notes for the purchase of Government obligations; thirdly, it went to the extreme limit of authorizing the President, if necessary to the accomplishment of this great achievement, to cut the gold content of the dollar.

Delay Laid to NRA.

"Putting into effect this policy for the expansion of credit and currency has been seriously delayed by the enormous task of carrying out the national recovery act, the agricultural relief act, the securities act, the home mortgage act and many other acts of the recent Congress. In the meantime, money in circulation has been contracted in the amount of $707,000,000."

He gave figures which, he said, "demonstrate the fact that there has been no expansion of our credit on currency," and added:

"At the present time, however, it is in my judgment of the greatest immediate importance that without any further delay we put into effect the policy authorized by Congress to expand credit and currency. * * *

"Something must be done to increase returns to the producer.

"The time is opportune for vigorous action on our part to drive back the forces of depression when all natural factors are giving us the maximum of assistance."

Spitalny Orchestra and Mme. Alda Score—Reviews of the New Theater Programs

Splendid Band And Fine Film On Earle Bill

Rogers and Apollon Lead Bill at Loew's Fox; Other Openings.

"ONE SUNDAY AFTERNOON. Paramount picturization of the play by James Hagan, adapted to the screen by Grover Jones and William Slavens McNutt, featuring Gary Cooper, Frances Fuller, Neil Hamilton, Fay Wray and Roscoe Karns. Directed by Stephen Roberts. Previewed Wednesday afternoon.

Utilizing the familiar device of the cut-back to visualize events recalled from the distant past, this strikingly effective picturization of a Brodaway stage hit reveals itself virtually in prologue, major narrative and epilogue. Its locale is a small town; the period of its principal incidents, the late '90s.

With a quaintness of costuming and custom unfamiliar to the present generation, the play creates a thin mask of comedy that is purely superficial. Its pivotal movements, most cogent arguments and its unusual quality of romance all bear directly upon matters close to the human heart, if not precisely the eternal verities.

It is on a Sunday afternoon. Biff Grimes, the village dentist, and his lifelong pal, "Snappy" Downer, are engaged in a drinking bout in the doctor's office. With a bonded mellowness that soon moves them to song, they subside shortly into a reminiscent mood and Biff is reminded that he married "the wrong girl." It seems he was tricked out of the lady of his choice by a questionable maneuver on the part of the town's rich young man, one Hugo Barnstead. What Dr. Grimes would do to Mr. Barnstead, if he had him here now, would be plenty! So just then Mr. Barnstead walks in to have a tooth extracted, and, with amazing trustfulness, beseeches the good doctor to give him gas!

Time Turns Back.

It is then that "One Sunday Afternoon" reverts to the events that have been surging through Biff's generously alcoholized brain. And it is here, by an odd perversity, that the most serious episodes of the drama are made to appear far more comic than they are.

The tooth extracted, Biff is tempted to let the gas flow on and permit his arch enemy's life to ebb away. At this juncture, however, Mrs. Barnstead, the woman he had thought he wanted, swaggers in, a gaudy and painted super-vamp, not averse to listening to overtures from any gentleman not her husband—preferably Biff.

With a vast revulsion of feeling and a sudden realization of the manifold virtues of the plain but admirable Mrs. Grimes, whose life has been one long record of sacrifice and self-effacement, Biff concludes that life with such a woman as Mrs. Barnstead must be punishment enough and turns on the oxygen, thus restoring Mr. Barnstead to his perpetual torment.

The story is unfolded with many disarming bucolic touches and a naivete that is as appealing as it is wholesome. It is acted, not wholly without self-consciousness, by a group of principals judiciously selected for the respective tasks to be performed.

Gary Cooper a good deal of the time fails to differentiate between the protective impulses of a young man in love and the belligerent instincts of a thorough-going bully, as Biff Grimes, but at least succeeds in conveying something of the helplessness of a struggling young mill-worker engaged in a futile rivalry with the scion of practically all of the village wealth.

Frances Fuller's Triumph.

Neil Hamilton and Fay Wray display surprising competence in their successful revival of styles and usages never known to the young people of the present and probably long forgotten by their elders. Roscoe Karns, as "Snappy" wears his hair in an elegant roach.

But it is to Frances Fuller, Washington actress, that "One Sunday Afternoon" is chiefly indebted for its charm. Miss Fuller, without being too beautiful, imparts to Amy Lind an immediate suggestion of all those maidenly virtues that are peculiarly attributed only to earlier generations than the present. Miss Fuller, furthermore, possesses an abundance of what is called, for want of a better name, "screen personality." Her work in this picture establishes her as a young actress for whom the future should hold no terrors.

A Great Band.

By far the most musicianly and most distinguished orchestral offering ever heard in a Washington motion picture theater is brought to the Earle stage this week by Phil Spitalny. Maestro Spitalny's Golden Rod Orchestra offers anything but what is commonly known as a "band act." He presents, instead, a festival of music ranging from the majestic fury of Tschaikowski's emotionally stirring "1812 Overture" to the jagged rhythms of the "Tiger Rag." Bridging these opposite poles of musical composition are presented a wide variety of extraordinary combinations of voice and instruments and a distinctive and unique counterpointing of classics and popular hits.

There are 32 instrumentalists and singers under Mr. Spitalny's baton, including a double male quartet, Miss Ethel Pastor's rich soprano and Sig. Cosentino's powerful tenor. The program played at yesterday afternoon's second performance was too extensive to be detailed here. Suffice it to say that no number was played but reflected consummate musicianship and prodigious effort in preparation. No one but Paul Whiteman ever has even remotely approximated locally the catholicity, the artistry or the generosity displayed by Mr. Spitalny on his first day in the Capital.

In addition to her own charming sons, Gracie Barrie introduced Paul and Nino Ghezzi, gymnasts; Smith, Strong and Lee, grotesque singing comics, and two juvenile sepia lads, with an odd racial gift of falsetto harmonizing and triple-time tap dancing.

Universal News and brief orchestral overture complete an exceptional bill.

Loew's Fox

"DR. BULL." Fox picturization of James Gould Cozzens' novel, "The Last Adam," starring Will Rogers, with Marian Nixon, Louise Dresser, Berton Churchill, Vera Allen, Ralph Morgan and Andy Devine. Directed by John Ford. Previewed Tuesday, August 29.

Viewed otherwise than as a faithful transcription of the movement and the purpose of the novel from which it was adapted, "Dr. Bull" provides Will Rogers with a vehicle minutely fashioned to his style and talents.

Dr. Bull, as the screen characterizes him, is an amiable and philosophical family doctor in a small Connecticut town, who somehow always manages to "bungle" his patients back to health, extricate the youngsters of the village from their perplexities and successfully defy the town authorities to interfere with his work as a one-man "public health department."

Mr. Rogers has largely rewritten James Gould Cozzens' text to suit the needs of his own slightly variant comic enterprises, but has taken no violent liberties with the basic qualities of his character—save as some refinement has been necessary to conform to Will H. Hays' fortuhate code of ethics!

As an outgrowth of many others which he helps foster, Dr. Bull has a romance of his own during the progress of the story, although the object of his interest, in the play, is a vastly different woman from the one drawn by Mr. Cozzens in "The Last Adam." Mr. Cozzens' heroine was not quite nice.

Supporting Players.

Supporting the star are a number of well-known players and some who are virtual newcomers. Vera Allen, opposite Mr. Rogers, is hopelessly miscast, but Marian Nixon, as the telephone operator; Louise Dresser and Berton Churchill as the village aristocrats; Andy Devine, as a youthful hypochondriac, and Ralph Morgan, as a young doctor of a more modern school than Dr. Bull, fulfill the requirements of the revamped story with a fair average degree of success.

The stage bill this week is presented as a Dave Apollon revue, "Surprises of 1933," except that Mme. Frances Alda, former prima donna soprano of the Metropolitan Grand Opera Company, presents an interpolated interval of song, following which Mr. Apollon's further clowning comes as distinctly an anticlimax.

Mme. Alda, retaining much of the clarity of tone and power of an incomparable voice, has much more to offer an audience than the other operatic stars who have preceded her to the vaudeville stage, with the sole exception, of course, of Grace Moore, now at the zenith of her powers.

Sings Ballads.

Yesterday, Mme. Alda confined her program to ballads placing no strain upon either her vocal organ or her interpretative power. "My Hero," from "The Chocolate Soldier," was as close as the diva approached to a composition possessing any of the exacting qualities of an operatic aria. Her numbers being completely within the grasp of a Friday first audience, Mme. Alda's reception was especially enthusiastic.

Dave Apollon, in addition to his own individualistic singing, dancing and buffooning, presents his familiar string orchestra, Danzi Goodell, a clever dancer; Nora Williams, a "blues" singer, who makes effective use of the art of the whistler; Gean, Ruth and Gail, three rhythm dancers of the first water, and Cass, Mack and Owen, dancing acrobats, with some new material added to their old "slow motion" stunt and burlesque gymnastics. A smash hit.

The Fox Movietone News and Prof. Lampkin's overture complete a program that began the week with another day of S. R. O. attendance.

"PADDY, THE NEXT BEST THING." Fox picturization of the novel by Gertrude Page, adapted to the screen by Edwin Burke, starring Warner Baxter and Janet Gaynor, with Walter Connolly, Margaret Lindsay, Harvey Stephens, J. M. Kerrigan and Fiske O'Hara. Directed by Harry Lachman. Previewed Wednesday afternoon.

It was probably not the intention that this gay little masquerade be taken too seriously. Rather, one would judge, "Paddy, the Next Best Thing," was devised for the particular delectation of those romanticists who are able to surrender to the picturesque beauties of an enchanted land, the fanciful adventures of youthful lovers and the droll humor of a race celebrated for its wit.

Realists are warned away from this shimmeringly beautiful picture as a subject holding little or nothing for them. The story of the youngest daughter of the poverty-stricken "rich" Irish landowner, who contrived to save her sister from a loveless marriage while she herself captivated the rich young man just back from his plantations in Ceylon, is a purling idyll fashioned only for those with a taste for gossamer drama.

However, there is much to commend in the reunion of Warner Baxter and Janet Gaynor as an impetus to love's young dream. Miss Gaynor, as Paddy, here has a part that will go far toward restoring her to the favor of those who have all but lost hope at some of the assignments that have been allotted her. She is vivacious, imaginative, demurely alluring and sufficiently forceful to meet all of the role's practical requirements. Mr. Baxter is cast as another "Daddy Long Legs," who salvages the Adair fortunes by marrying Paddy after Maj. Adair has died a martyr to his sportsmanship. He is, as usual, effective, but never overtaxed by the demands made upon him.

Connolly Scores.

Walter Connolly, Maj. Adair, father of two charming daughters, is the real star of the picture, lending the character an authenticity, a charm and a power that none other in the play can boast. J. M. Kerrigan, that worthy veteran of the Abbey Theater Irish Players, in lesser degree contributes valuably to the film's more substantial merits. Margaret Lindsay, Claire McDowell, Roger Imhof and Fisk O'Hara are among numerous others who lend a touch of actuality to an Irish atmosphere that those in more prominent parts do not always sustain.

Pictorially, "Paddy, the Next Best Thing," is beyond compare. Its scenic splendor has been photographed with an unfailing eye for artistic and entrancing effect.

The supplementary attractions are of a uniformly high order. "Beauty and the Bus" introduces a new comedy alliance in the teamed personalities of Thelma Todd and the rough-and-ready Patsy Kelly, both of whom are no little aided by the droll comedy methods of Don Barclay. A Mickey Mouse cartoon comedy, "Puppy Love," is in characteristic Walt Disney vein, "Menu" is a Pete Smith humorous novelty and the Metrotone News specializes in a big way in the New York demonstration in behalf of the NRA.

A short NRA special, rounds out a diverting and well-balanced screen program by introducing El Brendel and Zasu Pitts in a bit of nonsense caled "Mother's Little Helper," or something of the sort.

Metropolitan

"I LOVED A WOMAN." First National's picturization of a novel by David Karsner, starring Edward G. Robinson, supported by Genevieve Tobin and Kay Francis. Directed by Alfred Green. Reviewed Friday night.

The renovized Metropolitan greets you with smiling face and a blue and silver lobby, lighted by lovely modernistic fixtures, and all flower bedecked.

The theater has been closed only two weeks, most of the work being done in one week, the first being given over to painting and making up minds. Manager Tompkins is a bit groggy from his latest 72-hour duty stretch, but triumphant. The stage has been lowered by two feet, making stiff necks no longer necessary for front row orchestra patrons; the screen, framed by rose pink curtains, is four feet larger than the old. One major improvement is yet to be made, the removal of the last four rows of orchestra chairs and utilization of that space for a real foyer and standing room for SRO patrons the Met hopes to entice by its "certified hit season."

The first of this array, "I Loved a Woman" (misleading title), is interesting in content, but dull and overlong in recital, a biography of a capable industry, very obviously a combination of Samuel Insull, formerly of Chicago, now of Athens, and the great packing magnates.

Starts in Athens.

John Hayden, painted with sincere and vivid strokes by that master character actor, Edward G. Robinson, starts in Athens as well as ends there. Midway in what was to be a three-year search for beauty he is called back to Chicago by the death of his father. The field in which he becomes the greatest success only to become the greatest failure is meat packing, but before he crashes he is deep in utilities.

Instead of Insull's Chicago opera house, Hayden's musical interests are "Home on the Range" and Laura MacDonald, the woman he loved and gave an operatic education.

We know little about Samuel Insull's affairs of the heart, but John Hayden's were his downfall. He married Martha Lane, always crusading for humanity the further away from home the better, and finally living with him for 20 years waiting to revenge herself for the indignity done her by his falling in love with Laura, a ruthless, unfaithful person who made Hayden think of business as an art with its only beauty, success—honestly or dishonestly attained.

Miss Tobin Excels.

Robinson is splendid throughout, though too mature to be convincing in his youthfulness of the opening scenes. Genevieve Tobin, looking very lovely and playing subtly, is second only to Robinson in excellence and that because she has less footage as the bitter Martha. She does not age sufficiently. Kay Francis does well as Laura, singing the cowboy song, so beloved by the White House quartet, with throaty beauty.

There is all the drama in the world inate in the story, but the picture fails to make the best of it.

A Vitaphone short about Composer Walter Donaldson, "Schnozzle" Durante going Blue Eagle in his breathless way in a NRA featurette and the newsreel complete the inaugural bill, in which the theater is as much a show as the show itself.

RKO-Keith's

"BITTER SWEET." British and Dominions picturization of the operetta by Noel Coward, released by United Artists, featuring Anna Neagle and Fernand Gravey. Directed by Herbert Wilcox. Reviewed Friday afternoon.

That brilliant young composer-playwright-actor, Noel Coward, has transplanted one of his earlier and most successful operettas to the sound screen and thereby has added a perfectly polished gem to the RKO-Keith's "Greater Show Season."

"Bitter Sweet," it is true, has its tiresome moments, its boring, dragging moments, but to counteract these it has moments of sheer loveliness and a love story so beautiful that Mr. Coward leaves us the impression that its charm could not possibly be appreciated by this generation, by having his final scene one in which that haunting melody, "I'll See You Again," is syncopated in the modern manner.

The play itself comes to us almost exactly as it was presented by Florenz Ziegfeld at the Ziegfeld Theater in New York, with the additional advantages offered by the wider scope of the cinema. It lacks the charming personality and sweet voice of Miss Evelyn Laye, who graced the stage production. Anna Neagle, who plays the part of Sari Linden in the screen presentation, is a slim and exquisite person, who should not, however, have been encouraged to sing.

English Cast.

The cast is, of course, very English, and the production was released by the British Studios, whose sound-effects, we are forced to believe, are not as clear as our own. It is a bit difficult to catch all of the dialogue which bears the Coward rapid-fire touch.

Fernand Graavey, as Carl Linden, is splendid. He makes the character of the struggling young musician who falls in love with his sweet young English pupil, a human, understandable character. The story is based upon their struggle to make their love survive the demands of an every-day existence and the tragedies of a world that could not quite meet the beauty of their dreams.

Other highlights in the cast are the performances given by Ivy St. Helier, as the cabaret favorite of the Mauve Decade, and Clifford Heatherley, as Herr Schlick, the cafe owner. Mme. St. Helier, while past her first flush of youth, nevertheless possesses all the dynamic charm of a feminine Chevalier.

Added attractions include a "Krazy Kat" cartoon, entitled "Out of the Ether," with clever animated caricatures of your favorite radio entertainers; Jack Holt speaking for "Greater Show Season;" the Hix "Strange as it Seems" feature, which appears daily in The Post, given motion on the screen, and the Pathe News.

Columbia

"THE WRECKER." Columbia picturization of a story by Albert Rogell, featuring Jack Holt, Genevieve Tobin, Sidney Blackmer and George E. Stone. Directed by the author. Reviewed Friday afternoon.

Another facet of the life of a great city comes to the fore in "The Wrecker," with the business of demolition serving not only as groundwork for an engaging story of house-razing but also for a thinly veiled allegory based on the premise that "the bigger they are the harder they fall."

As the ambitious boss of a wrecking crew, Chuck Regan gradually forges to the head until he forms his own company, when Mary Wilson agrees to marry him. Working with Regan, as time keeper, and later in business as architect for himself, Tom Cummings forms the third corner of the usual triangle.

Discovering his wife's infidelity, Regan quits the house and disappears. Mary marries Cummings, and all goes well until an earthquake wrecks a newly dedicated and flimsily constructed school building.

At this point Chuck has been found, and through his friend, Jake Shapiro, now risen to the exalted position of salvage tycoon, he makes a valiant attempt to save his former wife, who, with Tom, has been caught in the wreckage. A retributive tremor comes along opportunely and ends the duplicity aspect of the fable. And the picture closes with the establishment of the firm of Regan & Shapiro, wrecking and salvage, with everybody happy.

Holt Suited.

The title role is one exactly suited to Jack Holt, and he gives another one of his effective delineations. As his avaricious and snobby wife (not so, however, before she was married) is Genevieve Tobin. It is not a nice role, and she plays it so admirably that no pangs of regret are caused by her tragic demise. Sidney Blackmer, as the dishonest builder and insincere friend, is appropriately obnoxious.

Running the feature a close second for interest is "Meet the Champ," wherein Eugene Pallette, as the champion cow milker, ties up with Walter Catlett and Dorothy Granger, and they all go out after the "world's championship." "Meet the Champ" is the funniest comedy Mr. Pallette has made.

Other short subjects include a release of the Paramount pictorial, featuring a brief style show and Impressario Irving Mills introducing the three leading sepia maestros, Barron Lee, Duke Ellington and Cab Calloway, and an issue of the Paramount News.

This Morning

With Shirley L. Povich.

THERE'S a plot afoot that bodes no good for the Nats, if one can believe the reports filtering in from the West, where Bill Terry is escorting his Giants to safety at the top of the National League heap.

I am assuming that it will be the Nats and the Giants who will be reaching for the pot of gold at the end of the world series rainbow, and in that case I am informed that Mr. Terry already has laid deep, dark plans for the conquest of the Washington Club.

If you are still following me, I mean to say that back in the cranium of Will Terry there is an intention to shoot his southpaw screw-ball star, Carl Hubbell, at the Washington Club three times during the series if the two clubs require seven games to settle the issue.

Has 11 Shutout Wins.

It is Mr. Terry's purpose, I learn, to start Hubbell in the first, fourth and seventh games if the Giants or the Nats are still in the running when the seventh game rolls around. Thus he will have in there firing at the Nats the fellow who has pitched 21 victories, 11 of them shutouts, in the Giants' victorious march to the pennant.

Thereby, Terry will be taking no chances with such as Roy Parmelee and Hal Schumacher, the freshmen members of his staff who have done nobly during the regulation season, but still are regarded as extreme hazards under world series fire. Schumacher may get the assignment for one of the games, but Parmelee's tendency toward wildness will not be helped by a world series setting.

Fresh in the mind of the National Leaguers is the disastrous attempt of Paul Derringer, the first-year pitcher of the Cardinals, who led all hurlers in the National League in 1931 and was blasted out twice by the Athletics in the world series.

Fitzsimmons No. 2 Bet.

This is rapidly taking form as a piece about the Giants' pitchers, and, in that connection, the No. 2 best bet of Terry's shapes up as the rugged Fred Fitzsimmons, bulky 210-pounder, who, with Hubbell, forms the veteran contingent among the Giants' staff.

Fitzsimmons, no less than Hubbell, has proved his merit under fire, and until this season was regarded as a better money pitcher than the latter. Fitzsimmons is at his best when the going is toughest, and can call upon an even wider variety of stuff than Hubbell, who can mix only a fast curve with his deceptive screwball.

Fitzsimmons has a variety of curves, a change of pace, and what is called a "fast knckler," the only pitch of its type known to the industry. Thus, with Hubbell throwing a southpaw screwball that breaks like a right-hander's curve, and Fitzsimmons serving his "fast knockler," the Nats will be facing a nice assortment of more or less freak pitching.

Have Looked at Best.

In behalf of the Nats, there is no reason to believe that they will be unduly harassed by the freak stuff served up by the Giants' staff. Heinie Manush, Goose Goslin, Fred Schulte and Buddy Myer have been looking at the best pitching in the league for so many years that anything that feazes them will indeed be very difficult.

And Hubbell does not figure to enjoy the same success against the Nats with his southpaw screwball that breaks like a right-hander's curve. If that is true, he may be meat for the left-handed swingers on the Washington club, namely Buddy Myer, Goose Goslin, Heinie Manush and Joe Kuhel, who represent a good 70 per cent of the Nats' attacking power.

And another thing. Those short left and right field fences in the Polo Grounds will be inviting the Nats to take some solid pokes. Among the Giants, only Terry, O'Doul, Ott, Jackson and Critz are liable to lift the ball into the nearby stands for homers, but you can go down the line among the Nats and only the pitcher can be excused from any possibility of socking a homer at the Polo Grounds.

Squad of 96 Reports At Yale's First Practice

New Haven, Conn., Sept. 15 (U.P.). Yale's varsity football squad of 96 men went through its first practice session today, a two-hour drill on a soggy field in the afternoon, following the washout of a scheduled forenoon session.

Distribution of World Series Tickets Under Way at Stadium

THE wheels of the cumbersome world series ticket distributing machinery started to function yesterday at Griffith Stadium when the front office force of the ball team began the acceptance of seat applications on the authority of Baseball Commissioner Landis.

Huge stacks of applications, delivered personally to the ball park office yesterday morning and afternoon, are expected to be swelled by the incoming mails, with the certainty that the Washington park will be a sell-out several times over.

Prices of seats and the method of distributing tickets will be identical with the arrangements of the 1925 world series here, it was learned. Boxes will sell at $6.60 per game; reserved grandstand seats at $5.50; pavilion seats at $3.30, and 3,000 standee tickets at $3.30.

Tickets must be purchased in strips of three games, which are scheduled in Washington for October 5, 6 and 7. If the series is decided in four straight games and the October 7 game is rendered unnecessary, holders of tickets will be refunded the price of the seats.

Thus prices for each strip of box seats will total $19.80; each strip of grand-stand seats, $16.50, and each strip of pavilion seats, $9.90. The center-field bleachers are classed as pavilions. Temporary seats numbering 1,000 will be erected in deep center field in front of the flagpole, and will sell at $1.10 per game.

Certified checks or postal money orders must accompany applications for tickets. Griffith Stadium officials will notify by mail the fans who have been allotted seats.

In announcing the ticket plans, ball park officials yesterday said: "Applicants for box or grand-stand seats, if agreeable, should indicate their willingness to accept allotments of center field pavilion seats, providing their applications for box or grand-stand seats can not be filled."

Griffith Stadium contains 4,500 box seats, 13,917 grand-stand seats, and 16,331 pavilion seats. Tickets for the temporary right-field bleachers and standing room will be sold only on the day of the game.

Sharkey Battle Now Booked Monday

CHICAGO, Sept. 15 (AP).—Due to chilly weather and threatening rain, the ten-round bout between Jack Sharkey, former world heavyweight champion, and King Levinsky, Chicago's walloping reformed fish peddler, was postponed today until Monday night.

In the event of rain Monday night, the bout will be held on Tuesday and possibly no later, as Sharkey is due to arrive in Philadelphia to prepare for his 10-round contest with Tommy Loughran on September 27.

The rival heavyweights took a day off in training routine, but will resume their conditioning tomorrow. Light drills also are scheduled for Sunday.

Goldstein and Quarles To Clash September 23

Richmond, Sept. 15 (AP).—Dr. William H. Parker, A. A. U. commissioner for Virginia, today voted favorably on the withdrawal of charges brought by the Heejax A. C. of Richmond against Bobby Goldstein, former captain of the University of Virginia boxing team.

Parker, who previously had said that Goldstein's refusal to box Norment Quarles, University of North Carolina scrapper, here Monday, would prevent his participation in other A. A. U. fights in the State, said he was pleased at the spirit shown by the athletic club.

As a result of Parker's decision, Goldstein will still be in the good graces of the A. A. U. when he fights Quarles at Charlottesville, September 23.

Japanese Net Stars Tie With Perry, Van Ryn

Los Angeles, Sept. 15 (AP).—Fred Perry, of England, U. S. singles champion, and John Van Ryn, of Philadelphia, were held to a draw by Jiro Satoh and Ryosuke Munoi, Japanese Davis Cup players, in a feature exhibition opening the Pacific Southwest tennis championship tournament today.

Perry and Van Ryn won the first set, 6—0, but their opponents rallied in the second, broke through Perry's service in the thirty-second game and won, 17—15. Perry was erratic, apparently troubled by the hard courts.

Kirkham and Mackenzie Canada Golf Finalists

Winnipeg, Manitoba, Sept. 15 (AP). Margery Kirkham, of Montreal, the defending champion, and Ada Mackenzie, Toronto veteran, today reached the final round of the Canadian women's open golf championship.

Mexico-Mississippi Grid Contest Canceled

Chicago, Sept. 15 (AP).—The scheduled football game between the University of Mexico and University of Mississippi at A Century of Progress Exposition has been canceled, it was announced today, because the Mississippi commission informed officials of the exposition that it could not go through with its plans. The game was set for September 23.

Cleveland Plans First Saturday "Ladies' Day"

Mungo's Pitching, Hitting of Wilson Feature

St. Louis, Sept. 15 (AP).—The Brooklyn Dodgers batted around against Bill Hallahan and Bill Walker in the fourth inning today, scored six runs in that frame and defeated the Cardinals, 9 to 2, in the second game of their series.

Van Lingle Mungo, Dodger hurler, gave up only six hits, three of them in the last inning, to score his fourteenth victory of the season. He granted five walks, but fanned seven.

Hack Wilson hit a home run in the sixth for the final Brooklyn tally and also contributed two singles. Glenn Wright, the veteran shortstop, was at first base for the Dodgers, replacing Sam Leslie, who was out with an injured leg.

Select Squad of 65 Works at Notre Dame

Notre Dame, Ind., Sept. 15 (AP).—A hand-picked squad of 65 players romped through conditioning and signal drills under the watchful eye of Coach Hunk Anderson today as Notre Dame opened training for the 1933 season. The warriors are the remains of the several hundred aspirants who tried for the team.

Most of the time was occupied by photographers. Anderson said no passes will be issued for secret practice.

U. S. Senior Golf Title Won by Raleigh Lee

His score of 78, 78—156, compiled with the first division under perfect weather conditions Tuesday and Wednesday, was never seriously endangered by the second division, which played its two 18-hole rounds yesterday and today to the accompaniment of a driving rain.

Giants Crush Cubs Twice, 5-1, 4-0

Hike Lead to 7½ Games; Schumaker Captures His 19th Victory.

Bell Stars in Second in Relief Role; Chicago Held to Two Hits.

CHICAGO, Sept. 15 (AP).—The New York Giants cut loose with both barrels today and brought the Cubs' prospects fluttering down to earth as they won both games of a double-header, 5 to 1 and 4 to 0, to increase their lead in the National League race to 7½ games.

The twin triumphs evened the series and gave the Giants a practically impregnable margin in the pennant battle. With only 11 games to go for the Cubs and 14 for the Giants, Chicago's hopes were just about wiped out. They have one more double-header tomorrow, but even a double victory then would leave the Cubs 5½ games behind.

Some of the superlative pitching for which they have been noted gave the Giants both games as a ladies' day crowd of 25,000 looked on. Hal Schumacher outpitched a trio of Cub hurlers to turn in a six-hit performance for his season's nineteenth victory, while the fine relief flinging of Herman Bell accounted for a two-hit shutout in the hightcap.

Summoned to the mound with two out in the third inning after Roy Parmelee's wildness had filled the bases and given Riggs Stephenson two balls, Bell persuaded Stevie to foul out, then retired 16 men in order before allowing one to reach first.

with a single, but couldn't advance as the next three batsmen went out. The shuout was the twenty-third credited to the New York mound staff and Bell's second.

Get 10 Hits in Opener.

Nats, Tigers In Twin Bill Today

Crowder, Stewart Due to Oppose Marberry and Bridges.

IN the hope that baseball appetites of Capital fandom have been whetted by the rain that washed out yesterday's game, officials of the Washington Ball Club have scheduled a double-header between the Nats and the Tigers today in an effort to fatten the club exchequer, which has been affected adversely by the winning ways of the ball team.

The Nats' nine-game lead survived unharmed through the downpour that washed out all games on the Eastern seaboard and in the knowledge that two victories today will all but mathematically clinch the beckoning American League pennant, Manager Joe Cronin has nominated as his pitchers the dependable Al Crowder and Walter Stewart.

All of which, however, may be entirely unnecessary, inasmuch as Washington is alleged to be in the path of the storm sweeping up the coast, which may hit the Capital about game time. But ball park officials hasten to say that the canvas is down and the games will go on, barring a torrent.

McColl on Sidelines.

The venerable rookie, Alec McColl, who celebrated his starting debut with a four-hit victory over the White Sox, was scheduled to make an appearance in the current series with the Tigers, but his ancient arm developed a noticeable creak in his last workout and thus he will be on the sidelines.

Today's double-header bears all the earmarks of a pair of pitching duels, with such veterans as Fred Marberry and Tommy Bridges looming as the pitching selections of Bucky Harris.

Held Yanks to 4 Hits.

Marberry's most recent effort was a four-hit performance against the Yankees and it is recalled that on his last appearance in the Capital he celebrated a return to familiar scenes by shutting the Nats out with three meager safeties.

The Nats also have an old score to settle with Tommy Bridges, who ranks with Lefty Grove and Walter Miller as the only pitchers to beat the Nats three times this season. Bridges' parting shot against the Nats in Detroit last month was a 1-0 victory over Alvin Crowder, whom he beat in Washington, 2 to 1, earlier in the season, when Kuhel's home run robbed him of a no-hit feat.

Pirates' Pitchers Routed by Braves

Pair of 5-Run Splurges Put 10-1 Game in Bag.

Pittsburgh, Sept. 15 (AP).—Staging five-run parades in both the third and fourth innings, the dangerous Boston Braves trounced Pittsburgh, 10 to 1, in the second game of their series.

The Braves collected five singles in the third, sending Smith to the showers. They pounded out five hits in the fourth off Dudley and Chagnon. The latter finished the game.

Brandt was a puzzle to the Pirates for the remaining eight innings.

Reach Finals By Decisive Victories

By Dave Herman

KENWOOD COUNTRY CLUB, Cincinnati, Ohio, Sept. 15.—Two men who were forced to play off with ten others for the last eight places in the qualifying round will battle for the National Amateur golf championship tomorrow.

The other is George T. Dunlap, jr., 24, of Kew Gardens, Long Island, twice an intercollegiate champion from Princeton, 1932 Walker Cup star, and a slim golfer who never has been able to slip past the second round of the national classic.

Defeats Jack Munger.

Stroking over soggy fairways and mushy greens, the 210-pound Marston crushed 18-year-old Jack Munger, of Dallas, Tex., the tournament "dark horse," by 6 and 5, in his scheduled 36-hole semifinals match today.

By an almost equally decisive score, Dunlap delivered the knockout blow to the hopes of Lawson Little, of San Francisco, the lad who conquered the defending champion, Ross Somerville, in the quarter-finals. The score was 4 and 3.

Dunlap shot the best golf of the day. No one doubted that. He fired his shots with bullet-like accuracy on virtually every hole, and when a recovery coup was needed the 125-pound Long Islander knew how to execute it.

When he planted his approach shot 5 feet from the thirty-third pin and got down in 2 putts to gain a half with Little, who was forced to nail a 10-footer for his 4 after being short with his second, Dunlap was 2 over par for the entire day.

Dunlap was cool, calm, and collected his pars and birdies at the right time. While Little outdrove him, the former Princeton star found the range of the pin with more skill and accuracy, and with his short game working to perfection saved himself a stroke on the green. Little's putting ran in streaks, while his foe was consistent with his putter all day.

Go to Tenth All Even.

Dunlap, starting 4—3—5, was away to a 3-up lead before the Californian dumped a brilliant approach 3 feet from the pin on the long sixth to win the hole with a birdie 4. Little won the next two holes with pars, and they went to the tenth all even.

Little led for the first time on the 315-yard eleventh—the easiest hole on the course. Here he holed a curling 8-footer for a birdie 3, but lost the short twelfth to par, and the match was even again. When Little bagged the thirteenth with a par it marked the only other time he led during the match.

Deadly fire emitted from Dunlap's putter on the seventeenth and eighteenth. On the former he emerged

Black Buddy Top Weight In Stake

NEW YORK, Sept. 15 (AP).—Seventeen 2-year-olds, 15 colts and two fillies, today peered out over a rain-soaked course where tomorrow they will match strides for the turf's richest prize in the forty-fourth running of the $100,000 Futurity at Belmont Park.

The Widener straightaway, down which the pick of the country's juveniles will dash for 6 3-4 furlongs, was a sea of mud with little liklihood it would be any better by post time, 3 p. m. (E.S.T.) tomorrow. A steady rain for days, showed no signs of ceasing.

While the 2-year-olds, from which is expected to come the juvenile champion, nervously awaited their acid test, not far away in his regal stall was the great Equipoise, himselft beaten in the 1930 futurity but now winner of $320,470.

Equipoise in Action.

Equipoise, too, was on edge for a race tomorrow, but to the little chestnut from C. V. Whitney's barns, the fourteenth running of the $5,000 added Jockey Gold Cup was just another race. He will be asked to go 2 miles for the first time in his career, but despite the distance and the heavy track "Ekky" was the prohibitive choice to whip the surprisingly large field of five opponents and win his eighth straight race. Victory would send the handicap champion past Gallant Fox into second place on the list of American thorough-bred money winners.

In a wide open betting affair, a pair of speedy colts from Mrs. Dodge Sloan's Brookemeade Stable ruled the choice at 4 to 1 to win the Futurity. The presence of High Quest, second in the Hopeful at Saratoga, and hailed as the 2-year-old champion even before his first race, was largely responsible for the support given the Brookemeade youngsters. High Quest will have as a running mate, Kepi, a speed gun from the barrier.

Warren Wright's Hadagal, from the blue grass of Kentucky, and George D. Widener's Kawagoe were liked at 6 to 1, while Mrs. Payne Whitney's powerful entry of Black Buddy and First Minstrel had many supporters at the odds of 8 to 1. Widener's Jamestown defeated Equipoise for the major share of the purse three years ago.

Strange as It Seems —By John Hix

Earl Labertew, captain of the Iowa State College 2-mile team, ran the last mile and a half of a 2-mile race at Lincoln, Nebr., on November 21, 1931, with the large bone of his right leg fractured. He not only finished the race, but strange as it seems, he finished among the winners and won two points for his team to help take the Big Six Conference championship.

Medical authorities have puzzled over the strange feat, while college men attributed it to the intangible "school spirit" that makes college athletics.

Labertew himself did not know the seriousness of his injury until his leg was examined by X-ray following the race. True, he felt his leg snap, and he suffered intense agony throughout the last mile and a half of the race. Fortunately, although there was a clean break clear across the bone, the broken ends did not separate, and Labertew's leg was apparently none the worse for his having finished the race.

Oldtime baseball took so much time to play that the double-header as known today was impossible. The first recorded attempt to play two games in one afternoon was when Detroit and Philadelphia, in the National League, played a double bill on October 9, 1886. The second game was called after the sixth inning.

Philadelphia won both games, using the same pitcher, Charles Ferguson, all afternoon.

Dear Al: Lincoln Fields, Sept. 15.

Looks like the clockers gave me the right dope when they put me wise to Grey Sash but we didn't get half the mutuel I expected. However, the railbirds were agreed that the juvenile was ready and I understand they had people betting for them up and down the Ganges River. I managed to pull Sweet Lassie out of the chalk box, making two winners for the day. I'm pulling out of here tomorrow night and I gave the mud books a thorough going over before packing them for shipment to Havre de Grace. And I believe I have some bulls-eyes among these parting shots.

BILL.

First race—Cayuga is Mr. Mud himself. Certainly turned in a whale of a race for me the other day and figures to repeat in this field. Any mistakes by the top one would mean Very Well and Flat Rock, the latter a recent winner, would battle it out for the purse.

Second race—I lean to Woodlander in this sprint. Will like the off track and I see no reason for not trying. Thomasville is the one to beat. This one is speedy. Cloudet for the show.

Third race—It's just possible that Portcodine will slop along to a victory in this. The son of Porter is hard to guess but will appreciate the soft footing. It will take a best race, however. Hour Zev may be the sleeper. Ellice threw me down the other day but looks like a money proposition here.

Fourth race—Duelist stepped home after I warned you of his mud-running ability and it looks like two in a row tomorrow. Gibbys Choice and Tamerlane for the other awards.

Fifth race—Naval Cadet, Mrs. Brown and Lady Mary is the way I like these maidens. I recommend, however, that you go and get a drink of water while this race is on.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—GREY SASH, $8.16, $4.90, $4.54; LITTLE JOYCE, $7.06, $5.54; INDIAN RED, $8.84.

GREY SASH took command with a rush, was steadied when rounding the turn and continued well after reaching stretch, but was forced to a drive to withstand LITTLE JOYCE. Latter, under steady restraint until reaching final quarter, stood strong riding gamely and was wearing down the winner. INDIAN RED, away very slowly and far back until reaching stretch, closed with a rush. BRILLIANT ROSE weakened in final eighth. PARA FOUR, on outside throughout and under strong urging throughout, could not improve her position. LEGAL GAMBLE labored in the going and was never a strong factor.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $700; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 2:39. Off at 2:40. Winner, E. E. Major's ch. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BILL ORANGE, $7.88, $5.20, $4.46; BROOMSHOT, $5.26, $4.72; FINNIC, $9.40.

BILL ORANGE took an easy lead before going a quarter, was briskly shaken up when entering the stretch, and continuing well to end was never endangered. BROOMSHOT could not menace winner, but held on well in a good effort. FINNIC weakened after five-eighths. LAMP BLACK, weakly ridden and taken back on the turn, bore out badly when entering the stretch and was far out of contention thereafter. DON TASKER raced wide. HAMILTON lacked his speed.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $700; claiming. For 2-year-olds. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:02½. Off at 3:12. Winner, b. or blk. f. (2), by Crusader—Dorothy Kendle. Value to winner, $525; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 0:24 1-5, 0:49 1-5, 1:16 1-5.

BETTY WEE, fractious at post, where she was placed on the outside, followed the early pacemaker under strong restraint, took command with a rush and continued to draw out in final eighth. LISHEEN, away slowly, improved his position gradually and stood mild punishment gamely. SOCIAL SERVICE had her speed, but weakened after reaching the final eighth. IRISH IMAGE dropped out of it on stretch turn, but was going fairly well at end. PEGGY GAL pulled up lame. KING TODAY, rank at post, where he also was placed on outside, kept under sufferance for three-eighths, then dropped out of it rapidly. BROADCASTER was through early.

FOURTH RACE—One mile (out of chute). Purse, $700; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:35½. Off at 3:37. Winner, Mrs. W. H. Hosa's ch. f. SWEET LASSIE, ridden with confidence and kept under restraint as SINGLE STRIPE pulled away on stretch turn, raced to the lead with a rush after straightening up for final three-sixteenths and won easily. SINGLE STRIPE, lightly restrained for half a mile, came away on stretch turn, but could not cope with winner's challenge, yet held on fairly well. BLAMELESS, best of others, weakened badly in stretch. FAIR BOY began slowly. MY MOVIE and TEMPLE DANCER were through early.

FIFTH RACE—One mile (out of chute). Purse, $700; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:04. Off at 4:04½. Winner, br. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—ALADDINS DREAM, $19.62, $6.98, $5.08; HYMAN, $3.96, $2.84; CRAPSHOOTER, $5.64.

ALADDINS DREAM, suited by the going, showed speed from the start, and closing resolutely, under strong riding, wore down HYMAN and was drawing out fast in last stages. Latter, taken into the lead, was well rated and weakened after succumbing to winner, but outstayed CRAPSHOOTER. Latter, under stout restraint for three-quarters, rallied mildly when hard urged, then faltered. ROWDY BOY had no mishap. PHARAHEAD could not get up. DAMASCENE, away slowly, failed to respond to light pressure and was far back throughout. DAWN MIST quit badly.

SIXTH RACE—One mile (out of chute). Purse, $700; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:30. Off at 4:31½. Winner, H. Holmes' br. g. OLD BILL, going in improved form and showing the most speed from start, maintained it without need of strong pressure, but had little left. BANTU, suddenly improved and a strong factor from the start, could not get to winner, but held on well. SUBTLETY, steadied for three-quarters, weakened after moving up weakly in stretch. HELEN BAB was on inside much of the trip and failed to rally when strongly urged. SCOTLAND BEAUTY faltered badly when placed to pressure after reaching stretch. BATTLE AX pulled up lame.

HAPPY FELLOW, well in hand for five-eighths, went to front and after drawing into command was kept under strong urging to end. SETHS BALLOT, unable to keep up and far back for three-quarters, came through on inside when making up much ground in stretch. PRINCE MEXICAN held on gamely in a good effort. ROCKY WAY raced well. TRANSBIRD drew out into a long lead before leaving the chute, slowly gave way to winner, and weakened in closing eighth. THE BARD quit.

Burning Tree Assistants Get 152s

Mrs. Beller Is Winner Over Ruth Rielly in Columbia Final.

THE Cunningham brothers, Frank and Gilbert, of Burning Tree, tied for first place in the Middle Atlantic P. G. A. assistant pros tournament yesterday at Indian Spring, with a 36-hole total of 152.

Frank led the field at the end of the morning round with a card of 73, two over par for the course. Gilbert was not far behind, with a 75. In the afternoon Frank, the defending title holder, slipped to a 79, while Gilbert had a 77. Third prize went to Irving Shloss, with a card of 77—79—156. Fourth place was a tie between L. Wisner, 80—77—157, and Johnny Bass, 79—78—157.

Columbia.

Mrs. J. W. Beller coordinated all divisions of her golf game to perfection yesterday to defeat Miss Ruth Rielly, 6—5, for the Columbia Club women's championship. Mrs. Beller was very much on her game, and, although Miss Rielly battled hard to capture the title held last year by Mrs. J. M. Haynes, she was unable to cope with the new champion. Mrs. Smith won the first-flight consolation by defeating Mrs. Brundage.

First flight—Mrs. Beller defeated Miss Rielly, 6 and 5.
First flight, consolation—Mrs. Smith defeated Mrs. Brundage, 1 up.

Beaver Dam.

Mrs. Ora Enge defeated Mrs. A. E. Fischer in the playoff for the medal in the Beaver Dam Women's Club championship yesterday. The semifinals in the first four flights will be played tomorrow. The fifth flight semifinals will be played September 24.

First flight—1 o'clock, Mrs. N. J. Waldron vs. Mrs. A. E. Fischer; 1:05, Mrs. Ora Enge vs. Mrs. M. Irwin. Second flight—1:10, Mrs. R. N. Trezise vs. Mrs. C. E. Purdy; 1:15, Mrs. R. W. Lewis vs. Mrs. W. J. Laville. Third flight—1:20, Mrs. Rex Wever vs. Mrs. John Money; 1:25, Mrs. D. E. Matteson vs. Mrs. H. P. Griffin. Fourth flight, 1:30, Mrs. C. W. Griffin vs. Mrs. Max Taylor; 1:35, Mrs. W. C. Hackman vs. Mrs. R. M. Brown.

Congressional.

Mrs. J. O. Rhyne uncorked a sparkling brand of golf yesterday to down Mrs. J. Dowdall, 4 and 3, for the Congressional Country Club women's championship. The match was closely contested throughout the fairways, but the heavy drizzle that diluted the atmosphere had an adverse effect on Mrs. Dowdall's putting, which was the deciding factor. The runner-up 3-putted numerous times, while her opponent's play continued steady on the heavy greens.

Mrs. Awalt defeated Mrs. McCarthy, 3 and 2, to annex first flight consolation honors.

Woodmont.

The annual field day of the Woodmont Club will be held tomorrow, beginning with an 18-hole medal play tournament in the morning. Lunch will be served at 2 o'clock. Following that, there will be a driving, putting and approaching contest for men and women. Jack Redmond will give an exhibition of trick shots at 5:30, which will be followed by dinner and dancing.

The qualifying round of the Woodmont Club championship will be played September 25.

The mixed two-ball championship of the Maryland Golf Association will be played at the Suburban Club in Baltimore next Tuesday. Entries must be in by Monday.

There will be a pro sweepstakes tournament at Beaver Dam Monday.

Next Week's Wrestling Program Is Rearranged

The regular Thursday night grimace and groan fete, which was drizzled out this week, will be presented next week with a few changes in the cast. Wladek Zbyszko, the Old Man of the Marrow Maulers, is still on the program, but has been relegated to a minor position in a 30-minute time limit tussle with Milo Steinborn.

Two hiss and boo provokers—George Zaharias and Gino Garibaldi—are sharing top honors, but not against each other. Zaharias will engage Jim McMillan in a 2-hour spat and Garibaldi will attempt to outrough Sol Slagel in another quarrel carded for the same distance.

Other 30-minute bouts will find Cliff Olsen opposing Paul Boesch and Dr. Karl Sarpolis massaging the muscles of Herb Freeman.

By Jean Monk

WE are in the midst of the chumming and trolling season. The large alewives, used for chumming, are plentiful. One of the best chumming fields in the bay is out of Galesville, Shady Side, Herring Bay. Trolling should be good from Kenwood Beach, Governor Run. Trout fishing ought to be at its best at Solomons.

The Point Lookout and Point No Point fishing grounds have shifted to the Middles, about 2 miles further out and 3 or 4 miles further south than the popular holes of the summer. A letter from Capt. Brady McKay, September 10, says:

"Bluefish are running strong. Wednesday Mr. Roland McKay, of Vallee, with two gentlemen from Baltimore, caught 47 blues, weighing from 2 to 4 pounds each, and 2 Boston mackerel, weighing 12 pounds each, trolling.

Bring in Haul of 84.

"Friday Capt. Dick Summers, with a party from Winchester, Va., caught 84 blues, chumming, at Southwest Middles.

"Saturday Mr. C. E. Rabbitt, with Mr. Tom Jones, Carr and Smith, all of Washington, caught 52 large blues, chumming (over 250 pounds of bluefish), and 3 Boston mackerel. They were very large.

"Sunday some very nice trout were caught early in the morning not far from shore, in shallow water.

"There seems to be plenty of blues at Southwest Middles as some others have had some nice catches, and there are a few mackerel. Seems like it is the best now. It takes about an hour and fifteen minutes to go. We have not caught much at the deep hole since the storm of August 23."

Are Game Fish.

The reader will note that Cap. Brady calls these new fish "Boston mackerel." At Reedville and south, and up the Atlantic seaboard as far as Ocean City, they are called "bonitos." They are a game fish of the first magnitude and seldom come under 10 pounds in weight.

This column, May 10, this year, said: "Reedville lies across the mouth of the Potomac and a few miles down the bay on the Virginia side . . . Out of Reedville the fishermen may catch the Spanish bonito, gamest of all game fish, weighing from 10 to 35 pounds, later in midseason." Capt. Brady's report turns this prophecy into history.

Boatmen from Reedville chum and troll from Tangier Island, 12 miles southeast from Reedville, north and northwest to the Middles ground, 12 to 14 miles eact of Point Lookout, and back again. This section of the bay, at the present writing, is the "hot spot" for chumming and trolling. Here many large bluefish and the big, new game fish, the bonito (Boston mackerel), are being caught.

Tall Timbers rockfish seem to have gone into another coma. Possibly a temporary one, but a coma nevertheless. And neither love, money nor whole soft, juicy crabs, will attract them until they snap out of it. They are a temperamental set, those rockfish. They have all the characteristics of spoilt wives—either pouting or trying to eat you up. They work best in chilly atmospheres—I mean the rockfish.

Frank Del Vecchio, bait and tackle merchant who introduced these big fish to Washington anglers, says four men returned from Piney Point early this week in a rage. They picked up an idle boatman who took them out for four hours and charged them $15.00 for their buggy ride. Better watch your step.

Capt. J. L. Goldsborough and his associate captains charge only $1 per head for four hours, or 25 cents an hour, during the days and $1.50 a person at night. If you go to Piney Point to try your luck for the big rockfish, have an understanding with the boatman as to price before you start. If he attempts to "soak" you, look around for another boatman. There are quite a number of them at Piney Point Shores if all are engaged at Piney Point.

$10 Overcharge Claimed.

J. K. ("Jimmy") Simons, of the Arcadia Bowling Alleys, says he and eight companions fished from 4 till 9 a. m. recently at Solomons. Capt. George Bowen furnished three dozen peelers and handed them a bill for $21. That's $10 more than they should have paid.

About this time last year Editor C. C. Weidemann, of the U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey, and eight companions went to Solomons on a trip similar to the one just mentioned and paid Capt. George Bowen $26 for their experience. They claim he charged them $10 too much.

Robert Kirtland took his father, Lieut. Comdr. F. B. Kirtland, and his mother on a bass-hunting trip Friday and again Sunday to Seneca Falls. They landed three bass Friday weighing about a pound apiece and something the same weight that looked like a perch. Robert says he saw several bigmouth bass where they got their live bait that looked to be in the 6-pound class. They were caught by others.

Plane Falls, Jockey Hurt

Doncaster, England, Sept. 15 (AP). Jockey Gordon Richards, who rode five races today at Doncaster, was slightly injured, and his pilot, George Pennington, was killed as the airplane in which they were flying to London crashed soon after taking off. Richards is one of the leading jockeys of the English turf.

Return of Training Table Aim Of Big Ten Football Coaches

CHICAGO, Sept. 15 (AP).—The football training table, banned by the Big Ten grid officials after causing a storm that almost shattered the conference, may come back with all its trimmings and boarding house reaches.

Almost every Big Ten coach, together with football-minded medical men who figure the athletes aren't getting enough nutritious food during their training period, are for the return of the table where the gridiron hopefuls can eat from regulated menus at the expense of their universities.

Bob Zuppke, veteran University of Illinois coach, revived the argument for the training tables this week and a survey of the conference coaches showed a large majority favored its reestablishment, some claiming that players with modest means often went hungry after a hard drill or ate unwholesome food.

"I've found that several players have to eat on about 15 cents a day," Coach Zuppke said, "and, naturally, that isn't right when one considers how much time they devote to football. I'm for the training table and I think the evils of years ago have vanished."

"It would be a good idea to reestablish training tables for football men," replied Coach "Doc" Spears of Wisconsin. "I believe we have outlived the evils of the old-time training tables and feel it would be fine to assure each athlete at least one wholesome meal a day."

"Last year, many players were actually not getting enough to eat to keep them in condition," he said. "In one case, three men on the Iowa squad were living in two rooms, cooking their own meals, trying to save money and stay in school."

Cissell Is Recoverying

New York, Sept. 15 (AP).—Chalmer (Bill) Cissell, second baseman of the Cleveland Baseball team who was operated on for appendicitis last night, today was reported recovering "satisfactorily."

Carolan, Grid Captain at G. U., Quits

Star End Decides Not to Return; New Election Planned at Hilltop.

TOM CAROLAN, who was to captain the Hoya eleven this season, has definitely decided not to return to Georgetown, it was learned yesterday. Carolan's decision not to continue in college deprives the Hilltop team not only a captain, but leaves a vacancy at end.

Dick Murphy, Steve Muti, Mike Chappa and Stan Alenty are possible contenders for the open end berths, with Muti perhaps having the inside track for a regular end position, if dental troubles do not keep him on the bench.

A new captain will be elected some time prior to the opening of the grid season, on a date to be announced later.

Game Today at C. U.

The Catholic U. grid squad will engage in a public workout today that offers all the features of a regulation game as two factions of the team, known as the "Reds" and the Blacks," clash at 2 o'clock.

John Jankowski, right half back and team captain, has been appointed leader of the "Reds," and Eddie White, center, will captain the "Blacks." Regular officials will officiate, and regulation periods will be observed.

Lansburgh and Hecht Nines to Clash Sunday

The second game of the Department Store League championship series between Lansburgh's and Hecht's will be played at 10:30 a. m. Sunday on diamond No. 4 of the Monument lot.

The Hecht team, second half winners, swamped Lansburgh's, the first half champions, 14-3, in the first game of the series, played last week. The Lansburgh aggregation probably will start its star southpaw, Charley Vance, against Hecht Sunday. Irving Bowman also is a strong pitching choice.

The Hecht mound position again will be turned over to Paul Messink, who hurled his teammates to victory last week. A second victory for him would give his team the store league pennant.

Dunlap Plays Marston in Finals

from a trap and canned an 18-footer for his half. On the home green he nabbed his birdie 3 from 15 feet, and went to lunch, 1 up.

Knocks In Foe's Ball.

Stymied on the twenty-second, Little knocked his foe's ball into the cup for a birdie 3 to become 3 down. Two putts, both from approximately 8 feet, gave Dunlap a 5-up lead going to the twenty-fifth—three birdies—3—2—4—in a row. At the turn Dunlap was still 5 up.

Little, however, came to life on the twenty-eighth and twenty-ninth, sinking putts from 30 and 10 feet for birdies to become 3 down. On the thirty-first, a dog-leg, Dunlap made what he said was his best shot of the day. His tee shot struck the rough, and he played a brilliant spoon shot through a lane of trees to within 36 feet from the pin, getting his par 4 and a half. This seemed to break Little's morale, for he dumped his second into a trap on the thirty-second, exploded over the green, doubled his fourth, and later conceded the hole.

Even After First Nine.

Marston apparently is playing in old-time form. He was even with Munger rounding the turn in the morning, lost the tenth to a par 4 but planted a spade second 10 feet from the eleventh hole, and got his putt for a birdie to even the struggle. Munger never threatened thereafter, for the Philadelphia broker went 1 up by taking the twelfth, 2 up by winning the thirteenth, lost the sixteenth and won the eighteenth, to finish the first 18 2 up. Save for two holes, the twenty-fifth, where he canned a 4-footer for a birdie; the twenty-sixth, where he pounded in a 15-footer from the back edge for a half, Munger played indifferent golf in the afternoon, lacking the flashing shots that hoisted him to victory over such rivals as Frank English, H. Chandler Egan and Jack Westland. Marston was 4 over par for 31 holes.

Dunlap will rule the favorite in tomorrow's 36-hole finals, the morning round of which will start at 10 a. m., Eastern standard time. On his way to the finals, Dunlap whipped W. R. McCullough, Abingdon, Pa., 6 and 5; Gus Moreland, 4 and 3, and Eddie Held, 6 and 5. Marston beat Craig Krayenduhl, Louisville, Ky., 6 and 4; Willie Turnesa, 2 up, and Sidney Noyes, 1 up, 38 holes.

Daily Rain Story, Fights Included

Rain yesterday scored a double knockout at the expense of the Fort Washington and Twin City fight clubs, forcing postponements of both scheduled cards. The Fort will run Monday, in direct competition with the new Alexandria Elks fight promotion enterprise. Twin City will operate Wednesday with a new bill, headed by a ten-rounder between Pete Sarron and Charley Von Reedon.

The Fort Washington card will be headed by eight-rounders between Roddy Davis and Maxie Koshover and Carey Wright and Pepper Young. Bob Lowry boxes Soldier Clarke in a six, and four-rounders between Soldier Shasburger and Doug Swetnam and Soldier Larkin and Mickey Lewis round out the bill.

The Alexandria Elks promoters are taking no chances with the elements, having dug themselves in for the winter. Their bouts will be presented inside in the Elks auditorium and will be headed by an eight-rounder between Henry Irving and K. O. Burns. Sixes between Kellar Crawford and Phil Furr and Tommy Thompson and Pete Bevans, backed by fours offering Doug Swetnam against Baltimore Harry Groves and Joe Green opposed to Feeby Shoemaker, will complete the card.

Charles Town Track Contract Is Awarded

Charles Town, W. Va., Sept. 15 (Spl.).—Bane Brown, secretary of Charles Town Horse Show Association, has received word from Joseph B. Boyle, secretary of the Shenandoah Jockey Club, that the contract for the building of the new race track here and the erecting of the new grand stand and other necessary buildings has been awarded to Eastern Engineers, Inc., and that this firm was moving its machinery at once to begin work on the project.

The track will be of the most modern design, three-quarters of a mile in length, with a quarter-mile chute, making 1 mile in all.

The grand stand will be of steel and concrete construction and will be steam-heated, with a seating capacity of 2,500, besides 100 boxes with a seating capacity of 1,000 more.

Other buildings will include a large clubhouse, secretary's office, and 10 barns with a capacity of 60 horses each.

Technicalities Ire Manager Sykes

G. P. O. Federals Barred From League Play-Off; Missed Meeting.

PHIL SYKES, manager of the G. P. O. Federals is waxing lachrymose — so lachrymose that his tears threaten to usurp the all-time precipitation record set by this summer's rainy weather. Mr. Sykes' weeping is brought about by the strange circumstances surrounding the barring of his charges from the play-off because he failed to show up for a meeting.

Three teams are competing in a six-game series to decide the winner of the Federal loop—Bookbinders, A. G. O. and Civil Service. The Bookbinders finished first in the first half and third in the second half. The A. G. O. team finished last in the first half and first in the second half. Civil Service finished third and last in the two halves.

The G. P. O. nine finished second in both halves of the race, but is not permitted to participate in the play-off. So Mr. Sykes is waxing lachrymose—and asking that the cups awarded the winners not be given out until the "league is aired out."

Defensive Bidding on Opponents' Suit.

Bids in the opponents' suit are usually made as strong Slam tries. In addition to promising control of the suit they also guarantee a great deal of strength and the possibility of reaching a makable Slam contract. Every now and then, however, one of these bids is made for defensive purposes. In cases like these the original bidders of the suit, if they are alert, usually realize that they are in danger and refrain from bidding any more. Sometimes, however, these tactics are successful, as proved by the following hand. Mr. Franklin Bailey, of New York, was sitting East.

East, Dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

North: ♠ K 10 8; ♡ 8; ♢ A J 7 3; ♣ A J 10 9 5
West: ♠ 7 5 2; ♡ Q 5 3; ♢ 10 9 4; ♣ K 6 4 2
East (Mr. Bailey): ♠ 4 3; ♡ A K J 7 6 4; ♢ K Q 8 5 3; ♣ —
South: ♠ A Q J 9 6; ♡ 10 9 2; ♢ 6; ♣ Q 8 7 3

East	South	West	North
1♡	1♠(1)	Pass	3♣(2)
3♡(3)	4♣(4)	Pass	4♠(5)
5♣(6)	Dbl.(7)	5♡(8)	5♠(9)
Pass	Pass	Pass

2—With his partner able to make a vulnerable Overcall the game must be certain. North is justified in shading the requirements for his bid.

3—Mr. Bailey chose at this point to rebid the hearts rather than bid the diamonds as he wanted to bid the latter suit later and allow his partner a choice. By bidding diamonds he might force himself to rebid hearts at the range of five.

6—This is an extremely brilliant bid, although somewhat dangerous. It is apparent that the opponents have a game and that this game can be defeated only by unusual means. If a heart is opened against five spades, Mr. Bailey can see very little hope of defeating this contract; with a club Opening, however, there is a chance. If doubled, his plan was to go to five diamonds, offering his partner a choice between diamonds and hearts.

7—Rather a pointless gesture.

8—West finally decides that it is time to show his partner that he holds adequate trump support.

9—North should have read the danger signals and doubled, but he was loath to give up a vulnerable game for a penalty the size of which was very doubtful.

In the play, Mr. Bailey's highest expectations were fulfilled. West opened a club as per orders and Mr. Bailey ruffed. His troubles were not over, however, as he was now forced to lead a low heart, hoping against hope that his partner held the Queen. As it happened his partner did hold the Queen and Mr. Bailey was allowed to ruff a second round of clubs. Five spades was therefore defeated 1 trick.

Of course, five hearts is a rather disastrous contract. If a singleton diamond is openedNorth and South must take the Ace of diamonds, 2 spade tricks and 2 ruffs in diamonds. However, this would only be a penalty of 450, which would not be such a terrible save as against a vulnerable game. Although Mr. Bailey's bidding was undoubtedly very ambitious, he was certainly entitled to his reward.

Walt Mason, Himself

Mme. Roland.

"Oh, Liberty," she cried, "what crimes are done in they sweet name," then died, a victim of her times, which made of death a game. "A woman of heroic mold," we think of her and speak, "like those majestic dames of old in epics of the Greek." And yet she spent her useful life in doing humble chores; as daughter, mother, and as wife, she swept the kitchen floors. She cooked her ailing husband's meals, year after year the same, and listened to his frantic spiels when indigestion came. She cured the bacon in the fall and smoked the luscious ham and dried the pumpkins, large and small, and put up the pots of jam. She had no servant in her shack to do the heavy tasks, to carry bundles there and back, and move the kegs and casks. And when she had a minute off, a half an hour to spare, she read a book by some wise toff, and found her comfort there. She had so wonderful a head that she was thought a freak; as she remembered all she read, her knowledge was unique. And she could talk with savants wise, with learning's uncrowned kings, with all those supernormal guys who deal in abstract things. But as for her heroic stunt she was not trained at all; she merely stepped up to the front when doom sent in its call.

No point to that; just for the records.

Norman Bel Geddes invented a mechanical game of miniature horse racing. Although he operated it, his horses rarely won and he lost so many bets that he stopped playing it. Just a Frankenstein.

Two Arrested As Bailey Aids In Jail Break

Dallas, Tex., Sept. 15 (AP).—Tom Manion, assistant Dallas County jailer, and C. B. Bevill, were arrested late today and charged with aiding a prisoner to escape in connection with the break of Harvey Bailey, gunman, September 4.

Manion and Bevill were arraigned and held for action of the Federal grand jury under bonds of $10,000.

Bailey, held for the kidnaping of Charles F. Urchel, Oklahoma City oil man, used a smuggled pistol to get by jailers. He cut his way out of his cell with hack saw blades.

Descending six floors to the jail office, he kidnaped a jailer and commandeering a motor car, sped northward. Four hours later, after a wild dash over side roads, he was recaptured at Ardmore, Okla. He was taken to Oklahoma City.

Methods of compiling living-cost data as a base for Government pay-cut adjustments are being refurbished and brought up to date, following conferences between President Roosevelt and Secretary of Labor Perkins.

Both the President and Miss Perkins consider the present index unrepresentative of living problems, it was plainly stated yesterday at the White House.

The index is based largely on purchases made by Labor Department agents twice a year in 32 different American cities. Each time the same articles are purchased and the rise and decline in the price of the items duly recorded.

The President bases his criticism of the system on the outmoded nature of the purchases. As an example of this, the White House has been informed that one of the items listed for semiannual purchasing is woman's high-buttoned shoes. Few, if any, family budgets would include such an article, hence the revision.

Jews Will Greet Their Year 5694

Horn Blasts to Hail Rosh Hashanah Wednesday.

Washington Jews yesterday prepared to observe Rosh Hashanah, or New Year's, which will start Wednesday at sundown. The holiday inaugurates the year 5694 of the Jewish calendar. Blowing of the shofar, a ram's horn, will be a feature of the celebration.

The days between Rosh Hashanah and the Day of Atonement are called the Ten Days of Penitence, during which members of the faith reflect upon and repair the wrongs done during the year.

Mother Seeks $10,000 In Son's Crash Death

Suit for $10,000, growing out of the death of Francis Kenney, 928 C street southwest, in September, 1932, was filed yesterday by his mother, Mrs. Mary Josephine Tippett. The action, in District Supreme Court, was directed against Herbert A. Whitney, 127 Glebe road, Arlington County.

Mrs. Tippett declared her son died of injuries received in an automobile collision at Tenth street and Maryland avenue southwest, caused by Whitney passing a stop sign.

Oldest Oasis Slips Into History Pages

The cheese and bologna filled showcases of the delicatessen are shortly to succeed this famous bar—in continuous operation since 1866. P. Franklin Scott, "barkeep" for 33 years at Moran's, 3009 M street northwest, is shown (upper) sadly viewing the glistening mahogany across which many a sparkling glass was slid prior to prohibition. The bar is in one of Washington's oldest buildings, pictured below.

After Years of Hope, Bar Owner Quits Few Days Too Soon.

A building 135 years old, in which resided one of the first mayors of Georgetown, houses Washington's oldest continuously operated buffet-saloon, which was first established by Michael F. Moran back in 1866.

Today the barroom, at 3009 M street northwest, over the counter of which untold quantities of choice liquor flowed to four generations, is falling before workmen's hammers to make way for a delicatessen store.

Since its establishment 67 years ago Moran's Buffet was a by-word to Georgetown's thirsty. It was the last word in modern saloons. A flourishing business was continued through the time of Michael F. Moran and continued with equal success by his son, Michael V. Moran, 3127 N street northwest.

With the advent of prohibition saloons disappeared overnight, but Moran's continued on. Drinks were moderated within the law and the menu consisted largely of hot dogs and near-beer. Moran turned down several offers for the property. Liquor was sure to come back. Over 10 years passed, but still no whisky. Finally Moran gave up and sold the property a few days before the beer bill was passed.

Aviation Day Here Slated October 28

100 Planes Will Take Part in Varied Events.

National Aviation Day will be observed in Washington October 28, under plans approved by the Washington Air Derby Association.

A tentative program calls for formation flying and other events by about 100 commercial, private and military planes. C. H. Warrington, association president, said President Roosevelt will be invited to review the events.

A committee has been named to select the person in Washington who accomplished the most outstanding feat in aviation during the last year.

Paving, Heating Contracts Given

E Street Surfacing and Plant Repairs Let.

Two contracts were let yesterday by the District Commissioners.

One was for an NRA financed project—the paving of E street northwest from Fifteenth street to Executive avenue—and the other for repairs to the heating plant at Lorton Reformatory.

McGuire and Rolfe, of Washington, will get the street job with their bid of $44,801. The heating plant will be repaired by Frederick Page Construction Co., of New York, for $15,018.

Siren Sleuths!

Supersleuth police reporters have solved a mystery! Yes, sir, and what a mystery!

For days they have been aroused intermittently from their one-eye slumber by a screeching homicide car siren. Frantic calls to the "desk" brought answers that the cars were not out. Reporters believed they were being "taken for a ride."

The mysterious siren was heard yesterday in the alley behind police headquarters. The reporters rushed out and turned their news noses toward the sound. The trail took them to the police garage at Sixth and C streets northwest, where they found employes experimenting with a new type of siren.

"Ah," said the wise reporters, "we knew there was nothing to it."

Wives' Ouster Unfair to War Heroes, Claim

Declaring dismissal unnecessary and injurious to disabled veterans, John Arthur Shaw, acting department commander of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War, last night condemned the adjutant general's office for discharging 50 of the trained personnel.

Shaw declared records of the adjutant general's office "have never been sufficiently up to date to make it possible for the disabled veteran to obtain information to which he is entitled in pressing his claim."

"It is a well-known fact," the statement continued, "that the disability allowance act was passed because thousands of veterans with service-connected disabilities were unable to prove their claims on account of the incomplete records in the adjutant general's office."

The 50 employes of the adjutant general's office received their notices Thursday, effective October 15. Practically all are married women whose husbands are on the Government pay rolls in the War Department or other branches. The dismissals have been approved by Secretary of War Dern. Only the routine step of submitting the names to the Civil Service Commission remains before the order becomes binding. No question of efficiency is involved.

The dismissal action was taken, it was said, after full consideration had been given to protests by the American Federation of Labor, the National Federation of Government Employes and numerous members of Congress.

5-Man Commission Asked for District

Senator Thomas Makes Counter Proposal.

Instead of a one-man form of government for the District, Senator Elmer Thomas, of Oklahoma, would increase the number of Commissioners to five, selected to represent different parts of the city.

That was his counter yesterday to plans for concentrating authority in a city manager.

"I would not object to the present arrangement of having Commissioners appointed by the President," he said, "but all parts of the city should have a voice on the board."

Hamilton Directors Plan Opening Date

Date for opening Hamilton National Bank may be decided at a meeting of the directors today. Selection of the date will depend on time required for a tabulation of securities transferred from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to the new bank. If this can be done within a week, Monday, September 25, is indicated as the probable opening date.

Details of a plan of Col. Wade H. Cooper, president United States Savings Bank, to reopen that institution independently, will be discussed at a conference of Cooper's counsel and Deputy Comptroller of the Currency Gibbs Lyon today. J. W. Staggers, of Cooper's counsle, indicated yesterday the plan had been favorably received at the Treasury Department.

Lay-Off Halts Work on Two U. S. Buildings

Construction Will Await Settlement of Strike Over Radiators.

Unable to break the deadlock between carpenters and steel workers, as to which should install radiator inclosures, James Stewart & Co., Inc., general contractors, yesterday announced work on the new Labor and Interstate Commerce buildings would be suspended until the crafts reach an agreement. About 1,000 workmen were paid and given notice of an indefinite layoff.

The buildings were to have been ready for occupancy in February. The exterior work is finished, with the exception of small sections in the roof.

Trouble among the workmen, brewing for several months, became acute September 1, when 75 carpenters walked out because radiator inclosures were installed by steel workers.

"It was a last resort, this layoff," Edward A. Burnap, construction superintendent, said.

Shoals Power Held Cheaper Than in City

Electric rates in Washington would be from 23 to 61 per cent lower if the city had the schedule provided by Muscle Shoals power, David E. Lilienthal, of the Tennessee Valley Authority, said yesterday.

The authority set a maximum rate of 3 cents a kilowatt hour for small users. It will release power at wholesale rates low enough to enable retailers to sell it at that cost, he said.

The urban rates proposed by the authority are: First 50 kilowatt hours, 3 cents; next 150 kilowatt hours, 2 cents; next 200 kilowatt hours, 1 cent; over 400 kilowatt hours, .4 cent.

Comparing this rate with the District's rate, as set forth in the rate book of the National Electric Light Association, Lilienthal made up the following comparative table of monthly bills.

K.W.H. used	District rate	T.V.A. rate	T.V.A. rate lower by
50.....	$1.95	$1.50	23%
200.....	6.85	4.50	34%
400.....	12.85	6.50	49%
600.....	18.85	7.30	61%

Accused of Practicing Without License, Doctor Gives Up.
